U. S. Air Toll Climbs

SAIGON (AP) — Punishing U.S. air blows battered Hanoi and Haiphong without any indication of a letup today, and American casualties soared to their highest level in 19 months.

The U.S. Command reported the loss Thursday of two more B52 heavy bombers and two more fighter-bombers, with 16 more crewmen missing. This raised the toll since the massive attack began Monday night to eight B52, four fighter-bombers and 43 airmen.

It was the heaviest toll in U.S. personnel since the week of May 23-29, 1971, when 56 Americans were reported killed in action or missing.

Radio Hanoi claimed a total of 34 American planes downed, including three more B52s and two fighter-bombers at dawn today. It has reported a number of airmen captured but has given no total.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency said that air strikes Wednesday and Thursday damaged the main American prisoner of war camp which the POWs have nicknamed the "Hanoi Hilton." The report said a number of the prisoners were injured and added that many U.S. airmen captured this week had been sent to the camp.

The broadcast said singer Joan Baez, attorney Telford Taylor and two other American peace activists now in Hanoi visited the camp and inspected the damage.

Communist China claimed that one of its merchant ships was damaged in Haiphong harbor during a raid Wednesday and its crew "gravely endangered." The Peking government said it "strongly protests this provocation on the part of U.S, imperialism and is closely watching the development of expanding U.S. war activities."

Hanoi reported earlier that the bombing damaged the Cuban and Egyptian embassies in Hanoi, sank a Polish ship in Haiphong and damaged a Soviet ship.

North Vietnam has reported sections of Hanoi and Haiphong leveled, entire villages wiped out and hundreds of civilians killed or wounded. Although the Pentagon and the U.S. Command maintain that only military targets are being hit, American officials have acknowledged that some of these are in close proximity to population centers. In addition, the B52s drop their bomb loads — 30 tons each — in a saturation, carpet-type pattern aiming at widespread devastation rather than pinpoint accuracy.

President Awaits Reply By Thieu

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon receives today South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's responses on a reported threat to cut off aid to Saigon if Thieu refuses to sign a peace agreement.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., Nixon's deputy assistant for national security affairs, arrived at Homestead Air Force Base south of Miami shortly after 7 a.m. EST after spending four days in conference with Thieu and other South Vietnamese leaders.

Later in the day, Haig was to meet with Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger at the bayfront compound here where the President and his wife are spending the Christmas holidays.

The presidential emissary was "bringing communications with him from President Thieu," said White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who confirmed that Haig had carried a private letter to Thieu from Nixon.

Ziegler refused to discuss contents of the letter. Nor would he confirm or deny reports quoting ranking South Vietnamese officials as saying that after the Paris peace talks broke off Dec. 13 Nixon gave North Vietnam an ultimatum of 72 hours to sign an agreement or face heavy air and naval attacks.

The South Vietnamese officials also said Nixon's letter to Thieu threatened a cutoff of U.S. military and economc aid if Thieu refused to sign such an agreement.

Ziegler refused to discuss either of the reported ultimatums, saying he would not comment "on speculation or rumors that are coming from various capitals."

He also repeated that the United States would stay in touch with North Vietnamese negotiators through an exchange of messages, but he would not elaborate.

The President talked several times by telephone Thursday with Kissinger, who is staying at a villa several blocks from Nixon's compound. The foreign affairs adviser will leave Florida after today's meetings with Nixon and Haig to spend Christmas with his children, Ziegler said.

Nixon and his wife Pat went dining and dancing Thursday night, accompanied by Florida neighbor C. G. Rebozo and his date Jane Lucke.

As the band at the Key Biscayne Hotel restaurant struck up "On the Street Where You Live," the President asked startled 11-year-old Sherri Sexton to go for a spin around the dance floor.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Sexton of Newport News, Va., said the chief executive "is a good dancer."

Christmas Neurosis Strikes Many, Psychiatrist Claims

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Merry Christmas? Not for uncounted thousands of Americans who suffer "Christmas neurosis" during the holidays, says a leading mental health expert.

"The Christmas season is marked by greater emotional stress and more acts of violence than any other time of the year," Dr. J.M. Stubblebine said Thursday. He is director of the California Department of Mental Hygiene Department.

Despondency can be a holiday season phenomenon for many who have no history of mental problems, Stubblebine said.

"Christmas results in intensification of conflicts, in a reawakening of sibling rivalries and competition for parental favor," Stubblebine said in an interview Thursday.

"It is a time when emotions are loosed and memories come flooding back, a time of happiness but, for some, a time of deep sorrow."

Lonely people are generally most susceptible, he said, adding that increased drinking that often goes along with the holiday spirit can accentuate the situation.

Stubblebine cited one case from the years when he was a practicing psychiatrist.

"This was a fairly large family of which one member had been overtly mentally ill.

"The father became a little tipsy while the family was decorating the tree on Christmas Eve. He fell into the tree and knocked it over. Not only was the tree in shambles, but the whole celebration.

"The symbolic effect of this is terribly important. The father becomes incompetent and destroys the major symbol of the holiday.

"The next day, one of the kids with no previous problem was hospitalized for a breakdown."

Area Churches Announce Special Christmas Plans

Throughout the world Christians will usher in Christmas Day with church services on the eve of Christ's birth. During Advent, preparations have been made for the celebration of the birth and the beginning of the new church year. Special events and sermon topics for area churches are listed.

A candlelight service is scheduled for 11 p.m. Christmas Eve at Heidelberg United Church of Christ in Stoutsville.

"Christmas Giving" is the sermon theme selected for Sunday morning at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. There will be no evening service. All committees and commissions for program planning and reorganization will meet 7 p.m. Thursday and the council on ministry meets at 8 p.m.

Christmas Eve services Sunday at St. Philip's Episcopal Church include the Family Christmas Eucharist at 10:30 a.m. with leadership for the service provided by the Youth Group, and a Festival Holy Communion Service with pre-service music beginning at 11 p.m. The Youth Group will sponsor a Christmas party for the parish following the morning service. The Rev. F. Beaumont Stevenson of Oxford, England will be guest preacher at the evening service and will assist in the morning. The Rev. Mr. Stevenson, originally from Circleville, has served as a priest of the Episcopal Church in Columbus, Ohio; Zambia, Africa, and currently in Oxford University. Also on Sunday an early service of Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8:15 a.m. and Christian Education at 9:30.

"Happy Saturnalia" is the sermon theme selected for Sunday morning at First Presbyterian Church. A Christmas Eve Communion service will begin at 7:30 p.m. with the sermon theme "They Came To Bethlehem." There will be a training session for the newly elected elders and deacons 9:15 a.m. Sunday in the pastor's study.

"Unto Us A, Child Is Born" is the sermon topic for Sunday morning at First Baptist Church. The Christmas Eve Communion will begin at 7 p.m.

The Ashville Village United Methodist Church Choir will be presenting the cantata, "The Wonder Of Christmas" at the candlelight service of the church 11 p.m. Christmas Eve. Directing the 36 voice choir will be Mrs. Robert Gregory. Accompanists are Mrs. Chet Peters and Mrs. David Dill. Narrator is Mrs. Fred Engle. Soloists are Robert Gregory, Mrs. Gene Houser, Mrs. Warren Bastian, Mrs. Tom Purcell, Gene Houser and John Swingle. Following the cantata the traditional candle lighting will be observed with the singing of "Silent Night."

The Children's Christmas Program will begin 9:30 a.m. Sunday at the Church of the Brethren. The morning worship topic is "The Heart Of Christmas." The church will be open from 2-8 p.m. for Family Communion on Christmas Eve.

"A King Was Troubled" is the theme selected for the sermon Sunday morning at Trinity Lutheran Church. The sermon theme for the 11 p.m. Christmas Eve Candlelight Service is "The Christmas Challenge."

Sunday morning the sermon topic at Calvary United Methodist Church will be "The Christ For Today." Candelight Communion Service will begin 7 p.m. Christmas Eve.

Ashville Church Of Christ In Christian Union will have its Christmas Eve service beginning 7:30. A play will be presented by the young people of the church.

Truman's Condition Improves

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman continues to react favorably to treatment for his weakened kidneys, exhibiting what doctors describe as "remarkable strength" and a tenacity for life.

Research Hospital and Medical Center reported Thursday that the 88-year-old Truman, now hospitalized 17 days, showed slow improvement and that his body chemistry was becoming more normal.

But the former chief executive was still listed in very serious condition and remained in a semiconscious state.

"We believe that we have begun a favorable trend," said his personal physician, Dr. Wallace Graham.

Bad Weather Covers Much Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The eastern third of the nation endured a variety of inclemencies today while the Northwest battened down for another blast from a Pacific storm.

Skies were fair to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Freezing rain warnings were posted in parts of Connecticut and Massachusetts and rain — in some places, heavy rain — fell from New York to the Gulf. Tampa, Fla., reported a soaking of more than 2 inches.

Farther inland, extensive fog compounded by rain and drizzle prompted travelers warnings in northern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and southern New England.

In the Northwest, storm warnings along the Oregon and Washington coasts and gale warnings for northern California heralded renewed rain and high winds. Travelers advisories were issued for northern Idaho and Montana west of the continental divide.

Badly-Burned Farmer Goes Home Today For Christmas

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A 62-year-old farmer, hospitalized in virtual isolation since last June when a tractor accident left his upper body covered with flaming gasoline, goes home today for Christmas.

And, if the nurses who "adopted" Michael Kish have their way, there might even be indoor plumbing at his Backus, Minn., farm home before his six-day visit ends.

Nurses at University of Minnesota Hospital's Station 42 pooled their money, bought a bundle of gifts and arranged for Kish to travel the 150 miles home to see his wife and six children, the oldest 10.

Except for one visit his wife managed to make, Kish has been completely separated from his family and without visitors since the accident.

"He's really had a terrible time," said Katherine Hokanson, one of the surgical nurses. "Most of his time with us — and until this month — he was in isolation."

The nurses, who took a liking to Kish and stopped by his room to chat whenever they could, originally planned to give him gifts.

Then one day, they decided instead to try to arrange a Christmas for the family, complete with a trip home for Kish.

Since Kish has been hospitalized, the family has had to sell the few head of cattle he kept.

The nurses learned that the family needed almost everything, from sheets and clothing to toys and kitchen utensils and items such as these will be among the gifts gathered by the ladies in white with the aid of hospital volunteers and social and rehabilitation workers.

Transportation home for Kish was the next task. They recruited Lt. Ronald Cuny, a Navy Reserve chaplain assigned to the Marine Reserve at Ft. Snelling.

The chaplain arranged for a Marine to pick up Kish and the gifts at the hospital, drive him to Backus and then return him to the hospital Wednesday for more treatment.

As for Kish's future, Dr. Glen J. Gullickson Jr., rehabilitation director at the hospital, hopes Kish will be ready to go home for good by early February.

Gullickson says he thinks Kish will recover near-normal use of his arms and hands, enough for farming good land but possibly not enough for the rugged farming of the northern Minnesota area near Backus.

Argentine Investigators Rip Clements

WASHINGTON (AP) — Argentine investigators, in a 1964 report denouncing foreign oil corporations, said a company headed by William P. Clements Jr. paid commissions that were "illicit and contrary to the public morals" to obtain one of the largest drilling contracts in history.

Clements, 55, has been nominated by President Nixon to be deputy secretary of defense, No. 2 position in the Pentagon with direct authority over defense contracting.

The Dallas multimillionaire, chairman of Sedco, Inc., a worldwide drilling company, could not be reached for comment on the Argentine report.

But Sedco general counsel Tom B. Rhodes said it was put out by politicians and "politicians say any damn thing they please."

The report by a special investigating committee of the Argentine Chamber of Deputies said negotiations leading to contracts awarded Clements' company, then known as Southeastern Drilling Co., and other foreign oil corporations were conducted in a "frame of profound immorality and corruption."

The 1959-1963 contract between the government oil monopoly and Southeastern was one that the investigators said they gave special consideration because, they said, there was evidence of illicit commissions which "in this type of operation normally is hard to nail down."

Bloodmobile Visit Set Thursday

With the heavy demand for blood expected over the holidays the Red Cross urges donors to make a special point of giving blood next Thursday when the Bloodmobile will pay its final visit to Circleville in 1972.

The usual hours will be maintained — 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Community United Methodist Church.

In order to maintain total coverage for all residents and their immediate families of Pickaway County, it is necessary that all visits meet the quota of 125 pints. "Total Coverage" means, that if blood is needed, no predeposit or replacement is required, no matter how much blood is transfused.

In any case, no charge is ever made for the blood. "Immediate family" includes: spouse, dependent children, parents, grandparents, parents-in-law and grandparents-in-law, no matter where they live.

At this season of the year those who need life-giving blood, look to their community and Red Cross to provide this vital medicine which can be obtained nowhere but from a donor's veins, given in a spirit of generosity.

ARCHITECT'S PLANS—This is how Dittmar and Stubbs, architects for the Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School project, envision the school to be built on the Crouse Chapel Road property just east of Route 23 in Ross County. Their plans for the building were given a preliminary okay by the PRJVS board at its regular meeting Thursday in Kingston.

PRJVS Board Okays Layout

A review of the architects' plans for the new Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School was presented by the building committee Thursday and received approval of the board.

The board's plans for the new school has progressed to a point where a committee has been appointed to study possible names or means of selecting a name for the new building.

A layout of the building as proposed by the architects was presented at the meeting and received the boards approval as to general design, parking facilities and situation on the lot, located on the south side of Crouse Chapel Road to the west of the small church and cemetery.

Vocational Director Ralph Neal reported that the school programs, space allocations and equipment budget had been settled. The program will provide five general areas of study: agriculture, business, home economics, trade and industrial and distributive education.

Neal noted that it had been determined that 142,000 square feet is needed to house these programs and proposed an equipment budget to provide these areas of study amounting to $802,000.

Board President Nelson Stevens appointed a committee of Tom Elsea and Ralph Neal, working with chairman, Mrs. Joan Hess, to work out a method of choosing a name for the vocational school building. Most districts, Stevens noted, will select a name for the official jointure which may remain the name of the district but choose a new one to designate the school district.

Stevens gave an example noting the Hamilton vocational district has named its school Great Oaks.

Neal reported to the board that organization of craft committees was in progress. The groups of persons directly connected to different areas of study under the vocational program are to have their first meeting in January to help determine requirements in curriculum for the courses.

The total project budget—basic sources of funds for the construction project and their allocation—were reviewed by Superintendent Paul Hydell. These were projected as the district's needs for operation in 1973 and will be incorporated into the annual appropriation resolution which will be adopted at the boards reorganization meeting Jan. 2 at noon.

Derby Men Burned In Auto Explosion

Two Derby men suffered first and second degree burns 3:20 a.m. Friday morning when their car caught on fire while they were filling it with gasoline. Two other men, in the car, were not hurt.

Mrs. Norman Rowland, Route 1, Orient, reported the incident to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department when Robert H. Swift, 21, and James Sharon, 29, came to her door seeking help.

Deputy Jim Deal found that Swift's car had run out of fuel and they had purchased some from a farmer. While Swift was refueling the vehicle on the Circleville-London-Northern Road, Sharon apparently lighted a cigarette, igniting gas fumes.

The explosion knocked Swift 25 feet through the air into a ditch. He suffered head and hair burns. Sharon was treated for forearm burns.

The two men in the vehicle were Kit Harris, 20, Derby, and James Sparks, 42, Route 3, Mt. Sterling. Neither were injured, although the car sustained extensive fire damage. Deputy Deal said the fire extinguished itself.

Man Injured In Collision With Pole

Daniel E. Holley, 27, Gregory Trailer Court, Ashville, suffered a broken nose, forehead lacerations, lacerations to the inside of his mouth and bruised knees after he drove his car into an electric pole 11:25 p.m. Thursday.

Deputy J. Phillip Brown charged him with driving while intoxicated after investigating the single-car crash on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road, two-tenths of a mile south of Airbase Road.

He said Holley was southbound on the road when he veered off the right for nine feet and ran head-on into an electric pole.

Impact shattered the pole and sent a transformer crashing onto the top of the car, which was extensively damaged.

Bill Ammer Will Remain Hospitalized

Cleveland hospital officials have ruled out the possibility of Christmas in Circleville for William Ammer, judge of the Common Pleas Court.

Ammer has been hospitalized since Nov. 28 because of a ruptured appendix. Doctors indicate that the infection is under control but want to make sure before releasing the judge.

According to a brother, Judge Ammer will not likely be released until around New Years Day.

Uncooperative Weather

The devastating weather which has hit a number of midwest states in recent weeks has played havoc with crops. The loss is not yet counted, but it will be widespread and cover a number of commodities. Gone also may be the record harvests envisioned earlier in the year in such important cash crops as corn and soybean.

These crops have not shared significantly in the large orders received this year from the Soviet Union, and to a lesser degree Red China. But they might be on future shopping lists. All reports from Russia indicate its agriculture failures are major ones, with no improvement in sight.

This year the Soviets bought heavily in feed grains, while rationing staples like bread to the consumer. Next year the emphasis could be on a wider list of farm commodities.

The problem for the United States, Canada and other producing countries is to husband their agricultural resources wisely so they can not only meet domestic needs but continue producing surpluses for sale. Aberrations in climate complicate planning greatly.

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I lived and worked in Washington during the White House incumbency of Harry S. Truman, and wrote about him for Life magazine. Covering the activities of those years was a matter of ups and downs. I remember the period for the lesson that I absorbed, that it is extremely hazardous to try to anticipate the verdict of history about a President.

In this connection, let us consider the reputation of Richard Nixon. Currently, the opposition hopes to tar the President with "scandals" — ITT, the alleged deals in wheat, the Watergate bugging episode, et cetera. Maybe some of the mud will stick to various operators in the White House who owe their jobs to Nixon's favor. But if so, it will be a matter of deja vu.

Harry Truman was on a spot very similar to the one on which Nixon is now standing. Does anyone now remember the Five-Percenters of the Truman era? What does the name of John Maragon mean today? Did or did not Truman's military aide, General Harry Vaughan, accept good deep freezes, or were they merely worthless rejects? Did Lustron, a company making a prefabricated steel house that was beautifully enameled, get an unjustified loan from the RFC (Reconstruction Finance Corporation)? What about Ed Prichard, a Felix Frankfurter protege who was convicted of ballot box stuffing in Kentucky and later had his sentence commuted by Truman. Finally, who knocked the props out from under my old Classmate, Newbold Morris, who had been invited to Washington as a special assistant in the Department of Justice to investigate corruption?

Such were the "trees" that kept more than one writer from seeing the generally sound aboriculture of the forest during the A1dministrations of Harry Truman. It was difficult to consider the President a great man when the headlines were full of the tribulations of Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle, who had had to explain a commission he took on the sale of an airplane to somebody whose taxes were under investigation. The view of the White House was obstructed by cronies who were sometimes five feet deep, and not all of them were there to save democracy.

What we couldn't see at the time was that Harry Truman, with his nose deep in history books as well as in the cables from abroad, was no more to blame for what went on in obscure corners than many a President before him. In addition to firing General Douglas MacArthur, he fired T. Lamar Caudle. Truman had been the political beneficiary of the notorious Pendergast machine in Kansas City, but none of the Pendergast dirt had stuck to him.

After Truman's incredible victory in 1948, the outlines of a great Presidential epoch took shape. While a few Washington characters were walking off with deep freezes, Joe Stalin was trying to steal half the world along with the atomic secrets that would be necessary to keep it. Truman reacted to Stalin's design with the same courageous dispatch that had resulted in dropping the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima. The Marshall Plan, which saved Western Europe, was worked out in Truman's State Department. His Truman Doctrine was enunciated just in time to keep Greece, Turkey, and northern Iran from slipping behind the Iron Curtain after Britain's summary decision to withdraw its military and naval forces from the Middle East and the Mediterranean.

When Stalin closed the supply routes to West Berlin, Truman told General Lucius Clay to stand firm, and the Allied West Berlin sectors were saved by the U.S. air lift. In Korea, Harry Truman threw green U.S. troops into the line to prevent a Communist takeover. It was his good luck that his "police action" was validated by the United Nations in the absence of the Soviet Union, which might have vetoed the whole business if its representative had been on the premises to do it.

The revisionist historians are trying to take Harry Truman's greatness away from him by saying that he was responsible for the Cold War. If they succeed, the historians of the future will be compelled to fall back on the picture of a small-bore Missouri politican who couldn't handle his cronies. But it is ridiculous to suppose that the revisionists will get away with their nonsense. After all, the Marshall Plan millions were available to Czechoslovakia and the European East as well as to the West. Stalin vetoed the proposition, choosing to subvert and fight instead. Harry Truman had to respond as he did, with a maganificence that makes him one of our truly great Presidents.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost every investor understands that corporations, like every product of creation or manufacture, have a past, present and future, and that each must be considered in making a decision.

The past tells the investor about the company's record, the present discloses if it is being maintained. Both are important items, but it is the unknown, the future, that fascinates, for that is where the money is made.

There has never been a successful broker who kept his eye on only the past and present. The world of investments is meaningful only in the context of the future. Otherwise it is unreal.

Nevertheless, the official policy of the Securities and Exchange Commission for nearly 40 years has required corporations to list massive amounts of data on the past and present while refusing to record projections.

That policy may soon change, however. Hearings recently were concluded in Washington to consider abandonment of the old SEC policy and permit companies to record estimates of future earnings.

Policy recommendations often take weeks to formulate, but there is speculation that this will be a speedy decision. The matter is close to Chairman William Casey's heart, and he must soon leave for the State Department.

Revealed in the hearings were lawyers' fears of the legal consequences of projections, the concern of officers about standards to be used, the doubts of accountants as to their role and responsibility.

One of the most consistent products was misunderstanding. As Casey said in an interview last week:

"All we are doing is re-evaluating now our policy of prohibiting them. We are not demanding that forecasts be made. We are not going to mandate them. In my opinion, that is not a possibility nor is it desirable."

A far more likely solution will be to give companies the option to project or not to project, assuming that standards can be set so as to prevent flagrant abuses in the form of unrealistic goals.

Why then the furor? A good question and one that relates directly to the small investor and public confidence in the market place, which is now gradually being restored following one debacle after another.

As the chairman testified, "These projections are being put out now and they are being made available on a preferential basis." That is, they are being made unofficially or by informed brokers and offered to a favored few.

"No matter how one may theorize on this," Casey said at the hearings, "We have the reality that earnings estimates are made."

Moreover, he continued, "Investors and stock values do react to them, and fairness to investors may call for making them evenly available to all investors."

Rather than, it is suggested, to only a select list of insiders, analysts, big customers, creditors, subscribers to services and the like, who are then afforded an advantage in decision making.

Today In History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1894, French army officer Alfred Dreyfus was found guilty of treason in a court-martial which inflamed world opinion. Dreyfus was a victim of anti-Semitism.

On this date:

In the year 69, Roman Emperor Vitellius was assassinated.

In 1696, the founder of the colony of Georgia, James Oglethorpe, was born in London.

In 1775, the Continental naval fleet of seven vessels was organized.

In 1790, Russian troops captured Ismail, Russia, from the Turks.

In 1942, in World War II, the Japanese-occupied city of Rangoon, Burma, was struck by American bombers.

In 1970, North Vietnam said it was holding 339 American war prisoners.

Ten years ago: There were serious misgivings in Britain about that country's acceptance of the U.S. Polaris missile as the British nuclear weapon for the future.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson, in the Far East, visited U.S. military bases in Thailand and South Vietnam under tight security.

One year ago: Kurt Waldheim of Austria was sworn in as secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thought for today: The man who has committed a mistake and does not correct it is committing another mistake.—Confucius, Chinese philosopher, 551-479 B.C.

Approximately 300 members of the Circleville Church youth organization combined efforts for the second annual Carol sing. The group met at the courthouse steps for a short concert directed by Mrs. J. S. McRoberts. Following the concert the youngsters divided up into smaller groups and caroled through the downtown district. Twelve city churches were represented by the youth groups.

Clifton Auto Parts sponsored Champion Spark plugs Highway Safety Program, brought nationally known race driver, Don Freeland, to Circleville High School. Freeland, an eight time competitor in the Indianapolis 500, spoke to the student body on safe driving.

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau was setting its sights on the 1963 membership drive when it conducted a "Captain's Rally" in the office at W. Main St. Ed Johnson, a Tri-county organization director, outlined the overall membership plan to the Township captains who met at the meeting.

Contract bids for construction of the new Westfall High School were opened at noon, December 18, in the office of Jud Lanman, superintendent of the Westfall School District. In the May primary voters passed a $1,395,000 bond issue for the construction of a new high school. The new school would combine the Monroe, Jackson, Derby and Williamsport high schools.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband has cataracts, but just refuses to have an operation. This has been going on now for four years.

I have become his "seeing-eye dog."

He is 68, and his stubbornness is ruining my life and the lives of our children.

Mrs. G. R., Ohio

Dear Mrs. R.:

Yours is a sad story compounded by time and by your husband's fears.

In a strange way, by adopting the position of a seeing-eye dog, your own kindnesses to him may actually be partially responsible for his continued denial of the need for surgery.

Saddest aspect of this situation is that operations for removal of cataracts have progressed to the point of almost 100 per cent success.

Why, therefore, should a person elect to live in a world of blindness? Fear of surgery alone is obviously not the answer. If you look back into his history you will probably find that many neurotic behavior patterns may have been overlooked.

To choose to be blind is the response of a severely oppressed and psychoneurotic personality.

Your approach should be to combine the help of your personal doctor and the eye specialist in breaking down his fixed, rigid attitude.

If you cannot persuade your husband to talk over his problem with a psychologist or psychiatrist, then you yourself will benefit by such help or direction. It may be necessary for you to give up your role as seeing-eye dog. When once your husband finds that total dependence on you is not possible, he himself will be readily accept the idea of surgery.

He must be assured that his long delay probably has not permanently impaired his chances for the return of vision.

Is it possible to pick up a germ or a virus by using a strange telephone?

Mrs. S. L., Mich.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Yet, a long series of studies performed by telephone companies in cooperation with Public Health officials has shown that the telephone has not contributed to the spread of disease.

It is not considered to be a public health hazard.

Bacteria that cause infectious disease do not survive long in the open air. Nevertheless, it is a good precaution that the mouth, lips and tongue should not have direct contact with the mouthpiece.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The average comedian is about as much fun to be with offstage as a 95-year-old Anglican bishop with an acute case of gout.

Not our man Walter Matthau, the current top banana among film laugh makers. He is as natural as sunshine and cheerful as a mountain spring.

Walter weathered dire poverty in his childhood and six years ago survived a lifethreatening heart attack. With a background such as that, Matthau doesn't need anyone to tell him how to enjoy his present success.

"Life to me is funny, real humorous," he said at lunch the other day. He was celebrating the completion of his most recent film, "Pete 'N' Tillie," in which he and Carol Burnett star.

"I don't know why, but life seems to make me laugh most of the time now. I try to have a philosophy for every specific moment, but it changes so rapidly I guess I don't have a general philosophy."

Now 52, although he could easily pass for an athletic 40, Walter reached the peak after a long apprenticeship in both living and acting.

After his father deserted the family when Matthau was only 3, he, his mother and a brother moved through a series of coldwater East Side tenements because they were unable to pay the rent.

At 11, Walter was acting in a Yiddish theater at 50 cents a performance. During the intermissions he sold soft drinks in the lobby.

After earning six battle stars as an aerial radioman and bomber gunner overseas during World War II, he worked his way through acting school working as a floor scrubber and cement hauler.

Slowly he became known as a competent and conscientious craftsman in Broadway plays and as a Hollywood film villain. Then his 1965 appearance in the stage play, "The Odd Couple," made him a comedy sensation. His next film, "The Fortune Cookie," in which he teamed with Jack Lemmon, confirmed his success. Since then it has been roses, roses, all the way for Matthau.

He still tends to think of himself as a character actor rather than a star, and likes to play in serious as well as funny films or shows.

"My only preference is for good roles," he explained. "They can be about anything, anytime, anyplace.

"I became an actor because I like to act, I'm good at it, and I make a lot of money out of it. What would I be if I weren't an actor? Dead probably. There's an occupation for you, isn't it?

"I'd like to live to the year 2000 — that would make me 80 — just to see all the numerals change.

"But I have to have a certain amount of excitement, or I create it myself. That's why I don't really expect to hit 70. But I'm never bored, anyway. I think people who are bored are always boring."

Here are Walter's likes:

"Horses that come in first — casseroles, because steaks or roasted birds remind me too much of the whole animal — anything covered and smothered with gravy and with no bones in it — spelling tests with people I meet while traveling — girls' bottoms, because watching them gives me a tremendous feeling of security — the sound of Mozart and the voices of my wife and my son Charlie — reading Charles Dickens and Arthur Miller's plays — bakery smells and the smell of freshly cut grass — all kinds of people — and having dinner with Truman Capote when he's in a good mood: he's a great, great gossip with a great mind."

And here are his dislikes:

"Raw clams — whiskies and wines — girls who drink beer — all music written since Beethoven composed his last symphony — automobile horns — the feel of crepe — Shakespeare I find dull and Ibsen impossible — people with studied mannerisms who are out of synchronization — and people with bad breath who keep trying to whisper to me."

But it is ridiculous to suppose that the revisionists will get away with their nonsense. After all, the Marshall Plan millions were available to Czechoslovakia and the European East as well as to the West. Stalin vetoed the proposition, choosing to subvert and fight instead. Harry Truman had to respond as he did, with a maganificence that makes him one of our truly great Presidents.

Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost every investor understands that corporations, like every product of creation or manufacture, have a past, present and future, and that each must be considered in making a decision.

The past tells the investor about the company's record, the present discloses if it is being maintained. Both are important items, but it is the unknown, the future, that fascinates, for that is where the money is made.

There has never been a successful broker who kept his eye on only the past and present. The world of investments is meaningful only in the context of the future. Otherwise it is unreal.

Nevertheless, the official policy of the Securities and Exchange Commission for nearly 40 years has required corporations to list massive amounts of data on the past and present while refusing to record projections.

That policy may soon change, however. Hearings recently were concluded in Washington to consider abandonment of the old SEC policy and permit companies to record estimates of future earnings.

Policy recommendations often take weeks to formulate, but there is speculation that this will be a speedy decision. The matter is close to Chairman William Casey's heart, and he must soon leave for the State Department.

Revealed in the hearings were lawyers' fears of the legal consequences of projections, the concern of officers about standards to be used, the doubts of accountants as to their role and responsibility.

One of the most consistent products was misunderstanding. As Casey said in an interview last week:

"All we are doing is re-evaluating now our policy of prohibiting them. We are not demanding that forecasts be made. We are not going to mandate them. In my opinion, that is not a possibility nor is it desirable."

A far more likely solution will be to give companies the option to project or not to project, assuming that standards can be set so as to prevent flagrant abuses in the form of unrealistic goals.

Why then the furor? A good question and one that relates directly to the small investor and public confidence in the market place, which is now gradually being restored following one debacle after another.

As the chairman testified, "These projections are being put out now and they are being made available on a preferential basis." That is, they are being made unofficially or by informed brokers and offered to a favored few.

"No matter how one may theorize on this," Casey said at the hearings, "We have the reality that earnings estimates are made."

Moreover, he continued, "Investors and stock values do react to them, and fairness to investors may call for making them evenly available to all investors."

Rather than, it is suggested, to only a select list of insiders, analysts, big customers, creditors, subscribers to services and the like, who are then afforded an advantage in decision making.

Today In History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1894, French army officer Alfred Dreyfus was found guilty of treason in a court-martial which inflamed world opinion. Dreyfus was a victim of anti-Semitism.

On this date:

In 1696, the founder of the colony of Georgia, James Oglethorpe, was born in London.

In 1775, the Continental naval fleet of seven vessels was organized.

In 1942, in World War II, the Japanese-occupied city of Rangoon, Burma, was struck by American bombers.

In 1970, North Vietnam said it was holding 339 American war prisoners.

Ten years ago: There were serious misgivings in Britain about that country's acceptance of the U.S. Polaris missile as the British nuclear weapon for the future.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson, in the Far East, visited U.S. military bases in Thailand and South Vietnam under tight security.

One year ago: Kurt Waldheim of Austria was sworn in as secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thought for today: The man who has committed a mistake and does not correct it is committing another mistake.—Confucius, Chinese philosopher, 551-479 B.C.

Approximately 300 members of the Circleville Church youth organization combined efforts for the second annual Carol sing. The group met at the courthouse steps for a short concert directed by Mrs. J. S. McRoberts. Following the concert the youngsters divided up into smaller groups and caroled through the downtown district. Twelve city churches were represented by the youth groups.

Clifton Auto Parts sponsored Champion Spark plugs Highway Safety Program, brought nationally known race driver, Don Freeland, to Circleville High School. Freeland, an eight time competitor in the Indianapolis 500, spoke to the student body on safe driving.

The Pickaway County Farm Bureau was setting its sights on the 1963 membership drive when it conducted a "Captain's Rally" in the office at W. Main St. Ed Johnson, a Tri-county organization director, outlined the overall membership plan to the Township captains who met at the meeting.

Contract bids for construction of the new Westfall High School were opened at noon, December 18, in the office of Jud Lanman, superintendent of the Westfall School District. In the May primary voters passed a $1,395,000 bond issue for the construction of a new high school. The new school would combine the Monroe, Jackson, Derby and Williamsport high schools.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband has cataracts, but just refuses to have an operation. This has been going on now for four years.

I have become his "seeing-eye dog."

He is 68, and his stubbornness is ruining my life and the lives of our children.

Mrs. G. R., Ohio

Dear Mrs. R.:

Yours is a sad story compounded by time and by your husband's fears.

In a strange way, by adopting the position of a seeing-eye dog, your own kindnesses to him may actually be partially responsible for his continued denial of the need for surgery.

Saddest aspect of this situation is that operations for removal of cataracts have progressed to the point of almost 100 per cent success.

Why, therefore, should a person elect to live in a world of blindness? Fear of surgery alone is obviously not the answer. If you look back into his history you will probably find that many neurotic behavior patterns may have been overlooked.

To choose to be blind is the response of a severely oppressed and psychoneurotic personality.

Your approach should be to combine the help of your personal doctor and the eye specialist in breaking down his fixed, rigid attitude.

If you cannot persuade your husband to talk over his problem with a psychologist or psychiatrist, then you yourself will benefit by such help or direction. It may be necessary for you to give up your role as seeing-eye dog. When once your husband finds that total dependence on you is not possible, he himself will be readily accept the idea of surgery.

He must be assured that his long delay probably has not permanently impaired his chances for the return of vision.

Is it possible to pick up a germ or a virus by using a strange telephone?

Mrs. S. L., Mich.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Yet, a long series of studies performed by telephone companies in cooperation with Public Health officials has shown that the telephone has not contributed to the spread of disease.

It is not considered to be a public health hazard.

Bacteria that cause infectious disease do not survive long in the open air. Nevertheless, it is a good precaution that the mouth, lips and tongue should not have direct contact with the mouthpiece.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The average comedian is about as much fun to be with offstage as a 95-year-old Anglican bishop with an acute case of gout.

Not our man Walter Matthau, the current top banana among film laugh makers. He is as natural as sunshine and cheerful as a mountain spring.

Walter weathered dire poverty in his childhood and six years ago survived a lifethreatening heart attack. With a background such as that, Matthau doesn't need anyone to tell him how to enjoy his present success.

"Life to me is funny, real humorous," he said at lunch the other day. He was celebrating the completion of his most recent film, "Pete 'N' Tillie," in which he and Carol Burnett star.

"I don't know why, but life seems to make me laugh most of the time now. I try to have a philosophy for every specific moment, but it changes so rapidly I guess I don't have a general philosophy."

Now 52, although he could easily pass for an athletic 40, Walter reached the peak after a long apprenticeship in both living and acting.

After his father deserted the family when Matthau was only 3, he, his mother and a brother moved through a series of coldwater East Side tenements because they were unable to pay the rent.

At 11, Walter was acting in a Yiddish theater at 50 cents a performance. During the intermissions he sold soft drinks in the lobby.

After earning six battle stars as an aerial radioman and bomber gunner overseas during World War II, he worked his way through acting school working as a floor scrubber and cement hauler.

Slowly he became known as a competent and conscientious craftsman in Broadway plays and as a Hollywood film villain. Then his 1965 appearance in the stage play, "The Odd Couple," made him a comedy sensation. His next film, "The Fortune Cookie," in which he teamed with Jack Lemmon, confirmed his success. Since then it has been roses, roses, all the way for Matthau.

He still tends to think of himself as a character actor rather than a star, and likes to play in serious as well as funny films or shows.

"My only preference is for good roles," he explained. "They can be about anything, anytime, anyplace.

"I became an actor because I like to act, I'm good at it, and I make a lot of money out of it. What would I be if I weren't an actor? Dead probably. There's an occupation for you, isn't it?

"I'd like to live to the year 2000 — that would make me 80 — just to see all the numerals change.

"But I have to have a certain amount of excitement, or I create it myself. That's why I don't really expect to hit 70. But I'm never bored, anyway. I think people who are bored are always boring."

Here are Walter's likes:

"Horses that come in first — casseroles, because steaks or roasted birds remind me too much of the whole animal — anything covered and smothered with gravy and with no bones in it — spelling tests with people I meet while traveling — girls' bottoms, because watching them gives me a tremendous feeling of security — the sound of Mozart and the voices of my wife and my son Charlie — reading Charles Dickens and Arthur Miller's plays — bakery smells and the smell of freshly cut grass — all kinds of people — and having dinner with Truman Capote when he's in a good mood: he's a great, great gossip with a great mind."

And here are his dislikes:

"Raw clams — whiskies and wines — girls who drink beer — all music written since Beethoven composed his last symphony — automobile horns — the feel of crepe — Shakespeare I find dull and Ibsen impossible — people with studied mannerisms who are out of synchronization — and people with bad breath who keep trying to whisper to me."

DWIGHT FRAZER

Photography Is Interest Of Student

By KRIS RIED

Dwight Frazer, son of Rev. and Mrs. David Frazer, is a new sophomore this year at CHS. Dwight moved here from Lancaster, during the summer and now resides at 832 N. Court St.

Some of his hobbies include participating in sports and photography. At high school in Lancaster, Dwight was on the basketball and baseball teams besides being in the band. He now plays in the band here.

Eddie Brown Receives Key Club Citation

Chosen as this month's outstanding Key Clubber is Eddie Brown. Eddie lives at 166 E. Water St. with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown; his three brothers, Ted, David and Doug; and two sisters, Paula and Teresa.

Eddie is a sophomore and a new member of Key Club. So far this year he has worked hard on five major projects.

Brown feels the Key Club is a good community service organization in which he can help others and have a good time while he is doing it.

Besides Key Club, Eddie is a member of the Tiger band, Stage Band II, choir, cross-country and track. He enjoys band, cars and girls.

The Key Clubber is chosen monthly by members of the club and it is definitely an honor to fill this position.

Wrestlers Take Second

By DON GOELLER

The Tigers came up with 75.5 points, behind a strong Grove City team, led by first place finishers Tom Frericks (HWT) and Dave Webb (132) and second placers Steve Watters (112), Gary Morgan (167) and Jim Payne (138).

Stuart Moore grabbed a third spot in the 175-pound class, and Tim Wilkinson (185) and Joe Smith (119) came up with fourth place. Also turning in good matches aginst fine competition were Ben McDaniel, Don Seyfang, Roger Davis and John McCoy.

Party For Needy Children Sponsored By School Groups

At precisely 1 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon, CHS's cafeteria was transformed into a festive Santa's Funland as the annual Underprivileged Children's Christmas Party got underway.

This joint club project is organized every year by the SOS club; Debbie Green was this year's chairman.

Before the party began, Stooge and Key Club members went to all the elementary schools and picked up a carload of children. After hanging up all the coats, the youngsters were all ushered into the cafeteria, which had been decorated by Student Council. A Christmas tree was provided by Hi-Y.

Actually the high school students had as much fun as the younger students and almost outnumbered them. Games were organized by the SOS club. A play, complete with imps and elfs, was provided by Curtain Callers and then—the man everyone was waiting for arrived—Santa Claus, himself. With many a "ho, ho, ho!", he handed out the presents GAA had contributed.

After all had had their chance on Santa's lap, ice cream and cookies were served. Miniature Santa hats loaded with candy were distributed by Science Club.

At 3 p.m., the children were returned to their prospective schools and clean-up began—with most students wishing everyday could include a Christmas party.

Miss Berry Instructs Junior High Art Class

Traveling and swimming are some of the hobbies enjoyed by Miss Suzanne Berry, this week's featured teacher and art instructor at CJHS.

Miss Berry resides at 127 Wilson Ave. A native of Phoenix, Ariz., she attended Ohio University and graduated with a BFA. Miss Berry chose Circleville for her first year of teaching because she liked the community, geographic location and school system.

"Today's youth is the same as any other generation of "youth" except that today they are more idealistic and more aware of what is happening in the world," says Miss Berry. In regard to her teaching philosophy , she states, "I believe every child has the potential to learn, and it is the teacher's job to help the child discover and develop this potential."

Included in Miss Berry's list of future plans are traveling during the summer and returning to Arozona to visit her family.

Christmas' True Meaning Forgotten?

By MARCIA PLESCIA

Christmas is a time for love, peace and joy. The hustle and bustle of shopping and preparing for the holiday may sometimes seem to cover the true reason for celebrating Christmas, the birth of Jesus.

Yet gifts are a sign of love as Christ's birth shows God's gift to man, and as the Jews, in the Festival of Light's recall God's love for his chosen people.

Christmas and Hanukkah also brings families and friends together in a spirit of peace, joy and belonging together.

Today the true meaning of the word peace is almost forgotten, for there is little peace in the world. Men have been looking everywhere for a lasting peace, but it can only come from God.

This is what the apostle Paul was saying to the Romans when he said, "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ."

The winter holidays also provide an opportunity to teach the joy of giving rather than receiving. It is a time to encourage one and all to give something of themselves to others. No matter how rich or how poor there is always a way to give.

In these ways all the time and effort spent in preparation for the holidays does not always hide their true meaning.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit, Circleville High School's Student Council presented a Christmas assembly Thursday featuring the CHS band and chorus.

Seasonal music was played, such as "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" and "Old St. Nick Takes a Trip," while the chorus sans holiday carols.

Kindergarten Students Bake Cookies With Home Ec. Students

The home economics kitchens of CHS were invaded by 28 five-year-olds on Dec. 14.

The boys and girls from Mrs. Ruth Schneider's Morning Kindergarten class at Nicholas Drive Elementary School were invited by Mrs. Rickey's Family Living Class. This is a group of 15 girls studying child development and family living.

Before the children arrived, the home economics class made preparations for them to bake and decorate Christmas cookies. Once in the kitchens, the boys and girls were given the opportunity to follow their imaginations and create their own masterpieces. Following this, they sampled their first attempt at baking.

Circleville School Menu

Jan. 2 – beef and noodles, green beans, applesauce, bread, butter, milk.

Jan. 3 – hamburger gravy-whipped potatoes, pear half, vegetable strips, roll, butter, milk.

Jan. 4 – chili concarne, cole slaw, pineapple slice, corn bread, butter, milk.

Jan. 8 – hot bologna sandwich, green beans, french fries, apple half, milk.

Jan. 9 – spaghetti-meat sauce, tossed salad, pineapple tidbits, french bread, butter, milk.

Jan. 10 – pizza on bun, buttered corn, orange jello-peaches, potato chips, milk

Jan. 11 – wiener sandwich, baked beans, applesauce, cookie, milk.

Jan. 12 – sloppy Joe-bun, mixed vegetables, apple crisp, milk.

Workers Want Voice In Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government-sponsored study on workers' dissatisfaction with their jobs said today that most employes want to take part in decisions affecting their employment, and put this ahead of pay in importance.

"To young workers in particular, an interesting job is as important as one that pays well," said the report released by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson.

And despite the wider attention given to the "blue-collar blues" of factory workers, the report said white-collar office workers suffer similar discontent.

NEW CARAVELLE ELECTRONIC
. . . never needs winding!
You can depend on the Caravelle Electronic to keep him on time. All the time. Because it depends on a reliable little transistor and an ingenious bit of electronic circuitry. It has no mainspring, like a wind-up watch. No contact points to wear out like an electric watch. It's the most reliable watch at the most attractive price. $34.95 to $59.95. Ohio Photos From Space Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For several months now, a NASA satellite has been passing over Ohio more than 500-miles high every 18 days and photographing the area.

The Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development is trying to determine how the satellite's data can be applied toward management of the state's resources, Director David Sweet said today.

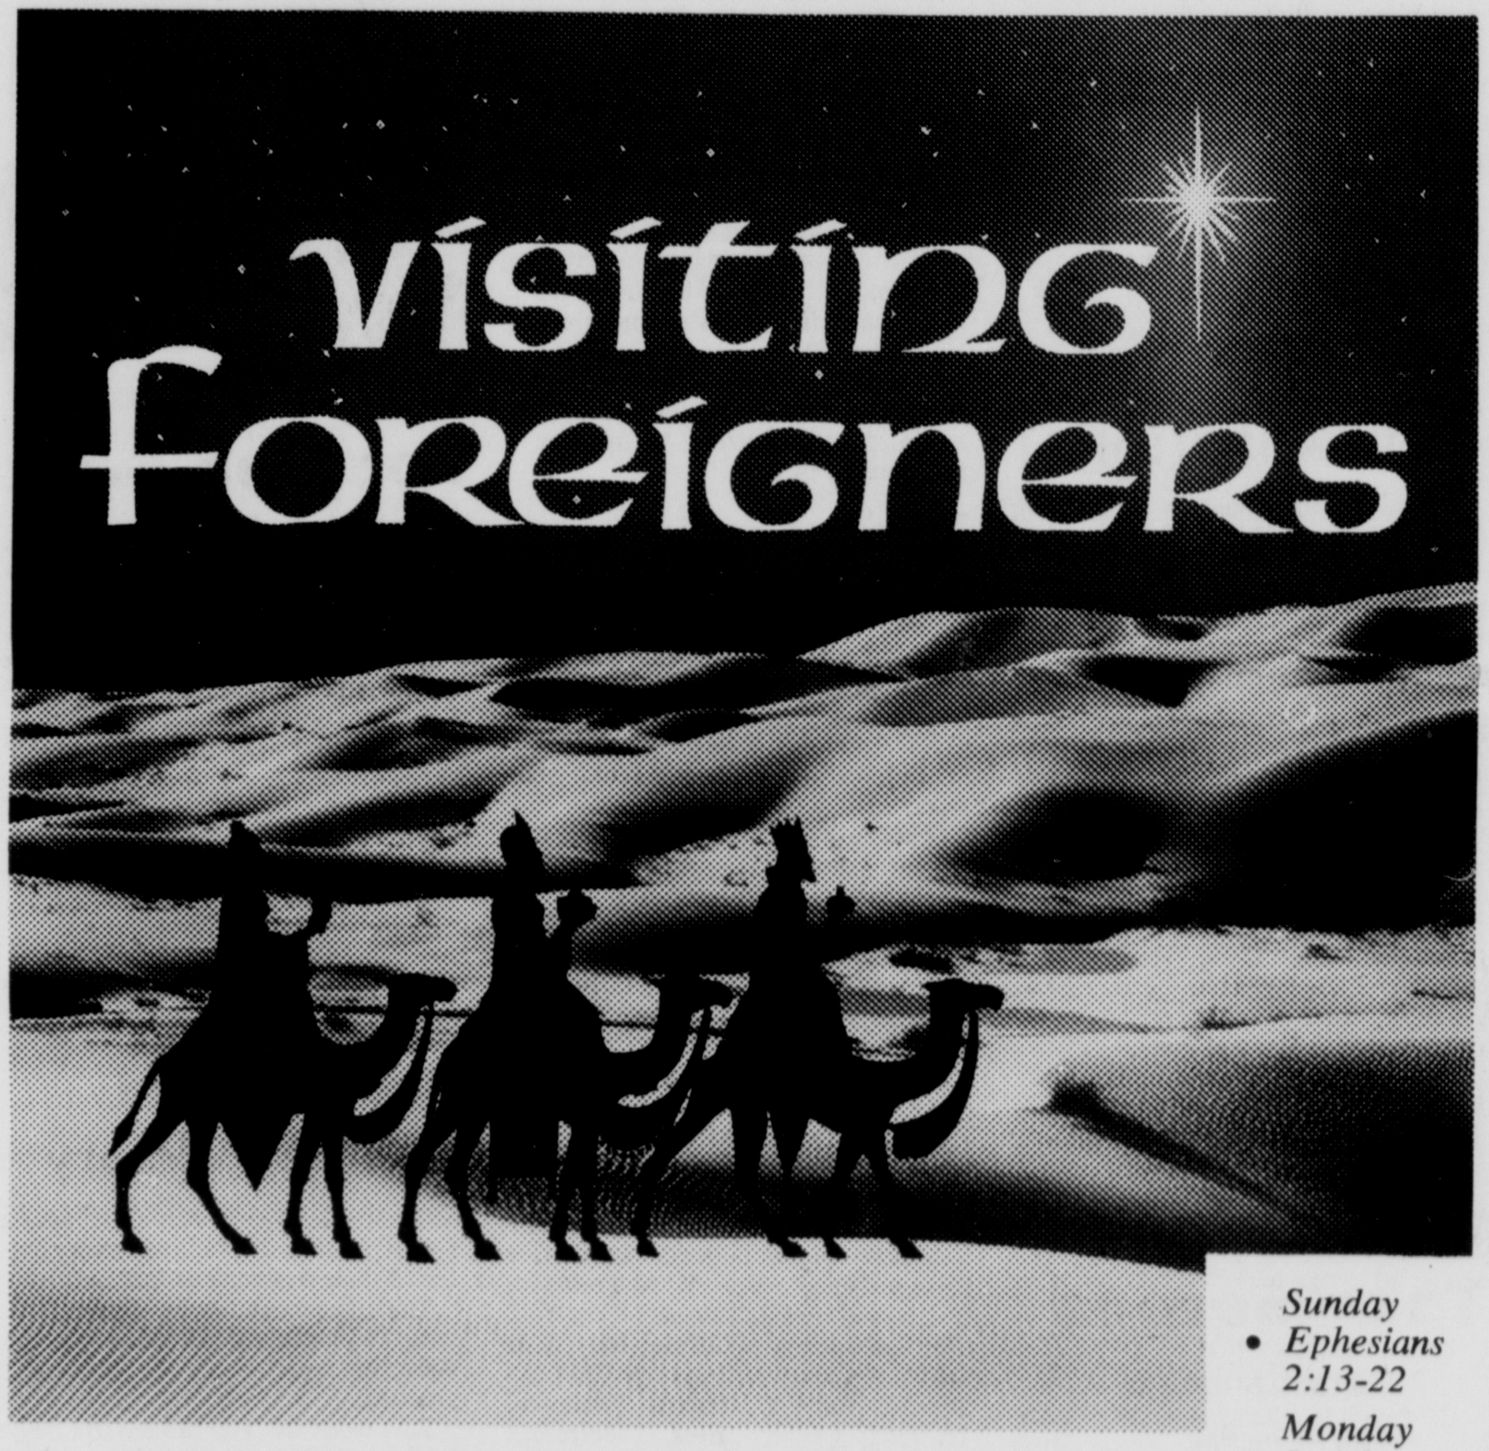
The Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) was launched July 23, 1972 and has been circling the earth on a near-polar orbit, Sweet said.

The ERTS takes photographic-like images of the earth in four bands of light—two visible to the naked eye and two infrared bands. The data, in the form of transparancies, is sent to research specialists at Battelle Memorial Institute here for analysis, Sweet said.

A preliminary review of the information indicates that the data will have several uses and be valuable to several state departments, Sweet said.

Photographs allow detection of Ohio's strip-mined areas, new construction sites, air pollution sources, as well as for state planning, Sweet said.

Once considered a "fossil" like the moon with a surface little changed over millions of years, Mars now is regarded as a planet still "under construction." Like Earth, it may have a molten core, a crust that shifts and cracks and mountains that sometimes blow their tops.



That's what the Wisemen were—foreigners! They came from distant countries. They were not Christ's own countrymen.

And yet they kneeled before the manger. They offered precious gifts—gold, frankincense and myrrh.

The world had found its Center—a Life and a Love to bring men together.

The visit of the Wisemen is the first step in the universal mission of the Church—to bring the whole of humanity into the Kingdom.

But man has been a long time accepting the lesson of the Wisemen. We are still suspicious of strangers, of foreigners, of our new neighbors.

Before our day, the peoples of the earth lived in many mansions. Now we are all under one roof—drawn together by modern communication and travel.

With the transformation of today's world the decision over the Wisemen can no longer be postponed. All of us, human beings from every corner of the globe, must realize our need for one another, our need for love and understanding. Together we must kneel down before the manger.

Ohio Photos From Space Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For several months now, a NASA satellite has been passing over Ohio more than 500-miles high every 18 days and photographing the area.

The Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development is trying to determine how the satellite's data can be applied toward management of the state's resources, Director David Sweet said today.

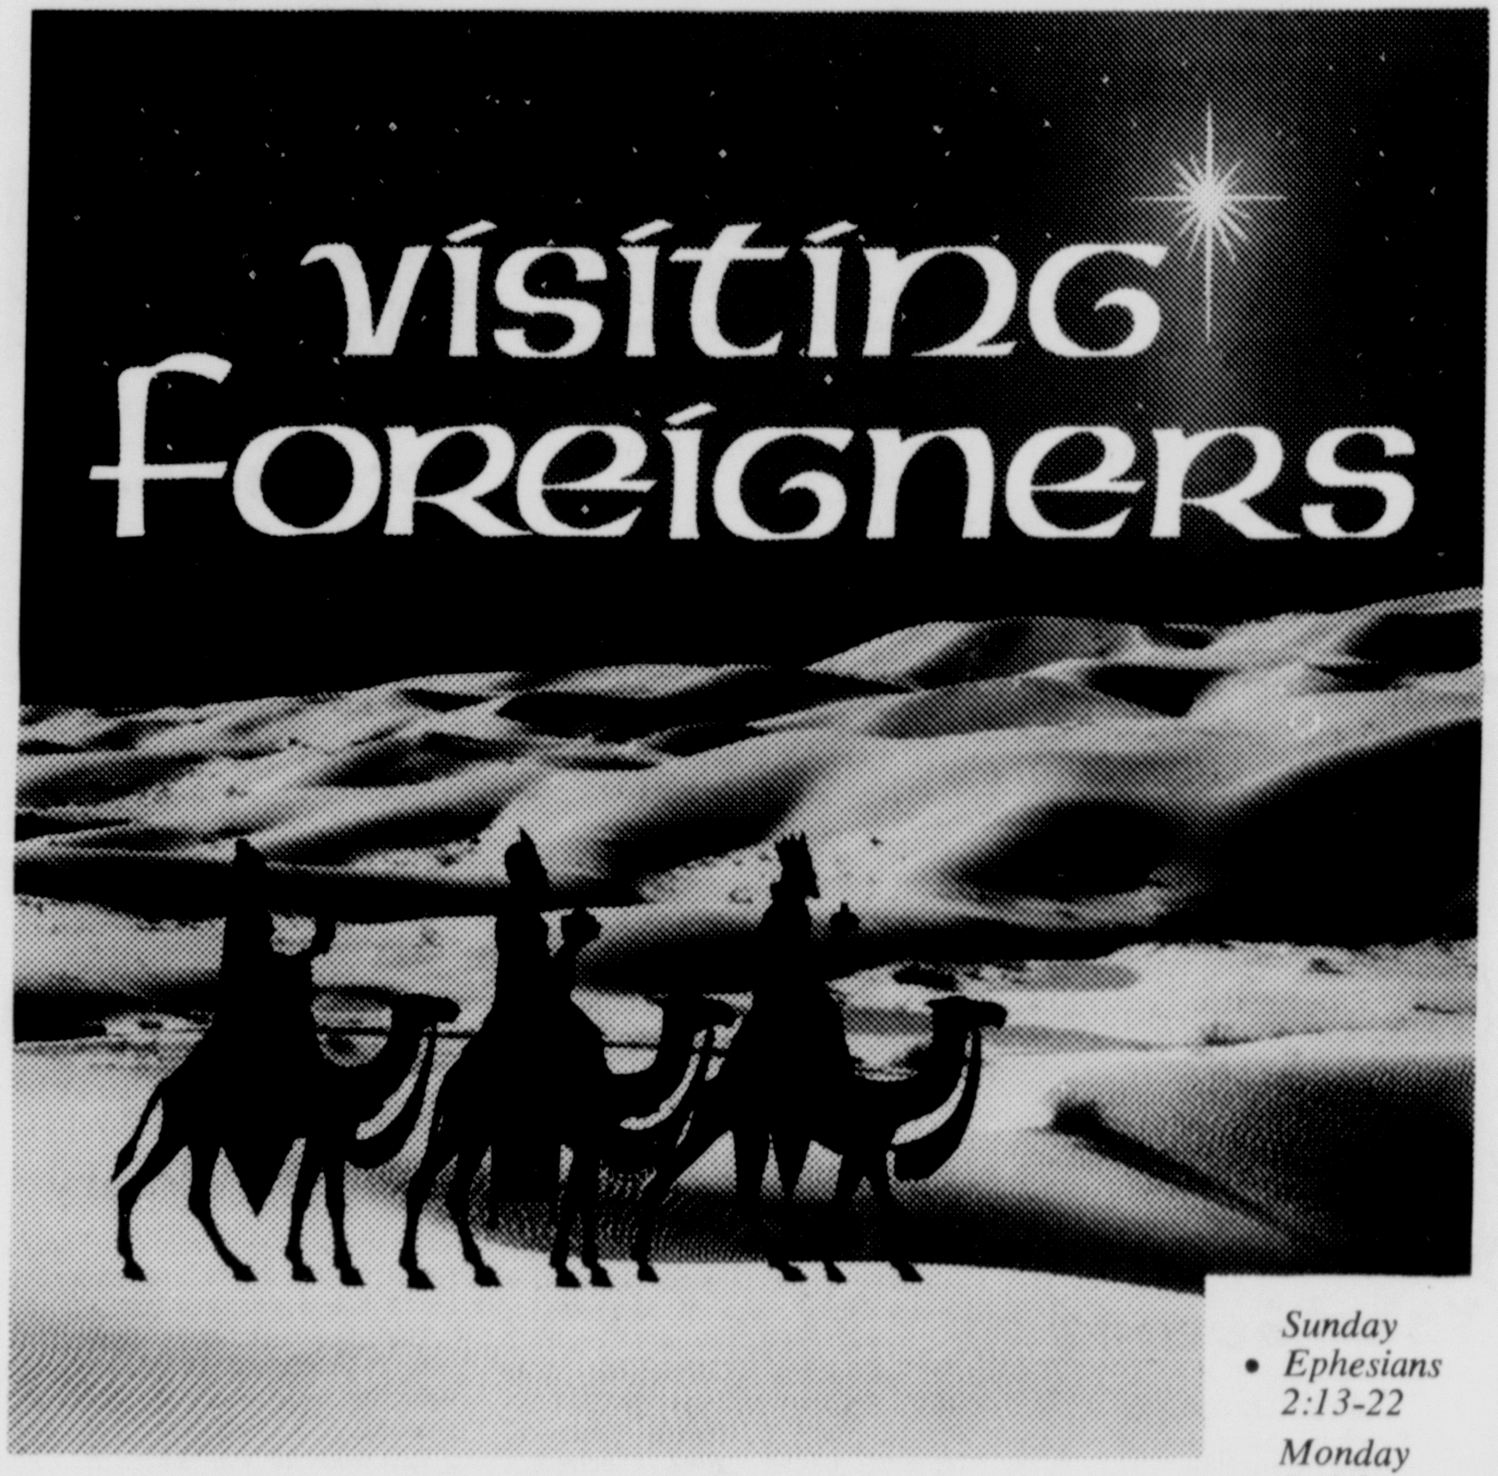
The Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) was launched July 23, 1972 and has been circling the earth on a near-polar orbit, Sweet said.

The ERTS takes photographic-like images of the earth in four bands of light—two visible to the naked eye and two infrared bands. The data, in the form of transparancies, is sent to research specialists at Battelle Memorial Institute here for analysis, Sweet said.

A preliminary review of the information indicates that the data will have several uses and be valuable to several state departments, Sweet said.

Photographs allow detection of Ohio's strip-mined areas, new construction sites, air pollution sources, as well as for state planning, Sweet said.

Once considered a "fossil" like the moon with a surface little changed over millions of years, Mars now is regarded as a planet still "under construction." Like Earth, it may have a molten core, a crust that shifts and cracks and mountains that sometimes blow their tops.



That's what the Wisemen were—foreigners! They came from distant countries. They were not Christ's own countrymen.

And yet they kneeled before the manger. They offered precious gifts—gold, frankincense and myrrh.

The world had found its Center—a Life and a Love to bring men together.

The visit of the Wisemen is the first step in the universal mission of the Church—to bring the whole of humanity into the Kingdom.

But man has been a long time accepting the lesson of the Wisemen. We are still suspicious of strangers, of foreigners, of our new neighbors.

Before our day, the peoples of the earth lived in many mansions. Now we are all under one roof—drawn together by modern communication and travel.

With the transformation of today's world the decision over the Wisemen can no longer be postponed. All of us, human beings from every corner of the globe, must realize our need for one another, our need for love and understanding. Together we must kneel down before the manger.

Willie's Dillies

With Christmas rapidly arriving on the scene and Saint Nick hard at work loading up the sleigh, we thought we better get a letter off to the kindly old gent before it's too late, so here goes our yearly message.

Dear Santa,

The only thing we are asking for this year is a bag full of goodwill and good cheer for everyone.

More than anything else we would like you to know that we still believe in you and everything you stand for.

We believe that your spirit of giving and being nice to people is the most important thing we have and if we ever stop believing in this it'll be a rocky old world. At this time of year you provide us with something that is precious to us all and maybe someday it will become a 12-month affair and wouldn't that be something?

You show us that it really is better to give than to receive and if each one of us gave a little something of himself to the other guy it just might make it a little nicer all the way around.

We consider ourselves very lucky, Santa, as we are fortunate enough to be a part of high school sports which provides us with the opportunity to get to know the young people.

These young men and women are the ones who will be dealing with you in the near future and believe me, Santa, you're blessed with the cream of the crop. They're the greatest and we sure are lucky to have them.

THEM.

Yes, Santa, we believe — We believe in you, the kids and appreciate the fact that we live in a wonderful place. There may be some things wrong with our country but we're working on it and it's still the greatest place in the world.

Well, have a nice trip, Santa, and we'll be listening for the sound of the reindeers on our roof Christmas Eve.

Our "fearless" forecast — Defense and depth will give the Tigers a win over the Vikings . . . Logan Elm will win the Holiday Tournament . . . Steelers over the Raiders Dallas to down the 49ers . . . Packers will upset the Redskins . . . Dolphins are too strong for the Browns.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Football Blackout Arguments Heard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Football fans in the nation's capital who are unable to get a Baltimore television station on their sets get another chance today to view Sunday's National Football League playoff game between the Green Bay Packers and the Washington Redskins.

U.S. District Judge Joseph C. Waddy was to hear arguments in a lawsuit calling for the NFL to rescind its local television blackout of Sunday's contest.

Arnold Palmer three-putted nine times in 90 holes in the 1962 U.S. Open when he lost in a playoff to Jack Nicklaus.

NFL Playoffs Involve 6 Top Teams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Steelers jump into the pool for the first time but it's the Miami Dolphins with the strongest kick as the National Football League playoffs open this weekend.

The Steelers, title-winners for the first time in their 40-year history, take on the Oakland Raiders in one of two games Saturday while the heavily-favored, hard-running Dolphins meet the Cleveland Browns on Sunday.

Saturday's other match pits the defending World Champion Dallas Cowboys against the San Francisco 49ers while the Green Bay Packers tackle the Washington Redskins in Sunday's other game.

Survivors in the opening round will meet on Sunday Dec. 31 for the respective championships of the National and American conferences. The conference winners will play in the Super Bowl in Los Angeles on Jan. 14.

The Steelers are slight favorites in their battle in Pittsburgh but the Raiders have had more experience in these playoff games. They've appeared in the affairs five times in the last six years.

Oakland, winner of the American Conference's Western Division, will have to contain Pittsburgh's hard-hitting attack led by quarterback Terry Bradshaw. Apparently recovered from a dislocated finger, the strong-throwing Bradshaw will match talent with Oakland mastermind Daryl Lamonica.

The AFC Central Champion Steelers are rated favorites on the basis of a stronger running game which features Franco Harris.

The Dolphins attack features one of pro football's most awesome running games-powered by two thousand-yard runners, Larry Csonka (1,117) and Mercury Morris(1,000). Also in that thundering herd is Jim Kiick, who picked up 521 yards as a No. 3 runner.

Miami, Super Bowl losers last season when entries as a wild card team, made the playoffs not only as winners of the AFC's Eastern Division but as the only undefeated team in pro football this year.

Dallas enters this year's elimination carnival in a different role than last year's. The Cowboys, winners of the National Football Conference East last season, finished second to Washington this season and will compete as the wild-card team.

The high-scoring Cowboys have averaged 319 yards a game while San Francisco, the NFC's West winners, averaged 310.8.

Calvin Hill, Dallas' first 1,000-yard rusher, appears fit after a bout with the flu but the Cowboys will be hurt by the absence of Bob Lilly, their All-Pro defensive tackle who is suffering from muscle spasms.

Green Bay will attempt to halt Washington's powerhouse running game, sparked by the NFC's leading rusher, Larry Brown. The Redskin ace compiled 1,216 yards on the ground during the regular season.

The Packers have a couple of pretty good runners of their own in John Brockington and MacArthur Lane.

Grid Picker Likes Packers

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe Washington's pro football elders are tiring, so I'll pick Green Bay's recycled Packers to outthump the Redskins.

It's the "second season" and Santa Claus arrives early for the nation's NFL nutties—two Saturday playoff games and two more on Christmas Eve.

"Don't bug me, son, these are the ones that count," will be heard from Coos Bay to Key Largo.

Now that the National Football League dead wood has packed it in, the prediction business gets a bit slimly. My .724 percentage from 93 right, 34 wrong in the regular season could take a bruising.

But, away we go.

PACKERS 24, REDSKINS 21—Rookie Chester Marcol's hoof may well decide a spirited matchup Sunday at Washington. Dan Devine doesn't want to be "another Vince Lombardi." He seeks his own identity and a victory over Washington, Lombardi's second team, would do wonders.

Washington's best chances lie with a heady, graybeard defense. Linebackers like Jack Pardee and Chris Hanburger are capable of heroics that can unnerve a sophomore quarterback like Scott Hunter.

As far as the running backs go, it seems dead even despite the presence of Redskin dazzler Larry Brown. He and partner Charlie Harraway seem no better than the John Brockington-MacArthur Lane duo.

FORTY-NINERS 28, COWBOYS 21—Dallas may refind some of the spirit that made the Cowboys world champs a year ago, but John Brodie's miracle rescue against Minnesota last week has San Francisco moving.

The Cowboys' "Doomsday Defense" isn't what is was, the 49ers can match it. Offensively, it's still hard to think a Craig Morton-led team can keep from running off the Super Bowl road.

DOLPHINS 24, BROWNS 10—Miami is unbeaten and untied, but the Dolphins still find themselves trying to prove to the far reaches of the NFL that they're for real. They are, friends.

Cleveland will be afire over being made an 11½-point underdog, not to mention 35-to-1 to win the Super Bowl. But, it won't be enough. Miami should win this one with Earl Morrall, Bob Griese or Jim Del Gaizo.

STEELERS 17, OAKLAND 13—Pittsburgh's defense is the key. It should muffle the Marv Hubbard-Charlie Smith running threat and Daryle Lamonica can't elude Mean Joe Greene all day.

More than one wise gentleman has said that a good defense will usually whip a good offense. I'm a believer.

LE Matmen Edged By Reemelin

The Logan Elm wrestlers were edged by Reemelin high school grapplers, 39-31, Thursday on the winners' mats.

The Braves won three of the 13 matches by forfeit, one by a pin and two by decisions.

Logan Elm's only pin was in the 175-pound class where Brian Herron had his opponent's shoulders on the mat in 1:32.

Logan Elm wrestlers who were pinned were David Hulse, 126 pounds; Don Maxon, 132 pounds; Wes King, 138 pounds; Bill Benner, 155 pounds; Lewis Newland, 185 pounds and Tom Shaw, heavyweight. Don Grate, the Braves' 145-pounder, was decisioned, 9-2.

The next match for the LE wrestlers is Jan. 3 at Carroll. The match is scheduled to begin at 5 p.m.

Hayes Sees Offensive Power Best

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—University of Southern California football coach John McKay fears the Ohio State defense, yet Buckeye mentor Woody Hayes declares defense hasn't been the key to his team's success.

Hayes doesn't discount at all the two great goal line stands of Ohio State in its 14-11 Big Ten finale against Michigan, but he says, "Our defensive club has had a lot of injuries through the year. The defense hasn't carried the load all the way. A lot of the time it has been the offense.

"It's sort of seemed to balanced out. The load went to the unit that wasn't banged up the worst."

The Buckeyes carry a 9-1 record into the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day against the nation's only undefeated and untied major collegiate team—Southern California at 11-0.

The coaches exhibited differences in philosophies as they met at different times with newsmen Thursday.

"The only thing we need to do is stay in condition," said McKay who nevertheless ranked Ohio State as the toughest foe for his current Trojans. "Our kids have been running and that should keep them in shape."

Utah Stars Defeat Indiana Pacers For 118-112 Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Jimmy Jones hurt us in the fourth period and Govan hurt us all night long."

That was Bob Leonard talking about the 118-112 victory the Utah Stars scored over his Indiana Pacers in the American Basketball Association Thursday night. It cut Indiana's lead in the ABA West to just six percentage points.

It was Utah's ninth straight victory and came in what LaDell Andersen, the Stars' coach, termed a "big game. They were in first and we weren't."

Jones scored 26 points for the Stars, 24 of them in the second half. But Govan was the chief thorn to Leonard, the Pacer coach. He referred to Gerald Govan.

"He really helps that club," said Leonard. "Just look at the states. Govan had 23 rebounds, nine points and five assists. Govan's first start was the first game of the nine-game winning streak for Utah."

Denver whipped the New York Nets 106-96 and Memphis downed Dallas 131-118 in other ABA games. The San Diego at Virginia game, scheduled for Norfolk, was postponed because of flight difficulties for the Conquistadors at Chicago's O'Hare airport. No games were scheduled in the National Basketball Association.

Ralph Simpson scored 38 points, made two steals and had two assists in sparking Denver over the Nets. He made 18 of 24 shots from the field and hit a perfect 8-for-8 from the foul line.

George Thompson, with 36 points, led the Tams over Dallas. It was the third straight defeat for the Chaparrals.

Wildcat Juniors Split Cage Tilts

Laurelville's seventh grade cagers nipped Westfall, 24-23, while the Wildcats' eighth graders dropped a 41-34 decision to the Mustangs in a pair of tilts played on the Laurelville floor.

The seventh grade squads put on a real battle with Laurelville leading 4-3 at the end of the first quarter. Westfall was on top 9-8 at the half and led 15-14 at the conclusion of the third canto but the Wildcats rallied in the fourth frame to gain the victory.

Brad Ebert tallied 16 points to lead Laurelville and Todd Young added four markers. Mowery paced Westfail with seven points and List had six.

The eighth graders battled on even terms for the first three periods but a fourth quarter assault by Westfall gave them the win. The score was tied 4-4 at the end of the first quarter and was knotted 13-13 at halftime but Westfall managed to gain a 25-23 margin at the finish of the third stanza.

Long hooped 25 points to lead the Westfall attack while Greg Arnett had 11 and Eric Maxson nine for Laurelville.

Both Laurelville squads will be back in action Jan. 6 at Chillicothe St. Marys.

Cincinnati Swords Top Nova Scotia, 8-5

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The rampaging Cincinnati Swords moved 15 points out front of Hershey in their lead over the Western Division of the American Hockey League after downing Nova Scotia 8-5 Thursday night.

Murray Kuntz, who rode the boards last year, had three goals and was the second Sword to make the Hat Trick in a week. Doug Rombough had three against Boston Saturday.

Cincinnati Swords Top Nova Scotia, 8-5

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The rampaging Cincinnati Swords moved 15 points out front of Hershey in their lead over the Western Division of the American Hockey League after downing Nova Scotia 8-5 Thursday night.

Murray Kuntz, who rode the boards last year, had three goals and was the second Sword to make the Hat Trick in a week. Doug Rombough had three against Boston Saturday.

HOLIDAY
FUN

Thousands of people have toured our old store again this year — recalling the nostalgia and warmth of Christmases years ago. Have you been here yet? We suggest you come this week or even Saturday and Sunday, the day before Christmas, until 9:00 each nite. If you can't make it now, plan on the weekend after Christmas. Here you can browse through layers of artificial snow and two floors of thousands of old time, made with care and pride, Country store products, candies and furniture, plus one of the largest supplies of restoration glass lamp shades and parts to be found. Plan on two hours — you can rest your weary feet on our pot belly stove. We hope your family finds our old stove that pleasant, comfortable, friendly experience of a bygone era. PEDDLERS — THE GENERAL STORE at the crossroads of Marysville, Ohio, 117 Main Street N (look for our rain barrel). Located off state Route 33, 28 miles N.W. of Columbus, Ohio. Two fine restaurants within a block of store. Write for our new 1973 Spring Catalog.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wife Withholds Sex

DEAR ABBY: Should a wife withhold sex to punish her husband? Well, that is what my wife has been doing lately and I am sick of it. Whenever we have a little spat, I always apologize whether I think I'm wrong or not, but she refuses to accept my apologies. I get over being mad in 30 minutes, but it takes her anywhere from two to three weeks!

I don't drink or mess around with other women. If I did, I might deserve this kind of punishment, but she gives me the cold treatment for every little thing.

What do YOU think about a wife like mine?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: She's unfair, unwife, and unfulfilled. But more significant ,sex is obviously no pleasure for her or she wouldn't deny herslef a treat in an effort to punish you. When you are on good terms why not discuss it with her and try to improve the situation?

DEAR ABBY: My husband was the "quiet type"-the last person in the world anyone would suspect capable of infidelity. Nevertheless, he was.

I later learned he had been having an affair in our home, right in our own bed! I discovered this when I came home unexpectedly and found them there. Only one who has been through this can know the anguish I felt.

After I filed for divorce, three of my neighbors told me that for the last year they had seen this young women entering and leaving my home many times after I had left for work.

I wanted to scream, "Why didn't you tell me? You could have spared me all this!"

Then I realized that they probably thought they were doing "the right thing" by keeping quiet. Abby, had I been told, perhaps it could have been ironed out by counseling, or just knowing would have caused me to file for divorce and been spared the humiliation of walking in on such a scene.

I pray that at least one neighbor who is aware of such goings on will read this and tell the wronged spouse, so she won't be subjected to what I experienced. Thank you.

THE LAST TO KNOW

DEAR LAST: I would not advise anyone to inform on his neighbors. There is too much margin for error. The "wronged spouse" usually knows that something is amiss, and a report from the neighbors would serve only to humiliate.

DEAR ABBY: Hilda, my neighbor's daughter, became engaged and her aunts gave her a shower, which was a hugh success. She received more than 50 beautiful and expensive gifts. (I saw them myself.)

A week later, the wedding was called off. Hilda made no secret that the boy asked for his ring back.

Her mother told me that Hilda was sending out notes saying, "Thank you for the shower gift. The wedding has been called off. If you can't come by and pick your shower gift, let me know and I will get it back to you."

A whole month has passed and I have received no such note. Since I live right next door, all she'd have to do is TELL me, and I'd go over and pick up my gift. I think she is waiting for me (and others who have her a gift) to tell her to keep it, which I am not going to do!

As far as I know, not one person who gave her a shower gift has had a note from Hilda, nor has she returned one gift. I gave her a pair of good pillows which I could use myself. What should I do?

ANGRY IN BUFFAL

DEAR ANGRY: Tell Hilda she needn't bother to send you a note-that you've come for your pillows.

Santa, Helper Out In Cold

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Santa Claus and his helper were left out in the cold on a church roof this week and were further embarrassed by a police interrogation while trying to get to a children's Christmas party.

"I don't know if I want to play Santa Claus again," mused Hamilton Journal News Sunday Editor Rex Richardson, after the Wednesday night incident.

He and a friend decided to make the church party more authentic by entering from the roof, but somebody swiped their ladder after they got up.

A policeman became suspicious and questioned them when they finally got down.

FUN

Thousands of people have toured our old store again this year — recalling the nostalgia and warmth of Christmases years ago. Have you been here yet? We suggest you come this week or even Saturday and Sunday, the day before Christmas, until 9:00 each nite. If you can't make it now, plan on the weekend after Christmas. Here you can browse through layers of artificial snow and two floors of thousands of old time, made with care and pride, Country store products, candies and furniture, plus one of the largest supplies of restoration glass lamp shades and parts to be found. Plan on two hours — you can rest your weary feet on our pot belly stove. We hope your family finds our old stove that pleasant, comfortable, friendly experience of a bygone era. PEDDLERS — THE GENERAL STORE at the crossroads of Marysville, Ohio, 117 Main Street N (look for our rain barrel). Located off state Route 33, 28 miles N.W. of Columbus, Ohio. Two fine restaurants within a block of store. Write for our new 1973 Spring Catalog.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wife Withholds Sex

DEAR ABBY: Should a wife withhold sex to punish her husband? Well, that is what my wife has been doing lately and I am sick of it. Whenever we have a little spat, I always apologize whether I think I'm wrong or not, but she refuses to accept my apologies. I get over being mad in 30 minutes, but it takes her anywhere from two to three weeks!

I don't drink or mess around with other women. If I did, I might deserve this kind of punishment, but she gives me the cold treatment for every little thing.

What do YOU think about a wife like mine?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: She's unfair, unwife, and unfulfilled. But more significant ,sex is obviously no pleasure for her or she wouldn't deny herslef a treat in an effort to punish you. When you are on good terms why not discuss it with her and try to improve the situation?

DEAR ABBY: My husband was the "quiet type"-the last person in the world anyone would suspect capable of infidelity. Nevertheless, he was.

I later learned he had been having an affair in our home, right in our own bed! I discovered this when I came home unexpectedly and found them there. Only one who has been through this can know the anguish I felt.

After I filed for divorce, three of my neighbors told me that for the last year they had seen this young women entering and leaving my home many times after I had left for work.

I wanted to scream, "Why didn't you tell me? You could have spared me all this!"

Then I realized that they probably thought they were doing "the right thing" by keeping quiet. Abby, had I been told, perhaps it could have been ironed out by counseling, or just knowing would have caused me to file for divorce and been spared the humiliation of walking in on such a scene.

I pray that at least one neighbor who is aware of such goings on will read this and tell the wronged spouse, so she won't be subjected to what I experienced. Thank you.

THE LAST TO KNOW

DEAR LAST: I would not advise anyone to inform on his neighbors. There is too much margin for error. The "wronged spouse" usually knows that something is amiss, and a report from the neighbors would serve only to humiliate.

DEAR ABBY: Hilda, my neighbor's daughter, became engaged and her aunts gave her a shower, which was a hugh success. She received more than 50 beautiful and expensive gifts. (I saw them myself.)

A week later, the wedding was called off. Hilda made no secret that the boy asked for his ring back.

Her mother told me that Hilda was sending out notes saying, "Thank you for the shower gift. The wedding has been called off. If you can't come by and pick your shower gift, let me know and I will get it back to you."

A whole month has passed and I have received no such note. Since I live right next door, all she'd have to do is TELL me, and I'd go over and pick up my gift. I think she is waiting for me (and others who have her a gift) to tell her to keep it, which I am not going to do!

As far as I know, not one person who gave her a shower gift has had a note from Hilda, nor has she returned one gift. I gave her a pair of good pillows which I could use myself. What should I do?

ANGRY IN BUFFALO

DEAR ANGRY: Tell Hilda she needn't bother to send you a note-that you've come for your pillows.

Santa, Helper Out In Cold

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Santa Claus and his helper were left out in the cold on a church roof this week and were further embarrassed by a police interrogation while trying to get to a children's Christmas party.

"I don't know if I want to play Santa Claus again," mused Hamilton Journal News Sunday Editor Rex Richardson, after the Wednesday night incident.

He and a friend decided to make the church party more authentic by entering from the roof, but somebody swiped their ladder after they got up.

A policeman became suspicious and questioned them when they finally got down.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of County Commissioners of Pickaway County, Ohio, at the office of their Clerk, Room 5, Pickaway County Court House, Circleville, Ohio, until 12 o'clock noon (E.S.T.) on Monday, January 15, 1973 and at 1:30 P.M. (E.S.T.) the same day said bids will be publicly opened and read aloud for the furnishing of one (1), 1973 Police car, 4 door sedan, including Police Package for the Pickaway County Sheriff Department according to the specifications on file in the Commissioners Office.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to use money you have better and get advice from experts where big expenditures are concerned, or you could lose your shirt. They are in a fine mood to help you now. Buy the right gift for your mate, one that will really be appreciated.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Fine day to start the social ball rolling to make the holiday more pleasurable. Don't forget to invite those who are lonely. Try to get to bed by midnight, since aspects are not very good after that time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can sit down early and plan well for the future and for the holidays. You get fine ideas from experts in your field. Avoid one who has peculiar ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to contact both new and old friends and reach a better understanding with them, cement better relations. Repay some social debt of long standing. Avoid onewho likes to start arguments, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get out into the active world and show you are philanthropic and civic minded. This can improve your public image considerably. Gain the approval of influential persons you like.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have fine ideas for the future and should do something positive about them so you can advance more quickly. Work enthusiastically and then take time for social activities in p.m., but try to get to bed by midnight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) There is much work for you to wind up before starting the holiday preparations that are important also. Cooperate with mate who has duties for you to perform in p.m. Get into the right spirit of things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Cooperate more with associates and reach right understanding during this holiday season. Get into the recreation that pleases you, also. Avoid one who is a real pest and could take up much of your time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Show others you appreciate their loyalty and favors of the past and do something particularly nice for them. Plan time for shopping and buying new clothing for yourself so you are at your best for the holidays.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fine young people who will have lofty ideas about helping others in a big way, and the education should be slanted along personnel, philanthropic or political lines. There are fine talents here, and the greatest work can be done until middle age when retirement can bring the much desired and earned leisure without worry as to finances. There can be much marital happiness here. Religion early.

Views On TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — It would cheer Scrooge mightily to know that the "bah, humbug" spirit isn't dead after all. At least not on television at night.

The networks plan to broadcast 19 entertainment programs during prime evening time Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Only three of the shows deal in any way with Christmas.

There are two schools of thought on the reason for this. They are:

—By Christmas Eve, a sizable number of viewers are up to their holly boughs in Christmas shows and yuletide commercials.

—Nobody's watching anyway on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day. They're opening presents, fighting Dad for control of the electric train, getting ready for church or visiting friends and relatives.

One is NBC's "The World of Disney." The show, first aired in 1954, is a combination of live action and animation; it deals in part with a group of Mexican children celebrating Christmas.

At CBS, "The Dick Van Dyke Show" has the star worrying about spending Christmas behind bars unless he can post $100 for a speeding fine.

At ABC, "The FBI" will worry about keeping alive — at Christmastime — a family man who quit a smuggling ring. Another Christmas hint in this show comes during a commercial break.

A sponsor, the Prudential Insurance Co., is putting on a three-minute "miniconcert" of Christmas carols by the Newark (N.J.) Boys Choir instead of the three commercials it normally would air.

Views On TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — It would cheer Scrooge mightily to know that the "bah, humbug" spirit isn't dead after all. At least not on television at night.

The networks plan to broadcast 19 entertainment programs during prime evening time Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Only three of the shows deal in any way with Christmas.

There are two schools of thought on the reason for this. They are:

—By Christmas Eve, a sizable number of viewers are up to their holly boughs in Christmas shows and yuletide commercials.

—Nobody's watching anyway on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day. They're opening presents, fighting Dad for control of the electric train, getting ready for church or visiting friends and relatives.

One is NBC's "The World of Disney." The show, first aired in 1954, is a combination of live action and animation; it deals in part with a group of Mexican children celebrating Christmas.

At CBS, "The Dick Van Dyke Show" has the star worrying about spending Christmas behind bars unless he can post $100 for a speeding fine.

At ABC, "The FBI" will worry about keeping alive — at Christmastime — a family man who quit a smuggling ring. Another Christmas hint in this show comes during a commercial break.

A sponsor, the Prudential Insurance Co., is putting on a three-minute "miniconcert" of Christmas carols by the Newark (N.J.) Boys Choir instead of the three commercials it normally would air.

Col. George Peters To Retire From Army

COL. GEORGE M. PETERS

Col. George M. Peters, executive officer of William Beaumont General Hospital since July, 1969, will retire at the end of December after more than 31 years of Army service. He is a native of Ashville.

Col. Peters also has filled the additional roles of chief of Administrative Services, and preceptor for annual groups of administrative residents working for their master's degrees in Health Care administration at Beaumont Hospital.

Col. Peters' colorful three-decade career began in the army Medical Department when he started as an operating room and orthopedic dressing technician at Walter Reed General Hospital. He was commissioned in 1942.

He came to William Beaumont from Washington, D.C., where he served as inspector general in the office of the Inspector General, Department of the Army.

Col. Peters entered the Army in 1941. His major service includes tours of duty as comptroller and assistant chief of Administrative Services at Valley Forge General Hospital; comptroller of Louisville Medical Depot in Kentucky; comptroller of the U.S. Army Medical Service Group in the Ryukus Islands and assistant chief of the Organization and Allowances Branch, Plans and Operations Division, Office of The Surgeon General.

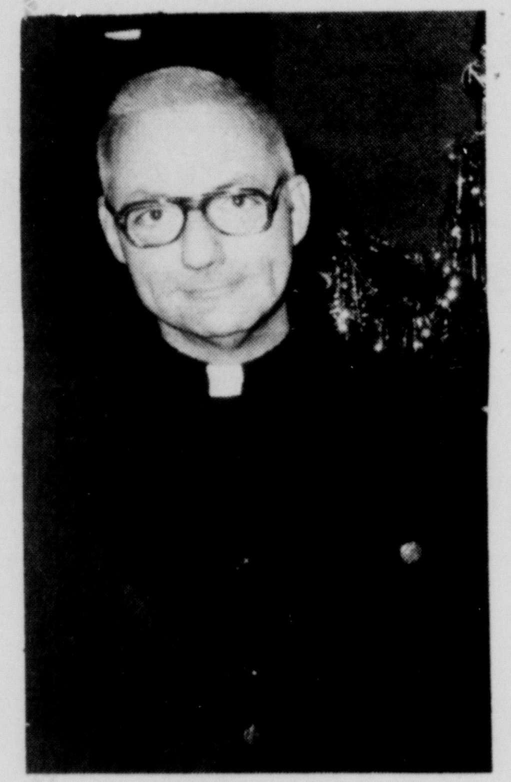
During World War II he served with Headquarters, 61st Medical Battalion in the United States and the European Theater, holding both command and staff positions.

He holds a master's degree in business administration, from Syracuse University in New York, and a bachelor of science degree from the University of Maryland. He has attended numerous service schools.

Col. and Mrs. Peters reside in quarters at WBGH. They have three children, Teena, 25, Barbara, 21 and Gregg, 20.

The Peters plan to take up residence in St. Paul approximately April 1, 1973.

Puerto Rican Christmas Is Explained



FATHER THOMAS CADDEN

A Puerto Rican Christmas was described to Circleville Rotary members by Father Thomas Cadden Thursday.

Father Cadden spent several years as a parish priest in Puerto Rico. He is a native of Chillicothe and is now assigned to the St. Joseph Parish in Circleville.

The little country is adopting American ways now, according to the priest, and commercialization of the Christmas season begins Labor Day. The actual exchange of gifts occurs Jan. 6.

Rather than looking for their gifts under a pine tree, the youngsters of that country peek under their beds. Children place bunches of lawn-type grass under their beds and it is replaced during the night with gifts.

Registrations Still Open For Y Ski Classes

At the first organizational meeting of the YMCA's "Learn to Ski" program, 18 persons registered for classes.

For those unable to attend the first meeting, a second organizational session has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the YMCA.

The program, open to the public for adults, youth over 14, and children accompanied by a parent, will begin Jan. 3. The first session will be held indoors and will cover the fundamentals of skiing. Ski equipment, clothing, lift devices and the current teaching methods will be reviewed along with a new movie on skiing.

Classes will then move to the slopes at Clear Fork in Butler. The lessons will be given each Thursday evening for the next five weeks by instructors qualified by the Central Ski Association. Ski equipment will be furnished by the ski area and is included in the cost of the program. Transportation will be arranged by the YMCA.

Accused Armed Robbers Bound To Grand Jury

Two men charged with the armed robbery of a South Bloomfield gasoline station earlier in the week were ordered bound to the grand jury following a preliminary hearing Thursday by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

They are Lee. E. Crum, 25, Columbus, and Arthur Lee Davis, 25, Columbus. Both were retained under $10,000 bond.

In other Municipal Court cases, James E. Schoonover, 27, Xenia, was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to 60 days in the county jail and lost his driver's license for 3 years after being found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Donald Morris, 33, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, also charged with DWI, was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and lost his license for 6 months.

Ronald Leadingham, 36, Kingston, forfeited $24 bond for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 zone.

Becoming husband and wife (and a whole year's income tax deduction) in past Decembers we have: John and Sue Graffis, Eddie and Linda Ater, Dec. 6; Ernie and Betty Lahrmer, Dec. 8; Warren and Edith Straley, Dec. 10; Roy and Marie Ankrom (their 53rd), Dec. 11; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fenneken (I forget which Knece twin), Dec. 12; Eldon and Lois Long, Dec. 15; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Maughmer, Harry and Emma Puffinbarger, Dec. 18; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Curry, Dec. 19; Bill and Vallie Long, Dec. 20; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Carfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Anderson, Dec. 21; Darl and Bessie Miller (51st), Dec. 22; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Suellenberger, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter, Dec. 23; Mr. and Mrs. Mearl Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eitel, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Conley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Mowery , Mr. and Mrs. Russell Richards, Dec. 24; Howard and Pauline Pond, Tom and Mae Carter, Herschell and Mae Litter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hillman, Dec. 25; Tom and Anna Mae Conrad, Dec. 26; J. C. and Elsie Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stoer, Dec. 27; Tim and Donna Hamilton, Dec. 28; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grabill, Bob and Arlena See, Dec. 29.

It is nice to know that our friend, Mrs. J. R. Bright, has returned to her home after being hospitalized for several days. According to her daughter Mrs. Mary Lee Stevens she is "coming along" very nicely. The family is hopeful of hiring someone to be with Mrs. B. on a regular basis. Thus far they have been unsuccessful and her granddaughter Joyce Stevens who is home for the holidays from her Miami University studies is with her. If any reader is interested why not call Mrs. Stevens at 986-2198.

Paul Chester, one of our villages grade A citizens, suffered a heart attack and is a patient at Berger Hospital where he will be for several more weeks. His wife, Elizabeth, is staying with relatives in Circleville at the moment so she can spend as much time as possible at Paul's bedside.

Little Tracy Heskett, wee daughter of Bill and Nancy of Louisville, Kentucky is with her doting grandparents Doc and Irma Fenstermaker and Aunt Biffer. Her parents will join her on Christmas Day.

How many have driven thru the Wright Addition and been dazzled by all the beautiful Christmas decorating? There are so many lovely ideas and each one has its own charm. Mike and Carol Tarbill have a ingenious "tree" in their yard; Geneva and Linda Eisnaugle have their usual outstanding decorations; Don and Rose Evelyn McDill's is very pretty and so is the flashing tree at John and Norma Drummond's; adding to the gay atmosphere are the Bill Puffinbargers, Bud Gradys, Jim Mowerys; Juanita Hanson, Dallas Valentines, Snyders and probably others who didn't have their lights on when I happened thru. On up the street Bob and Betty Shaeffer give a cherry message and Jim and Norma Cochenour are decorated from the foundation to the rooftops — always a pretty one.

Next door to them "Red" and Frances Fry have a most attractive door (they always do). Each year their door decoration seems to surpass the one before and it just doesn't seem as though it could be possible. They have truly inspired ideas. Additional lights and decorations add that Merry Christmas look. I like the Buskirk's porch real well and next door to them the Beathards are all prettily decorated, too. So are the Glenn Shaeffer's and Harry Youngs. What is prettier than Earl and Maxine Lanman's adornments? Or Jim and Karen Dean's? Or the Walker's? And how about Oscar and Rosie Atwood? Hey, go down on Ballard Ave. (that's over by the village park) and dig those groovy lights of the Loy Coleman's? Never have seen those kind ever! Almost psychedelic! Larry and Cinda Justice's place is quite pretty.

Bill and Marcia Horch have a door decoration that shouldn't be missed and next door Rose Horch has the ever popular Santa and his Elves on the rooftop. The Harmon Lemmings have their trailer area looking like a page right out of fairy land and so do the Adams. As bananas as I am about Christmas decorating guess who didn't get their lights up until today (Thursday) and son Marc and that Graffis kid (Cahrles) had to do that. For some reason this household is running about three weeks behind schedule at this point in time. I hope to get to spend more time admiring all the villagers effrts. Jay and Evelyn Kaiser have a pretty corner and down from them Steve and Onda Fullen and is it the Flaker home add to the beauty of their street. If you have time go out 22 west and enjoy the Ray Valones efforts — well worthwile. Curt and Millie Keller, where are Santa and his reindeer? Your other lights are most attractive, — BUT.

The Christmas Concert at Westfall couldn't have been better and the program at Jackson Elementary was truly delightful — full report next time. After 12 hours of shopping today this chick is worn to a "nubbin" and pounding a typewriter just isn't my "bag."

My embarrassed apologies to the lady behind me in the check-out line at Ward's Market Monday evening. I mistakenly "picked up" your sack as well as my own and did not discover the error until reaching home. It has been returned to the market, in case you read this, and can be claimed as your own.

For some years now we have dispensed with sending individual Christmas cards and have chosen to contribute to the Ruth Lyons Christmas fund instead. Therefore, may we take this means to send each of you this message: Hope your holidays are jolly days; Bright with fun and laughter, And hope each day brings joy your way in the year that follows after. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, everyone, everywhere. The Easterdays—Eileen, Bill, Marc, Becki (Birfy) and Amy.

Cities' Vehicle Tax Share Is Received

Circleville received $3,465 in the third and final distribution of 1971 permissive motor vehicle license fees.

State law allows a municipality to charge an extra $5 per motor vehicle registered within its boundaries.

Officer Injured In Cruiser Mishap

Circleville Ptl. Jack W. Mills, 38, 325 Clark Drive, suffered a neck injury when his cruiser struck a utility pole 8:55 p.m. Thursday on Circle Drive.

Mills had been on a call and was backing out of the driveway when the rear of the cruiser hit the pole. He was taken to Berger Hospital where he was treated and released.

Hey, go down on Ballard Ave. (that's over by the village park) and dig those groovy lights of the Loy Coleman's? Never have seen those kind ever! Almost psychedelic! Larry and Cinda Justice's place is quite pretty.

Bill and Marcia Horch have a door decoration that shouldn't be missed and next door Rose Horch has the ever popular Santa and his Elves on the rooftop. The Harmon Lemmings have their trailer area looking like a page right out of fairy land and so do the Adams. As bananas as I am about Christmas decorating guess who didn't get their lights up until today (Thursday) and son Marc and that Graffis kid (Cahrles) had to do that. For some reason this household is running about three weeks behind schedule at this point in time. I hope to get to spend more time admiring all the villagers effrts. Jay and Evelyn Kaiser have a pretty corner and down from them Steve and Onda Fullen and is it the Flaker home add to the beauty of their street. If you have time go out 22 west and enjoy the Ray Valones efforts — well worthwile. Curt and Millie Keller, where are Santa and his reindeer? Your other lights are most attractive, — BUT.

The Christmas Concert at Westfall couldn't have been better and the program at Jackson Elementary was truly delightful — full report next time. After 12 hours of shopping today this chick is worn to a "nubbin" and pounding a typewriter just isn't my "bag."

My embarrassed apologies to the lady behind me in the check-out line at Ward's Market Monday evening. I mistakenly "picked up" your sack as well as my own and did not discover the error until reaching home. It has been returned to the market, in case you read this, and can be claimed as your own.

For some years now we have dispensed with sending individual Christmas cards and have chosen to contribute to the Ruth Lyons Christmas fund instead. Therefore, may we take this means to send each of you this message: Hope your holidays are jolly days; Bright with fun and laughter, And hope each day brings joy your way in the year that follows after. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, everyone, everywhere. The Easterdays—Eileen, Bill, Marc, Becki (Birfy) and Amy.

Hobbiest Makes His Yule Gifts

Woodworking, the hobby that 72-year-old Fred Boggs, 440 E. Franklin St., has pursued since before his retirement as a mechanic, has made Christmas something special for his family for several years.

Each year he makes practically every gift that he and his wife Haydee, give to their four children (Betty Liston, Bob, Bill and Nancy Reichelderfer) and their 10 grandchildren.

Fred bagan his hobby several years before retirement, and now it occupies many of his daylight hours.

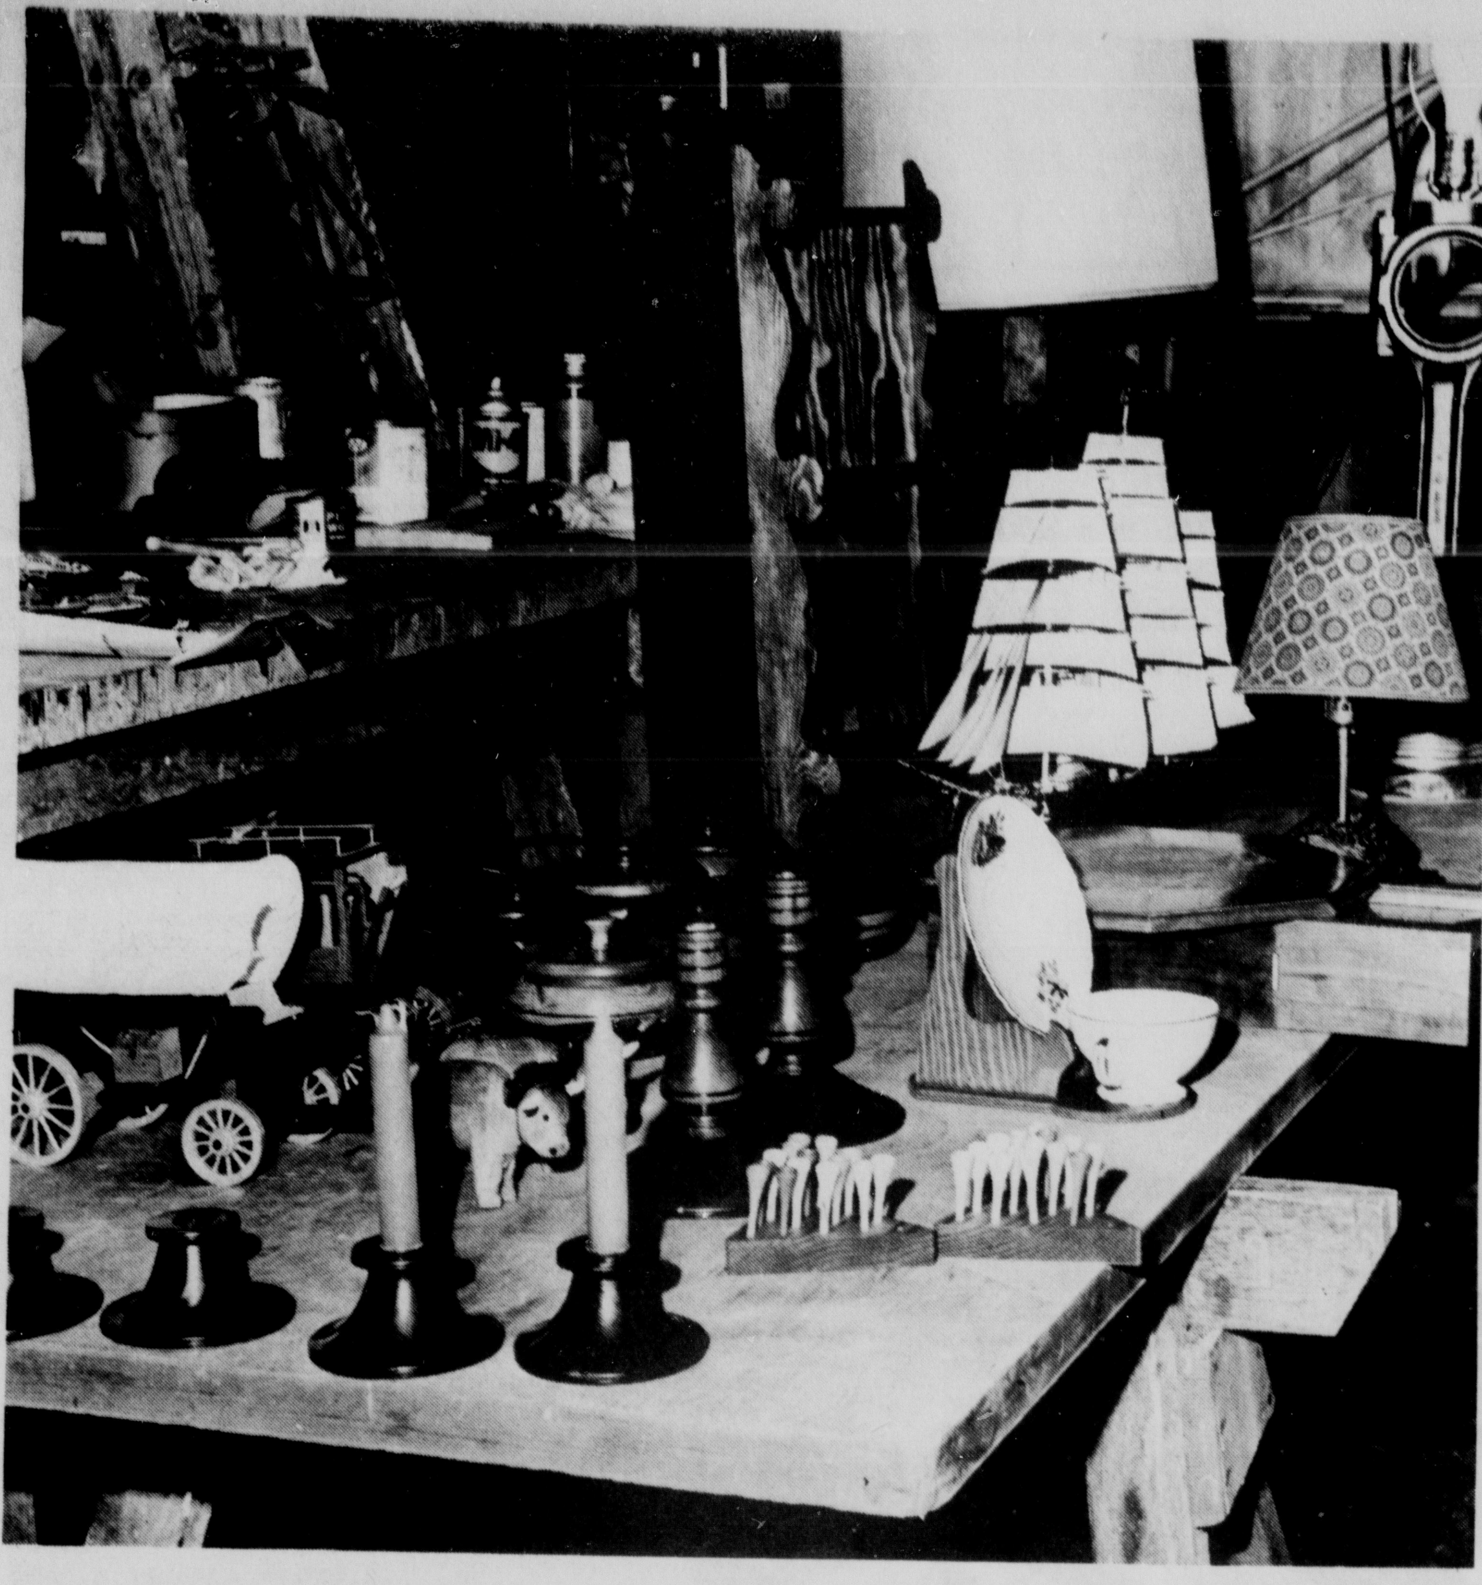
"A man is just like a car. You can't let it set around all the time and expect it to run right. You've got to keep busy," he philosophizes.

"I'm just an old mechanic. I've worked with my hands all my life and now that I'm retired I have to have something to do," he says.

The few tools he has are not expensive — a homemade lathe, a bench saw, small electric joiner, a grinder and a few hand tools.

He makes the chisels he needs for his lathe work from old files.

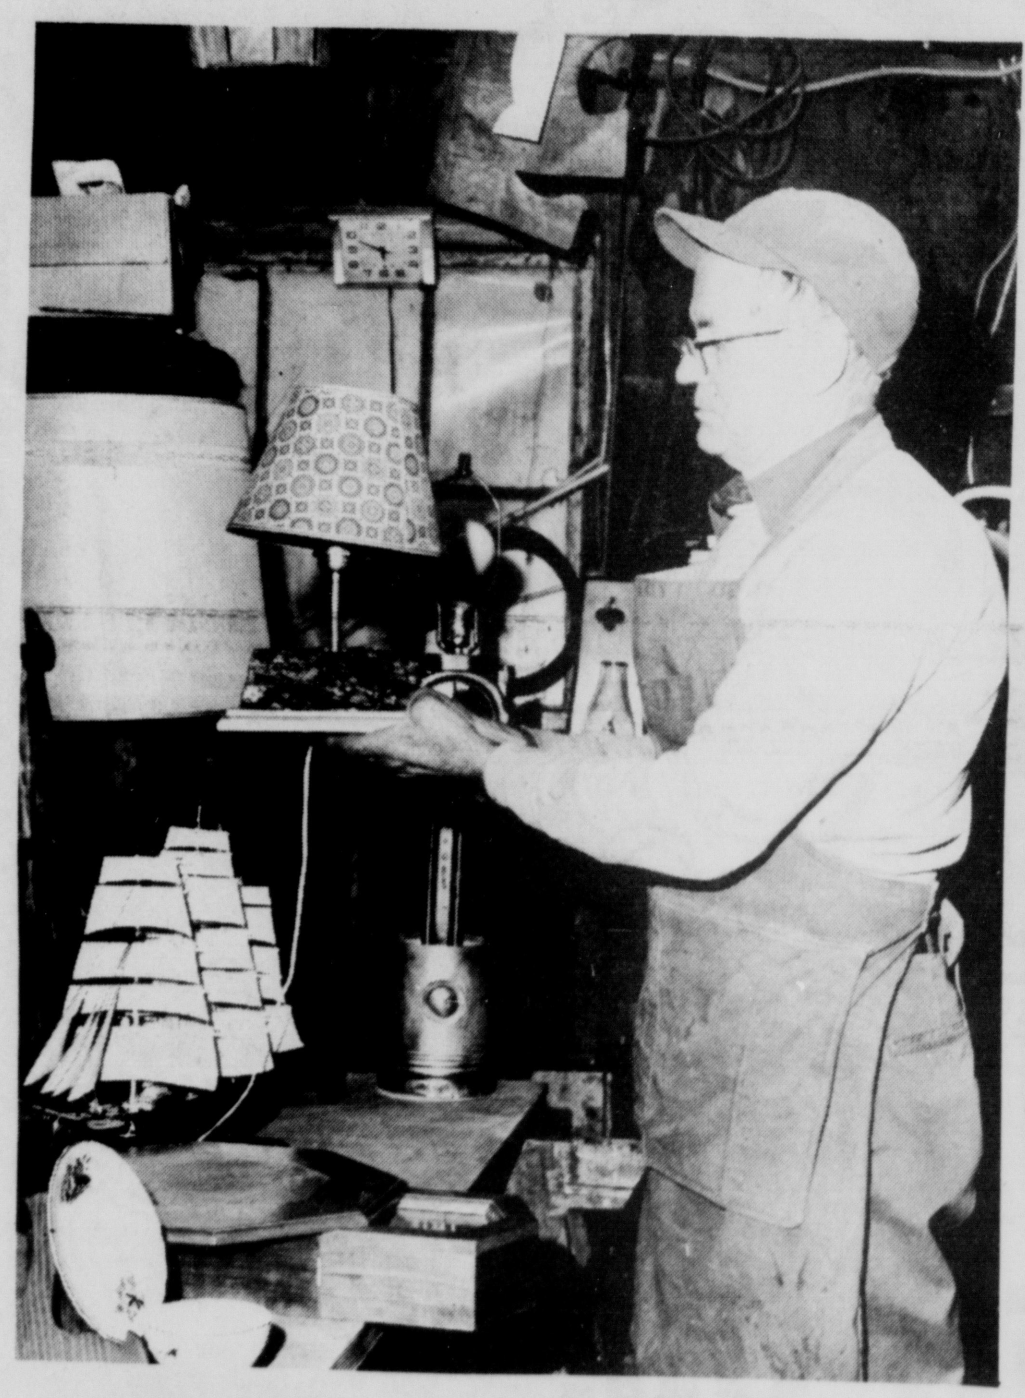
And from that tiny shop and those few tools come tiny wooden oxen and horses pulling wagons, candle sticks turned on the lathe, simple puzzles made from scraps of wood, wall clocks and grandfather clocks, boats, lamps, ashtrays and wooden dishes, and fine pieces of furniture like dry sinks and hutches.



Gifts waiting to be delivered

At work at the lathe

I make my stain from chewing tobacco



A lamp made from Logan Elm...

And one made from a piston

A hutch that was a gift for Haydee Boggs

Santa Claus Comes To Life Through Post Office Bin

NEW YORK (AP) — A 7-year-old girl in Northern Ireland and another in the Irish Republic to the south have found they can reach Santa Claus at the same place — the General Post Office in New York.

In both cases, Santa went by the name of Elyse Feldman, a high school teacher who is one of a number of New Yorkers who each year go to the post office, pick up batches of letters addressed to Santa, and answer them.

Last week she picked up a group of about 50, most of them from poor areas of New York, to bring to a party at which friends would match them with gifts.

In the batch was a letter from Anna Maree McIvor, 7, of Upper Mullan Ballinderry Bridge, Cookstown, County Tyrone, Northern Ireland. And there was one from Ethna Joyce, 7, with a postmark identifying her town as Clifeen, a coastal town about 50 miles west of Galway City.

Somehow, Miss Feldman said, both girls got the idea they could address mail to Santa through the New York post office, and it may be hard now to convince them now that they can't. Anna is getting stationery and some toys and Ethna will get a doll, both with the return address: "Santa Claus. The North Pole."

The letters the little girls sent Santa were among thousands — most addressed to the North Pole — that are stored in a separate room at the General Post Office and distributed to groups and individuals who ask for them, the U.S. Postal Service said.

The 50 letters Miss Feldman gathered were answered at a party at her Manhattan apartment to which each of the 20 guests brought a bundle of toys.

A Festive Holiday With Selective Eating Means A Figure To Notice

By MICHELE MORRISON
Herald Staff Writer

For those dedicated to having a waist line, when the holiday must be a continuation of the fast rather than a time to feast, the Ashville TOPS Club offers some recipes.

LO-CAL HOLIDAY—For Mrs. Clarabelle Pobst, Mrs. Margie Stickle and Mrs. Janet Stebelton, a festive luncheon is strictly low-calorie to keep the extra pounds away. Mrs. Stickle and Mrs. Stebelton have both achieved their goal of weight loss—42 pounds in six months for Mrs. Stickle and 15 pounds in three months. Mrs. Pobst has been an Ashville TOPS member for the last two years and records a 30 pound weight loss. These women offer some festive recipes for holiday celebrating the weigh-less way.

These are home recipes of members of the Ashville Club dedicated to Take Off Pounds Sensibly. The group has been meeting for four years every Friday morning in South Bloomfield and have many now-slender members who are proud to do holiday shopping for clothes.

Three of its members "graduated" to the KOPS classification at the annual Christmas party Dec. 19. Marge Stickle, Janet Stebelton and Lorraine Muncy were honored for successfully reaching their weight loss goal, but will retain close contact with the club as they maintain their weight and join in the "group therapy" sessions.

All legal low-calorie foods for the holiday fest of the TOPS were provided by members when they met at the home of a member, Mrs. Clarabelle Pobst, and they may have included one of these dishes:

Leftover Turkey Casserole

½ cup diced cooked turkey (white meat)
¼ cup cooked rice
½ cup cooked green beans
2 stalks celery, diced
1 small onion, diced
½ cup chicken boullion

Offered by Janet Stebelton

Cabbage Salad

½ head cabbage, approximately 2½ cups shredded half a green pepper
1 small carrot
¼ cup celery
2 green onions

Chop ingredients finely or use blender. For dressing combine:

⅛ cup water
¼ cup vinegar
3 crushed sweetener tablets
salt and pepper to taste

A one cup serving will have 40 calories

By Margie Stickel

Luncheon Muffins

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon orange peel
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon cream of tarter
5 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon almond flavoring

Sife flour. Add baking powder, cinnamon and salt. Sift again. To unbeaten whites (room temperature), add the water and beat until stiff. Beat in sugar. Fold dry mixture into egg whites. Sprinkle salt and cream of tartar over mixture and fold in, adding orange peel and flavoring. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Yield 12 muffins at 36 calories each.

By Marge Stickel

Strawberry Sponge

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 tablespoon artificial sweetener
1½ tablespoon lemon juice
1 quart crushed strawberries
2 egg whites

Place water and gelatin in top of double boiler to soften. Add sweetner and lemon juice. Heat. Stir until dissolved. Remove from heat. Cool. Add berries, stir, let stand until it thickens. Beat until light and fluffy. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture. Spoon into one large or several small molds. Yield six servings, 47 calories each.

Janet Stebelton

Cranberry Relish

2 cups cranberries (freeze first as they grind better
½ apple, cored but not peeled
½ orange, seeded but not peeled.

Place in grinder and blend. Dissolve three sweetner tablets in one tablespoon hot water and add. Refrigerate. Makes 4 servings each with 53 calories.

All About Carols

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Century old carols and more recent melodies will again be combined to celebrate still another Christmas — Christmas 1972.

For those who sometimes wonder about the stories behind some of these carols, the American Music Conference offers the following:

One of the most popular traditional carols, "Joy to the World," combines four nationalities and almost 3,000 years. The words, borrowed from an ancient Hebrew poet, were paraphrased by Isaac Watts, English hymn writer, in 1719. George Frideric Handel took the hymn motifs and put them into "The Mesiah" (1741). In 1830, American composer Lowell Mason, took the motifs and wrote the carol as we know it today.

"It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" by Edmund H. Sears, an American, also began as a poem. Sears, while stitting before his fireplace watching the snow drifting down, was inspired to create a Christmas poem. This he sent to his friend, Dr. Morrison, at the Christian Register, who published it. It was later arranged by uzziah C. Burnap to a tune by R. Storrs Willis. This is one of the first carols to have an emphatic social message, emphasizing the longings of those "beneath life's crushing load."

"O Come, All Ye Faithful," also known by its Latin title "Adeste Fideles," has been translated into 125 languages. Often attributed to Bonaventura, it was actually written by an Englishman residing in France. A copier of music for Catholic institutions and families, John Francis Wade was in Douai, France, in 1744, when he was moved to write the hymn and set it to music.

Bing Crosby was responsible for introducing "White Christmas," written by Irvin Berlin in 1942 for the film "Holiday Inn." The song was immediately popular and won the composer the "Oscar" for the year's best song.

Although most carols sung today are devotional in nature of festive songs of the season, earlier composers sometimes used them to comment on political, social or economic situations of the times.

In 18th Century England, one Francis Hoffman created a carol about tea — the high prices being charged and the quality of the product.

Dedicated to Queen Caroline and all the Royal Family, the carol mentions the birthplace in the manger and the miraculous presence of God "in the bush of thorn."

"Which bush of thorn appears to me
The same that vields best Peko tea:

and concludes.

May all who do these truths condemn
Here, or in New Jerusalem"

Whether devotional in intent or just a comment on the season such as "Jingle Bells" or "Deck the Halls," carols have been an integral part of the Christmas observance since the angles first sang "Gloria in Excelseis Deo" before the manager. They constantly renew the age-old holiday observance and bridge the centuries with music.

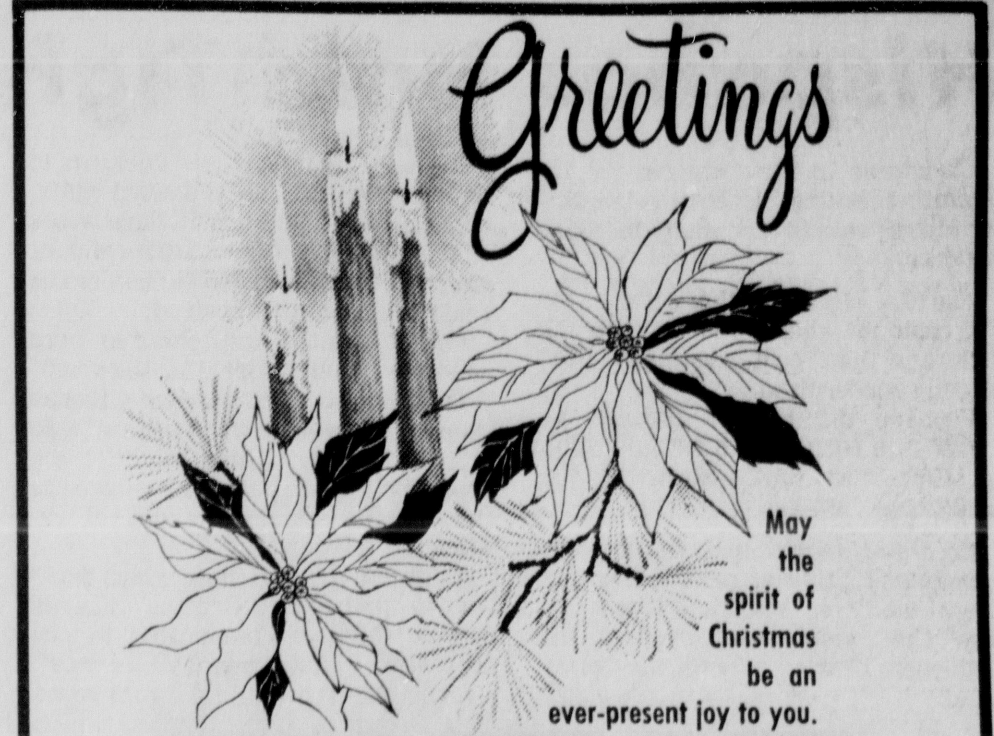
Sisters Enter Parliament

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Two sisters are in the 40-seat House of Assembly in Parliament here, a political first in this British colony.

After victories in the 1972 general election, the second under Bermuda's new constitution, Mrs. Helene Darrell-Brown and Mrs. Gloria McPhee sit as Members of Colonial Parliament. Mrs. McPhee also serves on the Executive Council, Bermuda's cabinet, as Member for Education.

The two sisters' interest in politics was sparked by two black American women. Mrs. Darrell-Brown said she met Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm "and I began to realize how vital a role a woman can play in her community through politics."

Mrs. McPhee was inspired by Marjorie Lawson, a juvenile court judge in Washington who is on the Commission on the Organization of the Government of the District of Columbia.



May the spirit of Christmas be an ever-present joy to you.

Hispanos Hold Tightly To The Old

Christmas in New Mexcio for the Spanish-speaking has been celebrated for many years in essentially the same manner.

The only change is that some of the old customs which date back to the 15th and 16th centuries have been slightly modernized.

Perhaps the biggest change has resulted in Hispanos exchanging gifts on Christmas day instead of the traditional Jan. 6.

According to old customs, the exchanging of gifts was reserved for the Day of the Three Wise Men. This is the day the wise men arrived in Bethlehem bearing gifts for the Christ Child.

Instead of hanging their stockings in anticipation of the promised gifts, children were told to fill their shoes with straw. The straw, the children were told, was to be fed to the camels when the wise men arrived.

Parents waited until children were asleep to substitute gifts for the straw.

This manner of exchanging gifts has changed with the coming of the Anglo to New Mexico. Little by little the Spanish-speaking people have come to observe Dec. 25 as the day of exchanging gifts.

Another ancient custom which dates back to Spain is the "Oremos", (Let us pray), which is comparable to our present day Halloween trick or treat.

Little children would go from house to house clutching paper bags or flour sacks in their cold little hands singing in Spanish a song which translated was:

"Premos, Oremos, we are little angels come down from heaven to ask for Oremos, and if you will not give us Oremos, we will break all your doors and windows."

Of course this never happened, since housewives would always have a supply of bizchochitos, pies, fruit and candy to share with them.

A custom which was very popular in the old days but is almost unheard of today was the kidnaping of the Christ Child from the nativity scene. The nativity scenes, which today are still found in most churches and homes, had to be guarded by specifically appointed watchers against kidnapers.

If by chance a kidnaper succeeded, a ransom had to be paid for the infant's return. The ransom was usually a special mass or a rosary to be recited by the villagers. In some cases the kidnapers would ask that a big dance be held for all the people of the village.

Another tradition long popular in New Mexico has now spread to other parts of the county. That's the use of luminaries during the Christmas season.

These little lights that line rooftops, low walls, and walks, are made of small paper bags turned down at the top and weighted with a handful of sand, in which stands a single short candle.

These farolitos, as they are sometimes called, are used widely for decoration, their origin rooted in the religious heritage of the Hispanos.

The first luminaries in New Mexico were piles of pitch wood criss-crossed resembling tiny log cabins which were lighted with the first darkness on Christmas Eve.

These little bonfires, placed in front of each home and around the church, were lighted to guide the Holy Family in its quest for lodging that fateful night.

The origin of the paper bag luminaries is not very clear. Many people say they came about as a result of the pitch wood bonfires while others say farolitos are a Mexican version of Japanese lanterns which were brought to Mexico by the Spaniards from the Philippines.

An ancient New Mexican pre-Christmas celebration, which has been revived in the past few years is known as Las Posadas.

This is a series of nine nightly candle-carrying processions which begin Dec. 16 and end on Christmas Eve. Las Posadas is a re-enactment of the night Mary and Joseph sought shelter in Bethelhem.

Each night after visiting posadas — or inns — the processions finally end at a designated place symbolic of the stable that housed the Holy Family years ago.

In many New Mexican towns, Las Posadas on Christmas Eve or La Noche (the good night) are climaxed by the joyful celebration of La Misa del Gallo, midnight mass.

One of the most spectacular, but unfortunately slowly disappearing customs of the Christmas season, is the presentation of miracle plays. These native folk dramas had their origin in ancient Spain and found their way through Mexico into the southwest.

Traditionally, roles in these folk dramas were handed down from generation to generation. A father would play a role for many years before handing it down to his son, who in turn handed it down to his son, and so on.

Perhaps the most popular of these folk dramas is the Shepherd's story of Los Pastores as it is commonly known to the Spanish speaking in New Mexico.

Los Pastores is the story of the shepherds who were told that a great event had occurred and their subsequent endeavors to reach Bethlehem and glory. Its coveted roles are those of Bartolo, the lazy shepherd, and Lucifer.

The custom that comes from Mexico but is steadily gaining popularity in New Mexico, is the use of the pinata in Christmas celebrations. Pinata parties for children and adults alike have become very popular in recent years.

The Christmas season is a time for rejoicing and the Spanish-speaking people of New Mexico are the first to admit it.

Cooperative Formed To Aid Southern Mountain Families

NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — Generations-old patterns, skilled craftsmanship, and recently learned marketing know-how have been combined in the Appalachian Fireside Crafts Cooperative to provide 167 disadvantaged Southern Mountain families with hitherto undreamed - of opportunity.

The women's nimble fingers fashion striking quilts, the men's sensitive hands transform native buckeye into practical shapes.

Using materials laregly indigenous to the Kentucky area in which the cooperative operates, the craftsmen fashion a score of other items, from cornshuck angels and doves that make novel Christmas tree decorations to stuffed animals and granny dolls.

The cooperative was formed by Save the Children Federation international child welfare organization with headquarters in Norwalk, Conn. Founded in 1932, the federation has expanded its original operation of helping the children of Appalachia to include children who need help on American Indian reservations and in 14 countries overseas.

Self-help has been the keynote of SCF programs for those proud, if disadvantaged persons, who do not want handouts. Fireside Crafts is typical of the kind of projects that stimulate low income families to develop their own resources and by so doing are able to provide a better environment for their children.

Christmas is the peak of the year's productivity for the Fireside craftsmen. Many of their items are geared to the holiday trade, notably the unique wreaths, they make from pine cones, hickory nuts and other native materials.

Craft items may be ordered from Appalachian Fireside Crafts, Box 276, Booneville, Kentucky. Catalogues are available at 50 cents.

Hispanos Hold Tightly To The Old

Christmas in New Mexcio for the Spanish-speaking has been celebrated for many years in essentially the same manner.

The only change is that some of the old customs which date back to the 15th and 16th centuries have been slightly modernized.

Perhaps the biggest change has resulted in Hispanos exchanging gifts on Christmas day instead of the traditional Jan. 6.

According to old customs, the exchanging of gifts was reserved for the Day of the Three Wise Men. This is the day the wise men arrived in Bethlehem bearing gifts for the Christ Child.

Instead of hanging their stockings in anticipation of the promised gifts, children were told to fill their shoes with straw. The straw, the children were told, was to be fed to the camels when the wise men arrived.

Parents waited until children were asleep to substitute gifts for the straw.

This manner of exchanging gifts has changed with the coming of the Anglo to New Mexico. Little by little the Spanish-speaking people have come to observe Dec. 25 as the day of exchanging gifts.

Another ancient custom which dates back to Spain is the "Oremos", (Let us pray), which is comparable to our present day Halloween trick or treat.

Little children would go from house to house clutching paper bags or flour sacks in their cold little hands singing in Spanish a song which translated was:

"Premos, Oremos, we are little angels come down from heaven to ask for Oremos, and if you will not give us Oremos, we will break all your doors and windows."

Of course this never happened, since housewives would always have a supply of bizchochitos, pies, fruit and candy to share with them.

A custom which was very popular in the old days but is almost unheard of today was the kidnaping of the Christ Child from the nativity scene. The nativity scenes, which today are still found in most churches and homes, had to be guarded by specifically appointed watchers against kidnapers.

If by chance a kidnaper succeeded, a ransom had to be paid for the infant's return. The ransom was usually a special mass or a rosary to be recited by the villagers. In some cases the kidnapers would ask that a big dance be held for all the people of the village.

A National Heritage And Where It Began

NEW YORK (AP) — Christmas of 1972 as celebrated by most Americans will be a strange blending of English and Dutch holiday cultures, spiced, as it were, by little touches borrowed from other lands.

The carols we sing, the evergreens and trees in the living rooms and at the door, and the wonderful story of Santa and his sleigh are inheritances from the Dutch and English pioneers of three centuries ago.

It was in the Hudson River Valley that customs and traditions we follow today were fused into a national heritage, not only by the early settlers, but by the master story-teller, Washington Irving, who did more to establish the holiday than any other one American.

Nowhere in the country can the different origins of the season be seen so definitively as at three National Historic Landmarks in an eleven mile stretch along the eastern shore of the Hudson in New York state.

Sunnyside, Washington Irving's home in Tarrytown.

Each of these properties have been restored to its era of greatest influence by Sleepy Hollow Restorations, a non-profit educational foundation established by the late John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

This Christmas the buildings at the Dutch mill will be decorated as the owners would have done it in the years from 1680 to 1730. Van Corlandt Manor will resemble a country home of the period of the American Revolution and Sunnyside will duplicate the decorations which Irving wrote about and planned himself.

Together, the properties form a kaleidoscope of the Christmas season as it was being formalized in this country.

Sunnyside is particularly important because Irving, more than any other person, shaped modern Christmas traditions. He welded together the figures of the Dutch patron saint Sinterklaas and his old English counterpart, Father Christmas. Out of the process emerged the Santa Claus American children love today.

In one of the earliest works written by Irving — "Diedrich Knickerbocker's History of New York" — the author wrote of Sinterklaas but called him St. Nicholas:

"The good St. Nicholas would often make his appearance riding jollily among the tree tops, or over the roofs of the houses, now and then drawing forth magnificent presents from his breeches, pockets, and dropping them down the chimneys of his favorites . . . He never shows us the light of his countenance, nor ever visits us, save one night a year, when he rattles down the chimneys . . .

Sent abroad by President Tyler at Daniel Webster's suggestion, Irving served as Ambassador to Spain and sorely missed being at home in his beloved Sunnyside.

"I hope you kept up Christmas in the usual style," he wrote his favorite niece in 1843, "and that the cottage was decked with evergreens. You must not let my absence cause you relaxations in the old rules and customs of the cottage; everything must go on the same as it did when I was there."

With help of many of Irving's letters and notes, the hostesses at the house will decorate his home just as it was when he was writing the five-volume Life of George Washington, his last great work.

A green wreath will hang at the front door and a Christmas tree timmed with candles, candy canes, sugar plums and strings of popcorn, will stand in the parlor. The dining table will be set for holiday dessert while a great red satin ribbon will encircle it with bows at each corner.

Philipsburg Manor, the sturdy stone house built in the last years of the 1600's, on the other hand, will reflect early Dutch customs when New York was called New Amsterdam.

The parlor will contain assorted samplings of sweetmeats, cookies, wine, punch, nuts and apples. A lilac branch in a jar of water, carefully nurtured to bear leaves at the holiday season, will rest on the hearth of the "foreroom", as the main chamber was called then. The living, growing green twig recalls the old Dutch saying:

Visitors to the old manor house will see three oranges in a bowl on the parlor table, a reminder of the legend about St. Nicholas's gift of gold dowries to three destitute sisters in old Holland. In the kitchen they will see wooden shoes of a size fit for children, and at least one will hold a birch switch, indicating that one of the small fry had disobeyed the rules and might not find a present under the tree.

It is at Van Corlandt Manor that the wedding of Dutch and English cultures is best discovered. The Van Corlandts were of Dutch descent but by the time of the war for independence had absorbed many English customs. Decorations will show this dual heritage.

Huge spiced cookies in the shape of the initials of the children will grace the table in the "old parlor" on the lower level of the mansion. These pastries were only baked at Christmas in Dutch homes.

In the hall upstairs the Engish influence is seen with a kissing bell of evergreens, candles and apples and a clapper of mistletoe. Laurel and pine boughs will decorate mantleplaces and tables in the formal rooms, as they did when the manor house was headquarters of an estate of 86,000 acres stretching from the Hudson almost to the Connecticut border.

Never On Christmas

NEW YORK (AP) — When you step through a red door of a small bar in the time square area of New York City, you are greeted by the friendly owner, Tony Kaarborg wishing you a hearty Merry Christmas.

There mught not be anything unusual about this except that it never happens on Christmas — only on each and every other day of the year. It is particularly soothing to treat yourself to a bit of Christmas on a hot and humid New York mid-summer day.

Called Tony's Cozy Cocktail Lounge, it is comfortably cooled, dimly lighted and the lady bartender is pretty, cheerful and vigorously proficient with the cocktail shaker. Bing Crosby sings himself scratchy with reinditions of his "White Christmas" on the juke box flashing red and green lights. The walls, the mirrors, the bar, the bottles are generously bedecked with all sorts of things Christmassey. For munching with drinks, the house provides baskets of walnuts and candy canes.

Coats and ties are required for such a festive surrounding. Drinks recommended by Santa and Tony are: Santa's Special, Egg Nog, Hot Toddy and Irish Coffee. Steaming meat balls are served which the owner indicates are made of venision.

Customers who drop in late, or come early and stay long, are invited to participate in group singing of White Christmas and Rudolph The Red Nosed Reindeer: And when the clock strikes 12, hats and horns are distributed for a New Year's celebration.

When asked why he doesn't celebrate Christmas on December 25, the amiable owner replies, "No point doing it then, when every bar in town is doing 'our thing.'"

The obvious next question of what then did Tony's Christmas bar celebrate on Christmas was answered by, "On Christmas we celebrate the Fourth of July."

Litterbags Recommended For Boaters

NEW YORK (AP) — To the fisherman there's nothing like that moment when the rod bends double, reeling in what he thinks just might be a seven pound lunker and then finding out what he's hooked is someone's discarded rubber waders.

Thoughtless litterers have turned some fishing areas into what amounts to garbage dumps and have posed a general threat to health, says Keep America Beautiful Inc., the national environment improvement organization.

Floating debris can foul propellers and foul up water skiers while sunken litter — if it has sharp points or edges — can make life hazardous for barefoot waders. In addition, litter that decomposes draws heavily on the water's oxygen content, and the removal of this oxygen can harm game fish.

"Litterbags should be standard equipment on every boat, along with the fire extinguisher, running lights and life preservers," said Roger Powers, executive vice president of KAB.

Lighthouse Warns

MIAMI (AP) — For more than 112 years, Jupiter lighthouse has kept vigil over Atlantic waters, warning mariners of dangerous coquina shoals.

The 105-foot tower's beacon first was lighted July 10, 1960. The light was darkened during the Civil War and its mechanism hidden by Southern sympathizers. Relighted June 28, 1866, it has not missed a night since.

Almost without exception, the tributaries draining into the Amazon River are color keyed, the National Geographic Society says. Streams from the north tend to flow black, darkened by the stain of rain-forest vegetation; those from the south are filtered clear by the white sandy country and pick up the sky's deep blue, and streams from the west churn with brown silt of the Andean highlands.

Allergies Thrive On Festive Foods

CHICAGO (AP) — A leading physician has two words of advice for Christmas celebrants — moderation and self-descipline.

This, says Dr. Andrew L. Banyai, may not prevent all the distress that arises from eating unusual foods and too much food and drinking more than usual, but at least will minimize some of the effects.

The physician, a native of Hungary, is a former president of the American College of Chest Physicians and emeritus clinical professor of medicine at Marquette University, Milwaukee.

He continues on the editorial board of the journal "Chest", published by the college, in which he wrote an article about "inadvertent encounters at Christmas time." These are primarily allergic reactions.

Dr. Banyai noted that the holiday is occasion for gifts to children and that "also, there is likely to be liberal offering of fruits, nuts and candy."

"Such fancy edibles and restive meals bring to mind dissonant and distracting possibility of allergic reactions which may mar the festivities," he added.

There are more than 2,000 varieties of candy, and chocolate is probably the most popular, Dr. Banyai points out. This flavoring is responsible for allergies in many persons, who may have skin reactions, sneezing, clogging of nose, coughing, wheezing, stomach ache and vomiting, he said.

Candy may also contain soybean derivatives, to which many are allergic, he said.

"Dietary indiscretions are too common" at Christmas time, Dr. Banyai said, noting that "enticing favorite and estoteric foods may be consumed in large quantities."

Christmas celebrants frequently eat things they normally do not eat, so they may be unaware that they are allergic to a particular substance, he said.

Not only may these reactions, be caused by the foods, but also by the flavorings, additives, colorings and texturizers, he said.

The symptoms may include inflammation of the nose, cough, throat swelling, asthma, stomach distress, headache, vascular difficulties, vomiting, colic, fever and loss of appetite.

Tiredness, mental fatigue and irritability may also follow.

Grain, malt, hops and grapes used in alcoholic beverages, as well as other substances in these beverages, may also cause allergies, Dr. Banyai pointed out.

The heart may be involved in these reactions with attacks of angina, he said.

The emotions are known to be involved in some allergic reactions and Dr. Banyai said the tension and excitement of the holiday may contribute in adults as well as children.

Since reactions often vary in relation to the amount of substance, the physician said, holiday-makers should take "reasonably small amounts" of foods and drink they are unaccustomed to.

And he cautioned that some people are allergic to the smoke from others' cigarettes and may become uncomfortable at Christmas parties.

The Christmas tree and its decorations and Christmas gifts may all produce allergies, he said.

Children may have reactions from wool, rabbit and goat hair, cotton, "and even silk" often found in fancy dolls, he said, and the wood and resins of Christmas trees may bring allergic discomfort to some.

The coloring material on ribbons, synthetic plastics, glue, sprays and other substances which are common at Christmas likewise may cause discomfort and even serious reactions, he said.

Facts About Legends

NEW YORK (AP) — As a gift to you, the editors of Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia have compiled some not so well-known facts relating to the holiday season.

According to legend, the robin's breast is red because the bird once fanned his wings for a long time to warm the Christ Child in the manger.

An age-old Christmas custom: Cutting an onion into halves, peeling of 12 layers (1 for each month to come) and filling each with salt. On the next morning, the peelings containing damp salt indicate rainy months.

Glitter Will Soon Be Litter

NEW YORK (AP) — "Twas the morning after Christmas and all over the land,

Americans this Christmas will discard well over 400 million pounds of tinsel, gift wraps, boxes, ribbons, tags, tissue paper and other Yule glitter, plus an accumulation of home decorations ranging from holly and mistletoe to ceiling-high Christmas trees, says Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national environment improvement organization.

The cost of removing this litter is as frightening as that tie you always get each Christmas from "good ole Uncle Joe". KAB estimates taxpayers can expect to pay about $100 million for the removal of this year's Christmas litter from streets, highways and other public places.

Some of the ways you can help cut down on the amount of litter or help make the garbage man's pickup job a little bit easier are to store the items that can be used next year, to make sure Yuletide refuse is tightly covered so it can't blow away and to preserve natural resources by salvaging recyclable materials.

Mrs. Furtwangler Comes To U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Elisabeth Furtwangler, widow of the famous German conductor Wilhelm Furtwangler, has arrived in the United States, as guest of the National Arts Foundation.

She attended the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera's new production of "Siegfried," the Chicago Opera, the Chicago Symphony, San Francisco Opera and Los Angeles Philharmonic. She also was interviewed on a Saturday afternoon intermission of a Metropolitan Opera "Die Walkuere."

Furtwangler, who died in 1954, had recorded Wagner's "Ring" operas, which were recently released.

Mrs. Furtwangler also is speaking in 10 American universities and in Symphony Hall in Boston.

Allergies Thrive On Festive Foods

CHICAGO (AP) — A leading physician has two words of advice for Christmas celebrants — moderation and self-descipline.

This, says Dr. Andrew L. Banyai, may not prevent all the distress that arises from eating unusual foods and too much food and drinking more than usual, but at least will minimize some of the effects.

The physician, a native of Hungary, is a former president of the American College of Chest Physicians and emeritus clinical professor of medicine at Marquette University, Milwaukee.

He continues on the editorial board of the journal "Chest", published by the college, in which he wrote an article about "inadvertent encounters at Christmas time." These are primarily allergic reactions.

Dr. Banyai noted that the holiday is occasion for gifts to children and that "also, there is likely to be liberal offering of fruits, nuts and candy."

"Such fancy edibles and restive meals bring to mind dissonant and distracting possibility of allergic reactions which may mar the festivities," he added.

There are more than 2,000 varieties of candy, and chocolate is probably the most popular, Dr. Banyai points out.

This flavoring is responsible for allergies in many persons, who may have skin reactions, sneezing, clogging of nose, coughing, wheezing, stomach ache and vomiting, he said.

Candy may also contain soybean derivatives, to which many are allergic, he said.

"Dietary indiscretions are too common" at Christmas time, Dr. Banyai said, noting that "enticing favorite and estoteric foods may be consumed in large quantities."

Christmas celebrants frequently eat things they normally do not eat, so they may be unaware that they are allergic to a particular substance, he said.

Holiday Happiness Can Be Sorrow Through Carelessness

—Fresh trees and trimmings require special handling as they dry out quickly and have the potential for fast, intense burning. Fresh evergreens cannot be fire-proofed but can be treated to reduce their fire potential. You local fire department should be checked for advice on appropriate treatment.

—The best way to reduce the fire potential of a real tree is to keep it as fresh as possible. Cut off about one inch from the trunk and place the tree in a stand holding water. Check the water level daily and remove the tree as soon as it dries out.

—Keep live trees and decorations away from candles, fireplaces and other heat sources.

—Always thoroughly examine lights before stringing them on a tree. Make sure there are no frayed wires, cracked or broken sockets and no loose wires in the sockets.

—When stringing trees with lights, do not overload the circuits. Try to distribute the load evenly on two or more circuits. Use only those lights carrying the Underwriters Laboratory seal.

—If using an artificial tree, check the manufacturer's label for fire-retarding qualities and lighting recommendations. A metal tree should be lighted indirectly; strings of lights should not be used.

—On the big day of exchanging presents, keep a large box nearby for discarded wrappings. Mountains of loose paper and cardboard can be a fire hazard and also cause falls.

—Never leave tree lights or other decorations on when going out.

Highway safety is doubly important during the holidays. Christmas is one of the traditionally family days when people make a special effort to "get home." The CIIB suggests that anyone travelling by car take some extra precautions as this is an extremely hazardous period of the year for the motorists. More than 1200 people were killed on our highways over the 10 day Christmas-New Year's weekends in both of the past two years.

Have the car thoroughly checked by a competent mechanic. Pay particular attention to tires, brakes, lights, exhaust systems. Use studded tires, snow treads or carry chains.

Don't travel with the car completely closed; open a vent or window slightly to prevent drowsiness and fumes.

Keep windows fee from obstructions. A roll of paper towels is handy to use for wiping windows clean as bare hands and gloves leave an oily residue which quickly clouds. Smoking also causes a build up of residue on car windows.

Avoid congested areas and peak driving times whenever possible.

Break up long trips with frequent stops. Get out of the car and stretch. Have a cup of coffee or a soda.

Never attempt to drive any distance when tired, upset, while taking medication or particularly after drinking.

The Bureau notes that a person weighing 160 to 170 pounds can become seriously impaired or drunk by consuming five ounces of alcohol in an hour. Coffee, black or otherwise, has no effect on the tipsy driver.

When entertaining at home, end the evening with desserts and coffee — not another round of drinks. Don't let an inebriated guest drive. Insist he ride with someone else or that he stay over.

The CIIB also suggests that drivers make sure their insurance is in working order. They should check with their independent agents. The chances of both minor and major scrapes are multiplied at this time of the year.

Parents Reject Plan To Extend School Year

MADISON, Ohio (AP) — Parents of Madison school children have rejected a proposal to extend school year-round in a poll conducted by the school district here.

School officials reported Tuesday that about 73 per cent of the parents who responded to the district poll did not favor the year-round, 45-days-on-15-days-off system.

The school district had proposed the system as an attempt to avoid construction of more school buildings.

About two-fifths of the district's parents responded to the poll.

Pope To Say Mass On Christmas Eve

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will say Mass at a midnight service Christmas Eve on the slopes of Mt. Soratte north of Rome among workers at a railway tunnel construction site.

As part of his holiday plans, the Vatican announced Monday that the pontiff will observe New Year's Day by visiting and saying Mass among mained children at the Orione institute, located atop Mt. Mario, Rome's highest hill.

Christmas Dinners Donated By Inmates

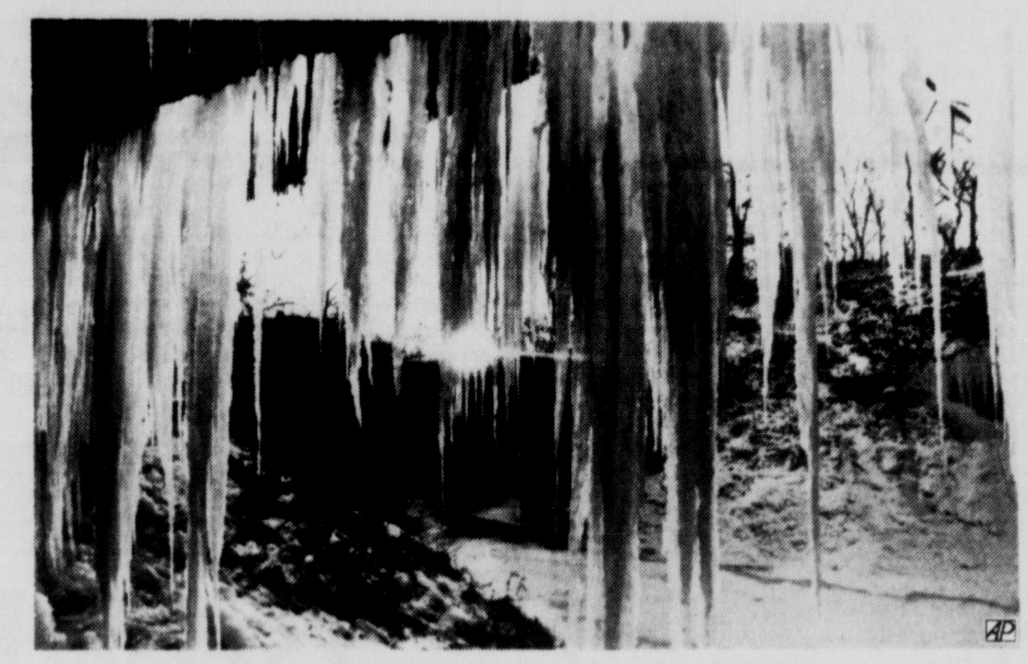
WALPOLE, Mass. (AP) — More than 400 prisoners at Walpole State Prison have pledged to go without Christmas dinner so that the food may be distributed to the "needy, elderly and the sick" according to Ann Brandon of the Massachusetts Lawyers Guild.

Mrs. Brandon said the 431 prisoners offered to make the sacrifice because they want people to realize that they are not "unfeeling animals in a cage."

Predict 550-650 Yule Highway Fatalities

CHICAGO (AP) — Between 550 and 650 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the Christmas holiday weekend, according to the National Safety Council.

The period covered by the figure will run from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday.



WINTER'S ICY FINGERS — Early morning sunshine reflects off icicles at Minnehaha Falls in Minneapolis, making it clear that winter has arrived by the thermometer if not yet by the calendar. The temperature dropped to 6 degrees below zero in the Twin Cities.

Give Warning To Holiday Pedestrians

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special warning for the Christmas and New Year's holidays has been issued by the National Transportation Safety Board, which estimates 1,000 pedestrians may be killed by motor vehicles this month.

John H. Reed, safety board chairman, said Monday that safety studies "reveal that more of the walking public are killed in December than in any other month of the year."

In an effort to keep the nationwide toll down, Reed suggested that pedestrians should:

— Make themselves as visible as possible at night and in bad weather.

— In unlighted areas, carry a flashlight.

87-Year-Old Ignores Broken Arm As Santa

DALLAS (AP) — Smokey Cannon, 87 next month, says he won't even let a broken arm keep him from playing Santa Claus at a local department store.

When Dallas had its recent ice storm, Smokey slipped and fell while on his way to the bus. But next day, with his arm strapped in plaster beneath his red Santa robe, he was back at the old stand, a wide-eyed youngster on each knee.

Smokey still has the Wells Fargo special agent badge he wore in 1905 when he carried the payroll from Tucson to Tombstone, Ariz. His wife and their children were killed in a cattle stampede, so he has no living family.

They'll Have A Merry Christmas

PICCA-sponsored children, children from the church's adopted families and girls from the Carriage Home were able to select Christmas presents for their loved ones, thanks to the efforts of the WSCS.

The ladies prepared a gala celebration that included tables of presents — new and homemade — that they donated to the children. Each child was able to select a present for his mom and dad, under the tutalage of church women, and then the presents were wrapped for placement under the family Christmas tree.

It was a nice gesture and one that was acknowledged in the thank-you eyes of the kids.

Christmas is selecting a gift

But its fun to discuss

And its fun to examine

But I just can't decide

Christmas Decorations — Oh What Fun

Each year, the Circleville community livens the interest of the Christmas season with outside decorations.

Pictured are some of a few, taken during a quick trip from Logan Elm Village to Atwater School, that served our purposes to illustrate what we mean.

Helping Others Makes It Christmas All Year

By MARION SINES
Herald Staff Writer

A great interest in all children is a quality that aids Mrs. Herbert Stinson as chairman of the Children and Youth committee for American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 134. For the past five years she has capably carried out the responsibility.

A 25-year member of the auxiliary, she has worked in many capacaties to help the less fortunate and particularly veterans and their families. She is also the second vice president and a color bearer.

The auxiliary completes its year in May and in June money-making activities begin with the Poppy Sale from which the money for Mrs. Stinson to use during the year comes. She and her committee are presently finishing packing baskets to give for Christmas. Along with food, clothing is supplied when needed. Mrs. Stinson always visits the homes to find out what the families need and want for the holiday in regard to sizes for clothing and preference in some foods. One person she talked to this year requested a chicken rather than turkey and Mrs. Stinson will grant the request. She says it is also important to know what toys will suit the children of a family.

The committee helps individuals other than veterans when the need is made known, but the service is geared primarily to servicemen and veterans and their families.

One of the biggest projects of the year is the store where patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe may select gifts to send to their families for Christmas. All posts in the 7th district as well as many other organizations contribute money and buy the merchandise for the patients.

This Sunday volunteers, including Mrs. Stinson, will go to the hospital and all 1,600 patients will be given a gift of their own choosing which has been individually wrapped and tagged. Those able to assemble in the recreation hall will be given their gifts there while others will be taken to the wards.

Mrs. Stinson has worked for many years in projects the Legion has been involved in to help veterans. There have been many dinners, the fish booth at Pumpkin Show and at the lot on Route 23. She also helps with Child Welfare parties for Easter and Christmas and has chaired that committee for the past two years.

She has taken the orientation course at the V.A. Hospital and received a certificate and card designating that she knows what is expected of her when visiting patients.

Hobbies of Mrs. Stinson include watching her three great-grandchildren, sewing, enbroidering, visiting shut-ins and writing letters. She is a member of the Athletic Booster Club and always contributes to Band Mothers and Children's Hospital in Columbus. Through her efforts a new uniform for the band was purchased by the auxiliary as were choir robes for a church that could not afford to buy them.

She is a widow of a World War I veteran and has three daughters, Mrs. Robert Stephens, Mrs. William Hughes and Mrs. Don McFarland. She has five granddaughters, one grandson, one great-grandson and two great-granddaughters.

The Mary Hedges memorial trophy, of the 7th American Legion district has been won twice for her work with young people and she received the first place award for best year-round Child Welfare program in the district and nation.

Always busy and interested in what is going on in the world, Mrs. Stinson finds time to write to Congressmen giving her views on bills up for consideration. Her life is a busy and happy one and she feels like Christmas is all year since she is either working for the money needed at that time or assisting a person or family who needs the service she offers.

Santa Claus Plays Dirty

He was stunned when St. Nick produced a badge and a search warrant and was joined by several other police officers.

The gentleman in the red and white suit was Detective John Evaneski who came to Hughes' residence here Monday night to look for narcotics rather than hand out gifts.

Evaneski said he used the Santa disguise to prevent Hughes from disposing of any narcotics before the officers could gain entry into the house.

Officers found a half-pound of marijuana, hashish, LSD, barbiturates and other drugs, Evaneski said.

Gilligan Urges Tree Recycling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan has designated January as Christmas Tree Recycling Month in Ohio.

He said more than two million cut trees will be discarded in the state after the holidays posing a serious solid waste disposal problem. The Ohio Waste Watchers are working with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to collect trees to be ground into useful chips or mulch.

The division of Parks and Forestry will use the chips to line trails and for mulch.

Landlords Advised On Tenant Legislation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Landlords from nine other Ohio cities has been told by a spokesman for Columbus apartment owners that they shouldn't necessarily oppose moderate "tenants rights" legislation.

Robert Ransom, president of the Columbus Apartment Association, said legislation like that being worked out here poses no threat to legitimate landlords.

He spoke Wednesday night to 30 major landlords from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Youngstown, Canton, Springfield, Toledo, Marietta and Bowling Green.

Ohio Turkey Season Permits Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hunters planning to take part in Ohio's spring turkey season can apply for hunting permits after the first of the year, a spokesman for the division of wildlife of the Department of Natural Resources said today.

Helping Others Makes It Christmas All Year

By MARION SINES
Herald Staff Writer

A great interest in all children is a quality that aids Mrs. Herbert Stinson as chairman of the Children and Youth committee for American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 134. For the past five years she has capably carried out the responsibility.

A 25-year member of the auxiliary, she has worked in many capacaties to help the less fortunate and particularly veterans and their families. She is also the second vice president and a color bearer.

The auxiliary completes its year in May and in June money-making activities begin with the Poppy Sale from which the money for Mrs. Stinson to use during the year comes. She and her committee are presently finishing packing baskets to give for Christmas. Along with food, clothing is supplied when needed. Mrs. Stinson always visits the homes to find out what the families need and want for the holiday in regard to sizes for clothing and preference in some foods. One person she talked to this year requested a chicken rather than turkey and Mrs. Stinson will grant the request. She says it is also important to know what toys will suit the children of a family.

The committee helps individuals other than veterans when the need is made known, but the service is geared primarily to servicemen and veterans and their families.

One of the biggest projects of the year is the store where patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Chillicothe may select gifts to send to their families for Christmas. All posts in the 7th district as well as many other organizations contribute money and buy the merchandise for the patients.

This Sunday volunteers, including Mrs. Stinson, will go to the hospital and all 1,600 patients will be given a gift of their own choosing which has been individually wrapped and tagged. Those able to assemble in the recreation hall will be given their gifts there while others will be taken to the wards.

Mrs. Stinson has worked for many years in projects the Legion has been involved in to help veterans. There have been many dinners, the fish booth at Pumpkin Show and at the lot on Route 23. She also helps with Child Welfare parties for Easter and Christmas and has chaired that committee for the past two years.

She has taken the orientation course at the V.A. Hospital and received a certificate and card designating that she knows what is expected of her when visiting patients.

Hobbies of Mrs. Stinson include watching her three great-grandchildren, sewing, enbroidering, visiting shut-ins and writing letters. She is a member of the Athletic Booster Club and always contributes to Band Mothers and Children's Hospital in Columbus. On Books At The Pickaway County Library.

Books are a popular choice for Christmas giving and there is no doubt that "Jonathan Livingston Seagull", by Richard Bach shall be under many a Christmas tree. According to Publishers Weekly "there hasn't been as wild a runaway best seller as this in years." This title is available at the public library for those not so fortunate to receive it as a gift.

The Bible, in all the editions and translations available, has always been the most popular seller. This year "The Living Bible, Paraphrased" is the edition most often chosen.

Life magazine will cease publication on December 29th, after 36 years. This periodical has been a long time favorite of library patrons and shall be missed. Magazines are loaned for home use after being held in the library for one week or one month depending upon the issue period of the magazines. Among the many the library has to offer are "Modern Bride," "Psychology Today," "The Smithsonian" and "Ebony."

With reports, almost daily, of breaking and entering it is well to give some thought to protective and preventive measures one can do to secure a house against illegal entry. "Do-It-Yourself Home Protection (A Common Sense Guide)", by Ralph Treves deals very thoroughly with the problems the householder faces and gives specific answers for ways to protect the home. Mr. Treves states that locks are obviously the first line of defense and discusses the degree of security each type provides as barriers to entry. Electronic locks have been developed for security control in industrial plants and offices and is expected eventually to be used for residential safety also.

It is important, when considering preventive measures, to think in terms of "The Habit of Safety". Don't secure the door against entry then leave a key on a nail in plain view of prowlers. Be alert to the identification of callers before opening the door. These are just a few of the obvious items to be observed on a home-safety checklist.

In addition, fire, the perils of natural cause (flood, windstorm, etc.) manmade environmental nuisances (smoke, noise), home hazards, and vandalism are discussed. There is included a source for Products and available booklets.

"How To Defend Yourself, Your Family, and Your Home; A Complete Guide to Self-Protection," by George Hunter is also availabe at the library.

Are you interested in how other people live? Mrs. Maxine Dowler recommends and comments on "The Siberians," by Farley Mowat. Mr. Mowat traveled 29,000 miles in two trips from the Pacific to the Artic Oceans talking to the lady President of the YAKUTSH Republic, Arctic specialists, truck drivers, storekeepers, students and teachers. From all he received the feeling of the generosity, outgoingness, unstinted affection and energy of the people and their fierce love for their land. He found that the Siberians had learned from the mistakes of others and are doing positive work in saving the country's resources.

It gets down to seventy below in January and February but even that does not stop the building and everyday life. Small children are permitted to stay from school when it gets below minus 60 degrees. In large cities the people are softer, their children can stay home when it goes to only fifty below.

The Siberians are similar to Canadians and the people of the United States. They are different from the people in Soviet Russia east of the Urals. Very interesting, not deep — even funny in many places. For anyone interested in other people.

Grange News

STAR GRANGE

Star Grange met Tuesday evening for the annual Christmas Party at Monroe School. A carry in dinner was enjoyed by the members at 7 p.m. followed by a short business meeting conducted by Worthy Master Harold Furniss.

The Grange Youth conference is to be held at the 4-H and Grange Building on Dec. 30 and 31, all grange youth are invited.

The Christmas program under the direction of the Lecturer Laura Long opened with a reading, "A Carol Fantasy" by Miss Long and Mrs. Robert Morgan read "Christmas". Miss Florence Long read "Every Day is Christmas" and Mrs. Fran Follrod read, "Christmas at the Crossroad Church. Mrs. Ellen Dennis read "What the Christmas Tree Thinks" and Mrs. Francis Furniss closed the program with "The Priceless Gift Of Christmas."

A gift exchange was enjoyed around a gaily lighted Christmas tree. There will be no other meeting this month. Next meeting will be held on the second Tuesday in January.

Pamphlets Rip Nixon

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pamphlets accusing President Nixon of "betraying the peace in Vietnam" were strewn in St. Peter's Square today while Pope Paul VI was receiving the President's daughter Tricia and her husband in audience.

The pamphlets, signed by a leftist-slanted group called the Italy-Vietnam Committee, called for a mammoth demonstration in Rome Friday for peace in Vietnam.

A four-car motorcade brought Tricia and Edward Cox through the square, and it was unlikely that anyone in the cars was aware of the pamphlets. Only the usual midweek scattering of Romans and tourists were in the huge square at the time, and there was no disorder.

The Vatican disclosed no details of the audience, which was private and lasted about 20 minutes. Afterward the Coxes visited the Sistine Chapel and the Vatican Museum.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox came to Rome last Sunday from London on a private trip. They go on to Athens at the end of the week.

Job Titles Coded In Great Britain

LONDON (AP) — Doffing Mistresses, Fancy Twisters and Gondola Girls are to get a new deal in Britain.

And so are Dandy Rovers, Knocker Offers and Cracker Offers, who have also had a rough time at the local employment exchange in the past.

After seven years work, Britain's Employment Department has coded every job in the land, from a Minister of the Crown on down.

The gondola girl, who replenishes the shelves in self-service stores, becomes 369.99 when looking for a job. The doffing mistress, who supervises workers removing full packages from spinning frames, is a 540.99, and the fancy twister, who twists strands of yarn to increase their strength, becomes a 542.70.

The dandy rover, also in textiles, takes the code 541.20. The knocker off and the cracker off, who, of course, work in the glass industry, take the codes 619.99 and 614.80 repspectively.

2 Cincinnati Buildings Now National Sites

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Historical Society announced Wednesday that two Cincinnati buildings have been entered in the National Register of Historic Places by the National Park Service.

They are the Rookwood Pottery buildings, erected in 1912, and City Hall, dedicated in 1893. The pottery structures appear to imitate a medieval style while the city hall is Romanesque revival architecture.

Convict Man In Bombing Courthouse

BEAVER, Pa. (AP) — Robert Samaras of Weirton, W. Va., has been convicted of malicious mischief by explosives in the Sept. 11 bombing of the Beaver County courthouse.

He was found innocent of conspiracy charges in connection with the $50,000 bombing.

One of six persons charged in the bombing, Samaras was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond following the nonjury trial Wednesday before Beaver County Judge H. Beryl Klein.

The other five men arrested previously either pleaded guilty or no contest. They are waiting sentencing Dec. 27.

Samaras had been charged with helping plant the bomb to delay his trial on a robbery charge stemming from a holdup at a grocery store in nearby Center Township.

He was found innocent of that charge in Beaver County Court last week.

Police said Samaras also faces charges of breaking and entering in Hancock County, West Virginia.

Forty members and their wives of the Commercial Point Mens Club had their annual Christmas party at Scioto Twp. school last Wednesday night. Turkey and ham with all the trimmings were served.

New officers were elected for 1973 are as follows Roger (Bunker) Hill, president; George Null, vice president; Steve Dountz, secretary and Lee Tharp, treasurer. It was voted to give $100 to both churches, United Methodist and Faith Baptist.

The Christmas program at Scioto school by grade one to six was well attended Monday night. Thanks to Mrs. Gregory.

Freak accident — Someone didn't make the turn at 762 here in town and landed into Henry Painter's bedrooms. The Painters were not at home at the time of accident. Sheriff estimated $1,500 damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barton of Adelphi spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Max Steele.

Christmas time is supposed to be a happy time, but our community has been saddened by the death of several of our friends.

Kathleen Hudson passed away Monday at Mercy Hospital. She was loved by all who knew her, and will be missed by every one. Survived by husband, Edward, daughter Genrose Lewis, and sons Michael E. and Johnny Bob. Seven grandchildren, sister Belle Pifer, and brothers Earl K. and John E. Trego. Interment was Thursday at Darbyville with Rev. Carl Wetherell, officiating.

Also — Mrs. Ida Becker of Welsh Road. Survived by husband Elbert, and sons Robert and William Becker, three grandchildren. Services were Sunday, interment Concord Cemetery, Rev. Carl Wetherell officiating.

Word has been received of the death of Robert Holshue's sister who lived near Akron.

We wish to extend greetings to all our readers. A Merry, Merry Christmas and a happy and healthy New Year.

U.N. Ponders World Lottery

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly decided at its closing session Tuesday night to study the possibility of a global lottery to raise money for the United Nations.

The vote was 94-3 for the U.N. secretariat to look into the matter during the coming year. Thirty nations abstained, including the United States, China and the entire Soviet bloc.

Cuba, the Dominican Republic and Spain were opposed.

Kallikantzaroi Cause Chaos At Christmas

ATHENS (AP) — Every year, from December 24 to January 6, many a Greek peasant has his Christmas enjoyment tempered by a horde of imaginary repulsive beings who choose that time to emerge from the depths of the earth.

One of them might put out his fire. Another might climb down the chimney and force the man to get up and dance. Yet another, might fell him with a fever, pollute his food and drink, stir up his sleep at night and scatter his squawking hens.

If he is a wise peasant, though, he can take his countermeasures. A good one is to hang the lower jawbone of a pig on his front door. Better still, he may keep a pear-tree or cherry log crackling in the fireplace, with a smelly old shoe or handful of salt thrown in for good measure.

But if the poor peasant really wants to make sure he is rid of the horrors, then all he does is wait patiently until Epiphany Day — January 6 — when the village priest blesses the village springs and casts away the bothersome Kallikantzaroi until next Christmas Eve.

Who are these Kallikantzaroi? They are the Greek equivalents of the little supernatural beings that have haunted and amused mankind for untold ages. In Ireland they are known as Banshees, and in Anglo-Saxon countries as elves and faries.

Everyone knows approximately what an elf or fairy looks like, but in Greece there is a considerable variety of opinion on what Kallikantzaroi look like. Some people imagine them to be ugly, tall, man-like, iron-hoofed creature, while others picture them as small, hairy, cleft-hooved, red-eyed beasties.

All agree, however, that they are pests, and can flit anywhere and do all kinds of mischief with impunity. They emerge from the bowels of the earth on Christmas Eve, go about their mischievous work for twelve days, and reluctantly return to the earth when the priest gets round to doing his work on Epiphany Day.

A Greek folklore specialist claims that fear of the Kallikantzaroi goes all the way back to antiquity.

The Ancient Greeks believed that once a year all the souls of the dead in Hades came back to earth for a few days. These souls, the Ceres, subsquently occupied themselves in a manner similar to the Kallikantzaroi — befouling food, causing various illness, and generally making themselves in every way objectionable. The ancient Athenians used to ring their temples with red cord, forming a barrier which the Ceres could not cross. The more fearful individuals smeared their front doors with pitch as an extra deterrent.

In the popular imagination the Ceres were depicted as striving all year long to cut down the tree on which the earth rested. Eavery Christmas Eve they were on the verge of succeeding, but Christ's birth always healed the tree.

The 400-year Turkish Ottoman Occupation of Greece that began in the 15th Century discouraged the population from acquiring an education, and the noisome spirits, now named the Kallikantzaroi (the origin of the name is not known), gained a greater importance in the peasants' simple minds.

Nowadays the pervasiveness of modern habits of thought and increasing literacy have succeeded in neutralizing the Kallikantzaroi far more effectively than cherry logs or cattle bells ever could have done. To the average Greek the word "Kallikantzaros" elicits laughter, and perhaps a slightly disdainful look.

But a shadow of the fear still remains in remote villages. Especially in the minds of the old folks, the Kallikantzaroi are still a real and annual menace, often spoiling the merriment of Christmas.

Policeman Impounds Freight Train

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Walton, Ky. Ptl. Tom Cady will take the L&N Railroad to court Dec. 28 for blocking Main Street too long, but he had to impound a 120-car freight train to serve the citation.

Cady ordered freight engineer Earl Parsons to get the train moving after it blocked the street for some time Monday.

He got mad when he was told to take care of the traffic in his town of 1,802 persons and the railroad would take care of the train.

Cady went to the police station, looked up the law, and found that intersections cannot be blocked for more than five minutes.

"I told one of the railroad men to tell Parsons to come down from his engine so I could give him a citation," Cady said, adding that Parsons wouldn't.

"You tell Parsons this train isn't moving until he gets off," Cady said. "Tell him I've impounded the train."

Ohio Highway Engineers Metric Pioneers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio highway engineers — looking forward to the day the nation goes metric — are practicing ahead of time on two projects in Hocking and Guernsey counties.

Ohio may well be the first state actually to begin highway projects in meters instead of yards, under kilometers instead of miles.

"I don't think the problems will be too difficult," said Howard Gifford, district design and planning engineer for District 10 of the Department of Transportation at Marietta.

Gifford will handle the Hocking County project — relocation of 1.20675 kilometers of State Route 93, including a bridge replacement, just north of the Hocking-Vinton County line. That distance is three-quarters of a mile.

"It's interesting," said Paul Baran, district planning and design engineer for District 5 at Newark. "There will be problems we'll have to find a way around. Remember, we'll be the only ones dealing in the metric system."

Baran will handle the Guernsey County project — relocation of .40225 kilometer section of State Route 670 extending from the intersection of State Route 265 near Salesville. That's a quarter-mile section.

Ohio's adventure into the world of hectares, kilometers, liters, centimeters and similar unfamiliar measurements actually began last July. Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley wrote an order for pilot highway projects to be carried out under the metric system.

"The best way to learn is by doing," he said, adding "with proper documentation of difficulties encountered."

Two months later, the U.S. Senate passed the Metric Conversion Act. The bill now is in the House Committee on Science and Astronautics.

The act came out of a three-year study by the National Bureau of Standards and calls for a gradual conversion to the metric system over a 10-year period. Conversion would put the United States into line with most of the rest of the world.

When conversion finally comes — if it does — some of the current problems facing Gifford and Baran will disappear.

"You know," said Baran, "on right-of-way, I can't talk to farmers about hectares. They won't know what I'm talking about. They think in terms of acres." A hectare is 2.471 acres.

"And, there's the recorder's office," Baran said. "It records in feet and inches and acres and miles. We'll have to make a translation."

One of the reasons Gifford sees few problems is his design engineer Victor Wolff. Wolff received his engineering training in Holland as a Dutch government engineer before coming to the U.S. He grew up with the Metric system.

Baran, who has no such built-in advantage, said with a laugh: "We may have to go down there to pick his brain."

The pioneering into meters brings up many problems. "The standard highway lane is 12 feet wide," said Baran. "If we convert that to meters we come up with an oddball meter measure."

The conversion, he said, probably will be to a meter measurement near 12 feet.

"Then, there's asphalt. The final asphalt coat is normally one and one-quarter inches thick. We'll have to come close, make it an easier conversion."

There is also an equipment problem, a matter of getting metric tapes and chains, and scales. Electronic measuring devices, originally designed in meters, have been converted long since to U.S. standards.

The biggest enemy will be habit. Transportation employes, like the rest of the country, are used to dealing and thinking in inches, feet, yards, miles and acres.

It isn't easy to change. Department of Transportation headquarters in Columbus found that out. The handout prepared for general distribution, but not circulated, explained in pristine detail about the pioneer excursion into the metric system.

The information was faultless, but when the two pilot projects were described the description came in miles, not kilometers.

B52 Losses Prove Big Jets Vulnerable To Red SAMs

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The loss of six B52 bombers in action, after six years in action without a combat casualty, has proved something the Air Force already knew—the jets are vulnerable to missiles.

For most of the war, the eight-engine Stratofortresses have been confined to areas where surface-to-air missile sites were thin. But in the past few days the big planes, codenamed "Arc Light," have been raiding the well-defended Vietnamese heartland around Hanoi, Haiphong and areas to the north of the cities.

The decision to send the B52s into the high-risk zones around Haiphong and Hanoi apparently was taken because they carry a 30-ton bomb load which they can drop with fine devastating precision.

"It's bad news," said an Air Force officer. "But they have never been in such a high-risk area before. There are overlapping SAM rings up that way and the B52 cannot maneuver like a fighter to dodge the missiles."

The B52s first penetrated deep into North Vietnam in April for raids on Haiphong.

The first B52 loss was in November. A missile damaged one of the bombers over North Vietnam but it limped 100 miles back across Laos to safety. The crew parachuted from the aircraft near the big U.S. rescue base at Nakhon Phanom on the Thai bank of the Mekong.

The B52s and their crews had led a charmed life since they began flying combat missions from Guam in 1966. Only 11 planes were lost in thousands of combat missions, and none of them to enemy fire.

The job became routine. The pilots seldom saw the target. They bombed by radar and experienced none of the dangers of the fighter-bomber pilots.

When they began flying missions from Utapao, 90 miles south of Bangkok in April 1967, the job became even more comfortable.

The round trip to the target and back was cut from 14 hours to 3½. The newly constructed beach front base boasted the best amenities in Asia — water skiing, beach barbecues, open air movies, sailing and deep sea fishing.

Theoretically the B52 has the electronic equipment to fight off a missile. An electronic countermeasures officer sits at a darkened console and works at confusing enemy projectiles by jamming their radar, dropping decoy missiles and "chaff," of tinfoil.

The planes are backed up by twin-engine EB66 aircraft which jam enemy radar and 1,600-mile-an-hour F105 "Wild Weasel" aircraft which track the radar and put homing missiles on to the SAM site.

Evidently these have not been enough to protect the 650 m.p.h. bombers.

Five Points News

The Youth group of the Five Points United Methodist Church will meet at the church on Dec. 21 and go caroling at 6 p.m. They plan to leave the church at 6:30. All interested persons plan to be there.

Mrs. Joe Sheets, Mrs. Loring Stoer, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Clara Woods, Mrs. Georgia Dick, Mrs. John Drummond and Miss Laura Long, members of the Monrovian Garden Club conducted a Therapy Program at the Orient State School on Thursday afternoon. There were 33 patients taking part in the program. Pine cone corsages were made using the Christmas theme. At the close of the workship lovely refreshments of cup cakes, candy, popcorn balls and punch were served.

Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roberts of near Newport and Mrs. Goldie Dennis were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Shirley Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene R. Donohoe and sons of near Washington C.H. were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and family.

There were 33 present at the United Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship service followed with 60 present. There will be a Christmas Eve service at the church at 8:30 p.m. with Holy Communion Candlelight service.

David Long of Ohio State University is spending his Christmas vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long.

Mrs. Ray Harden Sr. was returned to Mercy Hospital last week as a medical patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long and son Dick attended the Ohio State University basketball game Saturday at the St. Johns Arena.

The Five Points United Methodist Social Hour Club will meet Thursday night Dec. 28 at 7 p.m. in the church basement. A covered dish supper will precede the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Winfough will be hosts for the evening. All members are urged to attend.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

Judge Reports Threat On Life

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Ashtabula County Common Pleas Court Judge Joseph Mahoney says his life has been threatened since he granted shock probation last week to two Cleveland policemen who were convicted of abducting a woman for immoral purposes.

The judge declined to give details of any of the threats and would not discuss his reasons for granting probation to the former police officers, who had served less than three months of their 5-to-30 year sentences in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Judge Mahoney did say Wednesday that shock probation has been used with good success in Ashtabula County, with fewer than 1 per cent of those so released showing up in court again.

Baran will handle the Guernsey County project — relocation of .40225 kilometer section of State Route 670 extending from the intersection of State Route 265 near Salesville. That's a quarter-mile section.

Ohio's adventure into the world of hectares, kilometers, liters, centimeters and similar unfamiliar measurements actually began last July. Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley wrote an order for pilot highway projects to be carried out under the metric system.

"The best way to learn is by doing," he said, adding "with proper documentation of difficulties encountered."

Two months later, the U.S. Senate passed the Metric Conversion Act. The bill now is in the House Committee on Science and Astronautics.

The act came out of a three-year study by the National Bureau of Standards and calls for a gradual conversion to the metric system over a 10-year period. Conversion would put the United States into line with most of the rest of the world.

When conversion finally comes — if it does — some of the current problems facing Gifford and Baran will disappear.

"You know," said Baran, "on right-of-way, I can't talk to farmers about hectares. They won't know what I'm talking about. They think in terms of acres." A hectare is 2.471 acres.

"And, there's the recorder's office," Baran said. "It records in feet and inches and acres and miles. We'll have to make a translation."

One of the reasons Gifford sees few problems is his design engineer Victor Wolff. Wolff received his engineering training in Holland as a Dutch government engineer before coming to the U.S. He grew up with the Metric system.

Baran, who has no such built-in advantage, said with a laugh: "We may have to go down there to pick his brain."

The pioneering into meters brings up many problems. "The standard highway lane is 12 feet wide," said Baran. "If we convert that to meters we come up with an oddball meter measure."

The conversion, he said, probably will be to a meter measurement near 12 feet.

"Then, there's asphalt. The final asphalt coat is normally one and one-quarter inches thick. We'll have to come close, make it an easier conversion."

There is also an equipment problem, a matter of getting metric tapes and chains, and scales. Electronic measuring devices, originally designed in meters, have been converted long since to U.S. standards.

The biggest enemy will be habit. Transportation employes, like the rest of the country, are used to dealing and thinking in inches, feet, yards, miles and acres.

It isn't easy to change. Department of Transportation headquarters in Columbus found that out. The handout prepared for general distribution, but not circulated, explained in pristine detail about the pioneer excursion into the metric system.

The information was faultless, but when the two pilot projects were described the description came in miles, not kilometers.

B52 Losses Prove Big Jets Vulnerable To Red SAMs

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The loss of six B52 bombers in action, after six years in action without a combat casualty, has proved something the Air Force already knew—the jets are vulnerable to missiles.

For most of the war, the eight-engine Stratofortresses have been confined to areas where surface-to-air missile sites were thin. But in the past few days the big planes, codenamed "Arc Light," have been raiding the well-defended Vietnamese heartland around Hanoi, Haiphong and areas to the north of the cities.

The decision to send the B52s into the high-risk zones around Haiphong and Hanoi apparently was taken because they carry a 30-ton bomb load which they can drop with fine devastating precision.

"It's bad news," said an Air Force officer. "But they have never been in such a high-risk area before. There are overlapping SAM rings up that way and the B52 cannot maneuver like a fighter to dodge the missiles."

The B52s first penetrated deep into North Vietnam in April for raids on Haiphong.

The first B52 loss was in November. A missile damaged one of the bombers over North Vietnam but it limped 100 miles back across Laos to safety. The crew parachuted from the aircraft near the big U.S. rescue base at Nakhon Phanom on the Thai bank of the Mekong.

The B52s and their crews had led a charmed life since they began flying combat missions from Guam in 1966. Only 11 planes were lost in thousands of combat missions, and none of them to enemy fire.

The job became routine. The pilots seldom saw the target. They bombed by radar and experienced none of the dangers of the fighter-bomber pilots.

When they began flying missions from Utapao, 90 miles south of Bangkok in April 1967, the job became even more comfortable.

The round trip to the target and back was cut from 14 hours to 3½. The newly constructed beach front base boasted the best amenities in Asia — water skiing, beach barbecues, open air movies, sailing and deep sea fishing.

Theoretically the B52 has the electronic equipment to fight off a missile. An electronic countermeasures officer sits at a darkened console and works at confusing enemy projectiles by jamming their radar, dropping decoy missiles and "chaff," of tinfoil.

The planes are backed up by twin-engine EB66 aircraft which jam enemy radar and 1,600-mile-an-hour F105 "Wild Weasel" aircraft which track the radar and put homing missiles on to the SAM site.

Evidently these have not been enough to protect the 650 m.p.h. bombers.

Five Points News

The Youth group of the Five Points United Methodist Church will meet at the church on Dec. 21 and go caroling at 6 p.m. They plan to leave the church at 6:30. All interested persons plan to be there.

Mrs. Joe Sheets, Mrs. Loring Stoer, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. Clara Woods, Mrs. Georgia Dick, Mrs. John Drummond and Miss Laura Long, members of the Monrovian Garden Club conducted a Therapy Program at the Orient State School on Thursday afternoon. There were 33 patients taking part in the program. Pine cone corsages were made using the Christmas theme. At the close of the workship lovely refreshments of cup cakes, candy, popcorn balls and punch were served.

Mr. and Mrs. David Anderson of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Roberts of near Newport and Mrs. Goldie Dennis were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Shirley Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene R. Donohoe and sons of near Washington C.H. were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and family.

There were 33 present at the United Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship service followed with 60 present. There will be a Christmas Eve service at the church at 8:30 p.m. with Holy Communion Candlelight service.

David Long of Ohio State University is spending his Christmas vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long.

Mrs. Ray Harden Sr. was returned to Mercy Hospital last week as a medical patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Long and son Dick attended the Ohio State University basketball game Saturday at the St. Johns Arena.

The Five Points United Methodist Social Hour Club will meet Thursday night Dec. 28 at 7 p.m. in the church basement. A covered dish supper will precede the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Winfough will be hosts for the evening. All members are urged to attend.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

Judge Reports Threat On Life

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)— Ashtabula County Common Pleas Court Judge Joseph Mahoney says his life has been threatened since he granted shock probation last week to two Cleveland policemen who were convicted of abducting a woman for immoral purposes.

The judge declined to give details of any of the threats and would not discuss his reasons for granting probation to the former police officers, who had served less than three months of their 5-to-30 year sentences in the Ohio Penitentiary.

Judge Mahoney did say Wednesday that shock probation has been used with good success in Ashtabula County, with fewer than 1 per cent of those so released showing up in court again.

Hanging Evergreen Tree Makes Unique Ornament For Holiday

There's no place like home for the holiday and there is not home like one all dressed in holiday attire for company or the simple enjoyment of family members.

A different way to decorate for the Christmas holiday is to hang your tree of fir, pine or spruce on the wall — and frame it in bright colors as a wall plaque.

This fascinating bit of artwork is accomplished with heavy corrugated board, a number of evergreen branches, an interesting looking picture frame which has been gilded or painted or looks well in its natural shade, some chicken wire and a piece of red, gold or green fabric (or any other shade which would complement your room). Felt or velvet make fine fabric selections.

To make the frame on which to make your holiday greenery picture, cut the cardboard to fit the frame and draw a triangle design on it for the tree. A simple straight-line design works best.

Cut out the triangle piece and cover the remaining piece of board (having the trangle opening in the middle) with the cloth. The cloth should be cut out over the triangle opening, leaving at least one inch of material all around.

Tape (or use some other type adhesive) the material to the board, making sure the cloth is taut.

Now the corrugated board should be completely covered with the material in the opening tightly pulled back and taped to the back of the board.

Place the covered board in the picture frame and cut a piece of chicken wire to fit behind. Staple or tack both covered board and wire firmly to the frame.

Select the supple ends of the branches and strip side branches and all but about three inches of needles at the top. This leaves a pliable end to wind through the chicken wire and hold the greenery in place.

Choose one end to form the top peak of the tree and push it through the chicken wire at the top point of the triangle, interweaving the end through the wire to hold it firmly. Then, selecting other greens, continue weaving the strands through the wire in a similar fashion, forming the branches of your miniature tree.

When finished, make a trunk or base of cardboard or other material. You may leave the tree plain or decorate it with tiny bulbs and garland as you desire, or fasten small decorated boxes around the base as presents.

Your evergreen picture makes an attractive decoration for the holiday and the frame may be carefully saved and re-used for several years after if dismantled and stored with care.

Vegetarian Group Asks Equal Time; Denied By Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Communications Commission official has upheld a Dayton television station's contention that the meat vs. vegetables argument is not "a controversial issue of public importance."

American Vegetarians Inc. has asked WLW-D in Dayton to grant it equal time on the Phil Donahue Show to answer guests who had advocated an all-animal protein diet.

The vegetarians filed a complaint with the FCC under the Fairness Doctrine after the station declined to grant them equal time.

Navy Official Rips Defense Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outspoken Navy procurement official says he's losing faith in the free enterprise system after nine years of watching the nation's largest defense contractors.

Gordon Rule says nationalization of key segments of the defense industry may eventually be an answer.

Testifying Tuesday at a congressional hearing without the usual printed statement, (he said he feared the Navy wouldn't clear one if he had written it,) Rule said President Nixon made a mistake in appointing Roy Ash, former head of Litton Industries, the nation's 11th ranking defense contractor, to direct the federal budget.

The director of the Navy Material command said former President Dwight Eisenhower would be "twitching in his grave," if he could see the way weaponry is purchased now. The military-industrial complex Eisenhower warned of nearly two decades ago, Rule said, has given way to a "military-industry-executive department complex."

In a series of rapid-fire accusations about procurement practices Rule testified before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee:

If Litton's huge shipbuilding contracts for five new helicopter assault ships continues to show insufficient progress by a Feb. 28 deadline, it should be "terminated for default."

—The management of Grumman Aircraft deliberately underbid the competition by $500 million to get the F14 jet fighter contract, then sought a "bail out" for nearly that much when it began losing money.

Rule, 65, a former Navy captain and Washington attorney said he reviews up to $8 billion in procurement each year.

Power Plant Set By 1977

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. (CG&E) and the Dayton Power and Light Co. expect to complete a new, $127 million generating station near Cleves, Ohio, on the Ohio River, by 1977.

CG&E said the unit would generate 500,000 kilowatts. It will be coal-fired.

The plant will have a 350-foot high tower and will recirculate 384,000 gallons of water per-minute.

At the same time, the utilities announced that the proposed William H. Zimmer Nuclear Power Station near Moscow, Ohio, will be delayed. They blamed delays in obtaining a construction permit.

The 840,000 kilowatt nuclear power station had been scheduled for completion in time to meet peak electrical demands in the summer of 1977. No new completion date has been set.

Prisoner Freed 2½ Months Late

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Two and a half months ago, the case charging Paul Garrett with stealing a pack of cigarettes was dismissed. Tuesday, he was released from Metropolitan jail.

Police officials said fouled up paper work wrongly indicated Garrett as out on bond at the time of the dismissal. So Garrett was not told he was free to go.

Brother To Replace Late State Senator

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Sen. Jerry O'Shaughnessy, who died last week, is expected to be replaced in the Ohio Senate by his brother Robert.

Robert O'Shaughnessy was declared the front runner for the replacement by Ohio Democratic Party Executive Director John E. Jones, who had been mentioned for the job, but said he wasn't interested.

Wilamowski Heads Formation Of LE's First Wrestling Team

FIRST FOR LE—Thirty-one students are vying for top positions on Logan Elm's first wrestling team, coached by Stan Wilamowski. Four seniors, ten juniors, 15 sophomores and two freshmen are taking part in the school's initial wrestling competitions. The squad has scheduled 12 meets this year.

By SEPTEMBER YOUNG

Dec. 21 - At Reemelin - 5 p.m.
Jan. 3 - At Carrol - 5 p.m.
Jan. 11 - At Teays Valley - 6 p.m.
Jan. 16 - At Amanda - 5 p.m.
Jan. 20 - At Olentangy & New Albany - 2 p.m.
Jan. 25 - Reserve at L.E. against TV - 6 p.m.
Jan. 31 - Reserve at LE vs. Carrol - 6:30 p.m.
Feb. 1 - At L.E. vs. Reemelin - 6:30 p.m.
Feb. 6 - At. L.E. vs. Amanda - 6:30 p.m.
Feb. 8 - At L.E. vs. Fairfield Union - 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 20 - At L.E. vs. Madison Plains - 6:30 p.m.

Logan Elm Staff Selects Six As Seniors Of Week

By CARLA HOBBLE

She is active in the Future Nurses' Association and the National Honor Society and is treasurer of the NHS. Her likes include working at Norma's basketball, football, snow, weekends, having fun with her friends, and Siamese cats. She lists as her dislikes getting up early in the morning, rainy days, homework, school lunches, and snobby people.

Her activities include the National Honor Society, Teens for Christ, Rainbow, and the Library Staff. She is chaplain of the NHS and writes the "artie" column for the Library Staff. She lists as her likes pizza, listening to records, and advanced composition. Her only dislike is Mr. DeLong's government tests.

Kathy Pine, 17, resides with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pine at Route 4, Circleville. Her activities include the Pep Club and the National Honor Society. She likes the color blue, oranges, sport cars, pickpup trucks, and Jim, but dislikes bossy people and apathy.

Jerry Grunden, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Grunden. He resides at 1820 Sioux Drive, Logan Elm Village with his brother, Albert Grunden.

Denny Hart, 17 lives at Route 1, South Bloomingville with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hart. His only activity is the National Honor Society.

Smoke Signals

By SEPTEMBER YOUNG

Since the Christmas bug has been getting everyone lately, the staff thought it would be appropriate to ask some students and teachers—"What do you want for Christmas and why?"

Polly C.: I want Randy home for Christmas so I won't have a Balou Christmas.

Joe L.: I want my own airplane so I can fly.

Tom S.: I want my two front teeth because I don't have them.

Joyce D.: Equality for all men so there will once again be harmony on Earth.

Lois M.: My Easter Bunny and Buffy back because they belong to me.

Sue K.: I have my Christmas—Joe came back.

Melva H.: A new pair of suede Charley Browns because I need them.

Mr. Wilamowski: Some football tackles for next year so our football team will be complete.

Seniors Pick Choice Of Announcements

By CARLA HOBBLE

As graduation time gets nearer, plans have to be made. On Dec. 4 class officers met and chose the four announcements they preferred. These were put on display in the library window for four days. On Dec. 11, the entire Senior Class chose the one they liked best. Orders were taken on Dec. 12.

Class, Club News Notes

VARSITY CLUB: Selected new members and are working on money-making projects.

GAA: Members are practicing gymnastics

SKANDHA STAFF: Editors selected the covers for the books. Club pictures are being taken. Class layouts will be started next week.

BOWLING CLUB: Members are bowling at Prairie Lanes on Tuesdays from 3:30-6 p.m.

DRILL TEAM: Members will perform Friday night, Dec. 16, at the basketball game.

Farm, School Are Hobbies For Teacher

By CINDY MATHEWS

"I usually try to classify my work, either at school or at home, as my hobbies since I enjoy both teaching and farming. Logan Elm is a good school with many friendly people, and I really like teaching here."

These are the comments of Ron Hoffman, LE's featured teacher of the week.

Graduating from The Ohio State University College of Agriculture, Mr. Hoffman has been a teacher for 5 years. At LE, he teaches Vocational Agriculture, Adult Education in Agriculture, and he is FFA advisor.

"I really enjoy teaching when there are responsive students in the class who want to learn, and I also like Holstein cattle. I don't have many dislikes — I guess my biggest dislike is people who don't keep their word."

Braves Seeking League Title In Basketball

By Ann Wolford

Logan Elm Braves are on the war path. They are out to win this year's SVC race and they have a great start.

In all-around standings the Braves stand 5 and 0. In the SVC race they stand 2 and 0. That's really not bad for a team who has had some of the big chiefs off the team because of sickness.

But the Braves will be back next week and will be out to win. They are looking and working to win that SVC race.

Good Luck Braves.

Monastir is Tunisia's beautiful seaside town to which sun lovers flock from all over western Europe. But to Moslems of 1,000 years ago, Monastir was much more. To stand watch for only three days atop Monastir's fortifications guaranteed immediate entrance, upon death, into Paradise.

Christmas Always Is Favorite Time

By JUDY SMITH

Christmas is my favorite time of the year. Everybody is happily hurrying around to finish all last minute things that have to be done. All the students are noisy, but happy, looking forward to the last day of school before Christmas vacation.

After school, you go home to another hustle and bustle. Mother is baking cookies and candies. All the children are anxious to put up the decorations and best of all the Christmas tree.

The tree is always put up in a happy atmosphere. The children are practically knocking down the tree to see who can put which bulb where. Mother and Father are a nervous wreck wondering what is going to be left after the children are done. Wh e-e-ew! That's done.

Now is the time for Santa. Everyone is excited wondering what he will bring them. Finally the day has come — the house looks like an airplane has just crashed by the tree — but it was all in fun.

The time has come to take everything down and start looking forward to another great Christmas.

Man Being Questioned In Triple Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A 33-year-old East Side man is being held for questioning in the slaying of four persons and wounding of three others in a house where drugs allegedly were sold.

The man was picked up Wednesday in a raid at his home in which two guns and $3,000 in cash were confiscated, police said. They said he is to be viewed by survivors of the shooting spree.

Logan Elm Staff Selects Six As Seniors Of Week

By CARLA HOBBLE

Six seniors are in the spotlight this week. Cindy Norton, 18, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Norton, in Laurelville.

She is active in the Future Nurses' Association and the National Honor Society and is treasurer of the NHS. Her likes include working at Norma's basketball, football, snow, weekends, having fun with her friends, and Siamese cats. She lists as her dislikes getting up early in the morning, rainy days, homework, school lunches, and snobby people.

Her activities include the National Honor Society, Teens for Christ, Rainbow, and the Library Staff. She is chaplain of the NHS and writes the "artie" column for the Library Staff. She lists as her likes pizza, listening to records, and advanced composition. Her only dislike is Mr. DeLong's government tests.

Cathy plans to teach in the junior high level.

Kathy Pine, 17, resides with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pine at Route 4, Circleville. Her activities include the Pep Club and the National Honor Society. She likes the color blue, oranges, sport cars, pickpup trucks, and Jim, but dislikes bossy people and apathy.

Kathy plans to work after graduation.

Jerry Grunden, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Grunden. He resides at 1820 Sioux Drive, Logan Elm Village with his brother, Albert Grunden.

He likes seventh period, study hall, sports, weekends, and girls. His dislikes include parents who do not trust their own kids and snobby girls.

Jerry's plans for the future are uncertain.

Denny Hart, 17 lives at Route 1, South Bloomingville with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hart. His only activity is the National Honor Society.

He lists as his likes seventh period study hall, sports, L.E. ball games, bowling, pool, and girls. He dislikes school and stuck-up girls.

Denny is uncertain about his future plans.

Richard Jones, 17, resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Jones in Laurelville. He is on the basketball team. Richard likes graduation, winning basketball games, hunting, swimming, cars, motorcycles, money, and girls. School, getting up early in the morning, and having the school for eight days are his dislikes.

Smoke Signals

By SEPTEMBER YOUNG

Since the Christmas bug has been getting everyone lately, the staff thought it would be appropriate to ask some students and teachers—— "What do you want for Christmas and why?"

Polly C.: I want Randy home for Christmas so I won't have a Balou Christmas.

Joe L.: I want my own airplane so I can fly.

Tom S.: I want my two front teeth because I don't have them.

Joyce D.: Equality for all men so there will once again be harmony on Earth.

September Y.: A big teddy bear because it reminds me of someone.

Lois M.: My Easter Bunny and Buffy back because they belong to me.

Sue K.: I have my Christmas—Joe came back.

Melva H.: A new pair of suede Charley Browns because I need them.

Mr. Wilamowski: Some football tackles for next year so our football team will be complete.

Seniors Pick Choice Of Announcements

By CARLA HOBBLE

As graduation time gets nearer, plans have to be made. On Dec. 4 class officers met and chose the four announcements they preferred. These were put on display in the library window for four days. On Dec. 11, the entire Senior Class chose the one they liked best. Orders were taken on Dec. 12.

Farm, School Are Hobbies For Teacher

By CINDY MATHEWS

"I usually try to classify my work, either at school or at home, as my hobbies since I enjoy both teaching and farming. Logan Elm is a good school with many friendly people, and I really like teaching here."

These are the comments of Ron Hoffman, LE's featured teacher of the week.

Graduating from The Ohio State University College of Agriculture, Mr. Hoffman has been a teacher for 5 years. At LE, he teaches Vocational Agriculture, Adult Education in Agriculture, and he is FFA advisor.

"I really enjoy teaching when there are responsive students in the class who want to learn, and I also like Holstein cattle. I don't have many dislikes — I guess my biggest dislike is people who don't keep their word."

Braves Seeking League Title In Basketball

By Ann Wolford

Logan Elm Braves are on the war path. They are out to win this year's SVC race and they have a great start.

In all-around standings the Braves stand 5 and 0. In the SVC race they stand 2 and 0. That's really not bad for a team who has had some of the big chiefs off the team because of sickness.

But the Braves will be back next week and will be out to win. They are looking and working to win that SVC race.

Good Luck Braves.

Monastir is Tunisia's beautiful seaside town to which sun lovers flock from all over western Europe. But to Moslems of 1,000 years ago, Monastir was much more. To stand watch for only three days atop Monastir's fortifications guaranteed immediate entrance, upon death, into Paradise.

SEPTEMBER YOUNG
Quill And Scroll

Meet The President

By VANESSA MILLS

EDITOR'S NOTE — Did you ever wonder about the people behind the success of school activities? The president of each organization works hard at his or her elected position. We want you to meet these outstanding students in a series of articles.

September Young is the president of Quill and Scroll, a high school journalism honorary. September was tapped into Quill and Scroll in the spring of last year.

To be eligible for Quill and Scroll, the student must be a junior or senior, active on the school paper or annual staff, and in the upper third of the class scholastically. This fall, September was elected to the office of president.

September is the 17-yearold daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young, Route 1, Stoutsville. Along with her Quill and Scroll duties, she is active in Skandha, Elm Log, Drill Team, Pep Club, and Girls' Athletic Association.

She still finds time for her many hobbies which include motorcycle riding, swimming, taking walks, fashion designing, and crocheting. September enjoys being with Mike, walking in the snow, and wearing blue jeans. Her favorite song is "Stoned In Love With You."

Among her dislikes, September includes people who are vain and people who don't care about anything. After graduation, September plans to attend Bliss College to major in fashion design and merchandising. She also plans to get married.

As President of the Quill and Scroll, September is editor of the Logan Elm News which appears in the Herald every other week. She includes uptodate happenings at Logan Elm in her assignments to the staff and hopes to make our section an interest to all.

When asked how she felt about her job, September stated, "This year we have received a lot of compliments on our section about our articles and the frequent use of pictures. I'm really proud of the other members of Quill and Scroll and think they have done a good job!"

Homemaker Test Given To Students

By Ann Wolford

The Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow Test was given to all Senior Home Ec. and any other senior girls that wanted to take it.

It was given Dec. 5. The test had questions on nutrients, cooking, and charts. There was one essay question on — "Should kids today be free from restraint and why or why not will it work in today's society."

There were 22 girls who participated. There is to be an award given to the girl who scores the highest in the school. She will then have the chance to go on to the district competition.

Cindy, Mike November LE Students

By CINDY MATHEWS

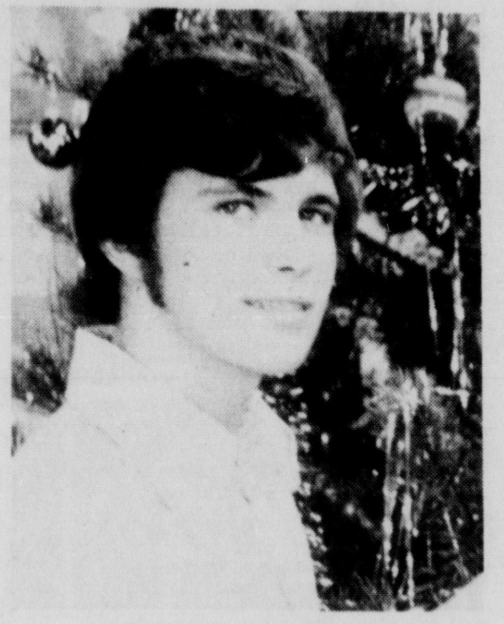
Cindy, daughter of Mrs. Louise Mathews, lives in Tarlton. Her activities include GAA, NHS, Quill and Scroll, co-editor of the Skandha, and Pep Club.

CINDY MATHEWS

She likes Fridays, pizza, having fun, and free orange sherbert ice cream cones and dislikes two-faced people and being sad. When told she was student of the month she started laughing because she thought they were kidding.



MIKE HOLBROOK

Mike resides at Route 1, Circleville, with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Holbrook.

He is active in varsity baseball, varsity basketball, president of varsity club, president of choir, boys' ensemble, and FCA. Among Mike's likes are good food, Debbie, baseball, basketball, and winter. He dislikes stuckup people. His reaction to being chosen was "surprised."

Mark And Doug See Farming And Mechanics For Careers

By TONY CARROLL

Mark Paxton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Paxton of Big Pine, is a junior and the treasurer for the Logan Elm Future Farmers of America.

Last year for a project, Mark carried 12 sows and 24 acres of corn and showed two feeder pigs at the Hocking County Fair. He cleared over $100 on his feeder pigs. He also took wheat, corn, spelts, cloverseed, oats, and a garden display.

This year Mark is carrying 18 sows for a project. He plans to farm when he graduates and is building his farming program while he is in school through vocational agriculture and the FFA. Mark is very interested in swine production and had a 9.6 pig average on the last group of sows he farrowed.

Doug Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baldwin of Haynes, is the the Future Farmers of America.

Last year for a project he carried one steer of which he cleared over $150. He also took garden and other produce to the fair, all of which took A ribbons.

This year he plans to carry two steers as a project, one being pure bred and the other cross bred. For an improvement project, he plans to make new equipment and other merchandise to fully accommodate his livestock.

Doug is very active in the FFA, having participated in several FFA activities including Public Speaking, Timber Cruising, and Parliamentary Procedure. Doug feels that the FFA is an organization that can help young men gain many desirable qualities if they will just work and put forth some effort.

Doug plans to go into some phase of mechanics upon graduation and is critical of Logan Elm for not having enough facilities for training in the area of mechanics.

Turner-Slagle Race Testimony Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court is to hear testimony next week on charges by State Sen. Robin Turner, R-14 Marion, that November balloting in the Ohio Senate race he lost to Democrat Gene Slagle contained errors.

Slagle was declared the winner by 155 votes. Turner, a 10-year veteran legislator, claimed there were errors in Marion and Crawford counties. The Supreme Court will hear the case, then file a transcript with the Senate, which will decide whether or not to order a new election.

Catch Of Lifetime Fatal To Fisherman

ANGERS, France (AP) — Roger Expert's emotion at catching a 15-pound pike was so great that he fell over dead on the spot.

"It's the biggest catch of my life," exclaimed the 61-year-old amateur fisherman before dying in front of his horrified wife and son. He had battled with the fish for a half-hour before landing it.

Campaign Chief Sees New-Style Politics

DENVER (AP) — The campaign tactics of presidential contenders of the future will be radically different from those or their predecessors says Gary Hart, who masterminded George McGovern's unsuccessful bid for the White House this year.

"This year we were tampering with some outmoded political devices that have never been brought into the 20th century," he said in an interview shortly before he left St. Joseph's Hospital in Denver, where he was recovering from the removal of a benign lump at the base of his throat. A Denver resident, Hart plans to resume law practice and write a book on the campaign.

He predicted future presidential candidates would instead visit areas symbolizing campaign issues, such as ghettoes, schools, hospitals and prisons.

"The candidate will talk to people at the locations and the press will cover the encounters," he said. "You'll no longer see a George McGovern in front of 25,000 selected people shouting hoarsely into a microphone."

Hart said other traditional events, such as motorcades, will also be abandoned, in favor of a campaign focused on issues and designed to attract massive news media coverage, especially television.

Hart said the voters were distracted from the "real issues" of the Democratic campaign in 1972 such as the war and alleged corruption in the Nixon administration.

He blamed the situation on mistakes by the Democrats. He criticized attacks during the presidential primaries by presidential hopefuls such as Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., on McGovern's welfare and tax reform plans. These attacks "made it legitimate for Democrats to flee the candidate," Hart said.

The salient event in McGovern's decline is represented in Hart's mind by the circumstances surrounding the withdrawal of Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., as McGovern's running mate.

"The people got hung up on the level of competence," Hart said. "They ended up preferring the devil they knew to the devil they didn't know."

Hart rejected the idea that a candidate can be packaged and sold to the American public by slick media management.

"In '72 Nixon avoided controversy altogether," Hart said. "But people are too sophisticated now. I think '68 was the last year that packaging worked. And remember that even then, Nixon blew a huge lead."

Another political device that he thinks will fall by the wayside is the campaign endorsement.

"One thing we disproved this year was that one political figure can do something for another," he said. "Endorsements mean very little."

Wine And Nuts For Birds

The feasts began with the ceremonial entrance of the hunters, musicians, and the master cook, the latter carrying the head of a boar on a silver platter. A lemon, the Norse symbol of plenty, was wedged in the boar's mouth and twines of rosemary and laurel encircled the massive head.

"Here's a recipe from the 19th century that reveals the tender loving care our ancestors afforded turkeys being prepared for the holiday season," says Sally Hopkins, holiday consultant of Hallmark Cards.

"Coop up turkey some time before Christmas and feed well. Three days before slaughtering, force an English walnut down its throat three times a day, and a glass of sherry once a day. The meat will be deliciously tender and have a fine nutty flavor."

One from 1394 instructs: "A pheasant, a capon, two partridges, two pigions, and two rabbits. Separate meat from bones and chip into fine hash. Add the livers and hearts of these animals, plus two kidneys of sheep. Add little meat balls of beef with eggs. Add pickled mushrooms, salt, pepper, vinegar and various spices and pour it into the broth in which the bones were cooked."

We owe the origin of Christmas cookies to the ancient Roman Empire where it was the custom to give gaily wrapped confections to Roman senators as part of the New Year celebrations.

During the early years of Christianity, cookies baked at Yuletide contained a mixture of many spices. It was believed that these spices were symbolic of the offerings brought to the Infant Jesus by the Wise Men. It became a tradition throughout the world and homemakers developed their own special recipes using their particular native spices and ingredients.

WW II Ammo Still Killing People

HONIARA, Solomon Islands (AP) — World War II ammunition is killing people who were not even born when the fierce fighting on Guadalcanal ended.

Latest victim was a boy, 15, who suffered shrapnel wounds when a shell exploded under a cooking fire in a school on bangara Island. He died while being taken by canoe to Gizo Hospital.

Customs and police on this former battleground are stepping up precautions at the international airport, Hendersons Field, to stop people taking wartime souvenirs with them on the plane.

Three souvenirs in the luggage of one passenger on the regular airline were found on arrival at Kieta in New Guinea to be two hand grenades and a mortar shell, all in a highly dangerous condition.

People in the Solomons have been told not to give or sell old munitions to travelers, and a sign has gone up at the airport saying passengers are forbidden to carry war-time souvenirs.

Problem Solved

MONTREAL (AP) — Dr. Yukio Tanaka, a McGill University chemistry professor, says he has discovered that molecular compounds occurring naturally in citrus fruits and seaweed are a simple, inexpensive antidote for metallic poisoning. He says the compounds combine with excess metals, prevent their absorption in the body and are excreted harmlessly.

Explo '72 Booms Dallas Bus Business

DALLAS (AP) — Chalk up another plus for Explo '72, the worldwide youth for Christ meeting this summer in Dallas. It gave the Dallas Transit System a rare financial plus in June.

Transit General Manager Wilson Driggs reported that charter revenues increased $119,989.62, which represents a 251 per cent rise over the same month in 1971.

Explo '72, which attracted more than 100,000 young men and women from all over the world, generated nearly $108,000 in charter revenues for the transit firm.

Women Get Shopping Spree

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Instead of the usual Christmas bonus, John Kell Martin III decided to treat his seven women employes to a shopping spree, lunch and an afternoon at the beauty parlor.

"After I heard about the fun everyone had, I felt like going down to the company and putting in my application," Martin's wife Randy, 24, said Wednesday.

Martin, 34, president of a mortgage loan company in Palm Beach, said he wanted to do something special this year to show his women employes how much he appreciated them.

So Tuesday morning Martin and the women started shophopping down exclusive Worth Avenue. The only limits he put on the shopping trip was that they had to purchase a "working outfit" and hold the total bill to $75 each. He went along to help pick out the clothes and sign the checks.

"Look at me, Hollywood, I just got off the airplane," said Donna Naglreiter, 28, as she dramatically draped herself in a green ostrich-feathered boa.

"I've found it!" shouted Joanna Tait, 30, as she emerged from a dressing room modeling a tailored blue-and-white checked pants outfit with a white blazer.

Glancing toward Martin, she noted his nod of approval and firmly told the clerk: "Wrap it up, I'll take it."

At lunchtime Martin, laden with gaily-wrapped packages and leading his charges down the street single file, took them to a French restaurant. Later he dropped them off at a beauty spa for an afternoon of pampering by hairdressers, pedicurists, manicurists and mud pack specialists.

Promptly at 5 o'clock he returned to load them in his auto and whisk them off for cocktails.

"Several of our friends were in the cocktail lounge when Kell and the girls, all gussied up in their new outfits and hairdos, made their entrance," said Mrs. Martin. "I am told their appearance created sort of a mini sensation."

Asked why he did such a thing, Martin replied:

"I was tired of the usual Christmas bonuses and I thought this would be a lot of fun," he said. "Besides that, I really happen to believe it's nicer to give than to receive, and I don't think I've ever felt more like that than I have today."

Campaign Chief Sees New-Style Politics

DENVER (AP) — The campaign tactics of presidential contenders of the future will be radically different from those or their predecessors says Gary Hart, who masterminded George McGovern's unsuccessful bid for the White House this year.

"The people are just too sophisticated now," Hart said, "You can't use the old methods any more."

Hart, 35, was the 1972 campaign manager for Senator McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

"This year we were tampering with some outmoded political devices that have never been brought into the 20th century," he said in an interview shortly before he left St. Joseph's Hospital in Denver, where he was recovering from the removal of a benign lump at the base of his throat. A Denver resident, Hart plans to resume law practice and write a book on the campaign.

Among the tactics Hart predicted would be abandoned is the large-scale formal political rally, which he called "a device of the 19th Century."

He predicted future presidential candidates would instead visit areas symbolizing campaign issues, such as ghettoes, schools, hospitals and prisons.

"The candidate will talk to people at the locations and the press will cover the encounters," he said. "You'll no longer see a George McGovern in front of 25,000 selected people shouting hoarsely into a microphone."

Hart said other traditional events, such as motorcades, will also be abandoned, in favor of a campaign focused on issues and designed to attract massive news media coverage, especially television.

Hart said the voters were distracted from the "real issues" of the Democratic campaign in 1972 such as the war and alleged corruption in the Nixon administration.

He blamed the situation on mistakes by the Democrats. He criticized attacks during the presidential primaries by presidential hopefuls such as Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., on McGovern's welfare and tax reform plans. These attacks "made it legitimate for Democrats to flee the candidate," Hart said.

The salient event in McGovern's decline is represented in Hart's mind by the circumstances surrounding the withdrawal of Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., as McGovern's running mate.

"The people got hung up on the level of competence," Hart said. "They ended up preferring the devil they knew to the devil they didn't know."

Hart rejected the idea that a candidate can be packaged and sold to the American public by slick media management.

"In '72 Nixon avoided controversy altogether," Hart said. "But people are too sophisticated now. I think '68 was the last year that packaging worked. And remember that even then, Nixon blew a huge lead."

Another political device that he thinks will fall by the wayside is the campaign endorsement.

"One thing we disproved this year was that one political figure can do something for another," he said. "Endorsements mean very little."

Wine And Nuts For Birds

In medieval England, for instance, Christmas feasts lasted several days and were extremely jubilant affairs.

The feasts began with the ceremonial entrance of the hunters, musicians, and the master cook, the latter carrying the head of a boar on a silver platter. A lemon, the Norse symbol of plenty, was wedged in the boar's mouth and twines of rosemary and laurel encircled the massive head.

In America, bringing in a boar's head did not catch on. Instead, the turkey soon became a favorite and almost symbolic Christmas dish.

"Here's a recipe from the 19th century that reveals the tender loving care our ancestors afforded turkeys being prepared for the holiday season," says Sally Hopkins, holiday consultant of Hallmark Cards.

"Coop up turkey some time before Christmas and feed well. Three days before slaughtering, force an English walnut down its throat three times a day, and a glass of sherry once a day. The meat will be deliciously tender and have a fine nutty flavor."

Mince pie also dates back to ancient days. Some of the recipes for it stretched the imagination, too.

One from 1394 instructs: "A pheasant, a capon, two partridges, two pigions, and two rabbits. Separate meat from bones and chip into fine hash. Add the livers and hearts of these animals, plus two kidneys of sheep. Add little meat balls of beef with eggs. Add pickled mushrooms, salt, pepper, vinegar and various spices and pour it into the broth in which the bones were cooked."

This was accepted while Catholicism reigned in England. However, when the Puritans prevailed, controversy raged.

We owe the origin of Christmas cookies to the ancient Roman Empire where it was the custom to give gaily wrapped confections to Roman senators as part of the New Year celebrations.

During the early years of Christianity, cookies baked at Yuletide contained a mixture of many spices. It was believed that these spices were symbolic of the offerings brought to the Infant Jesus by the Wise Men. It became a tradition throughout the world and homemakers developed their own special recipes using their particular native spices and ingredients.

Santa and the ICE KING

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: Santa's attempt to make a match between the Sun Daughter and the Ice King failed miserably. In anger and shame, the Ice King is determined to go back to his castle to grind out more winter.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
ONE MOR TRY

"What will we do?" whispered Oonik as the sled flew away. "The Ice King will never stop making winter now."

"We'll make on more try," said Santa. "This one I think will do."

"Who is she?" ask Oonik.

"The Ice Queen of the South," said Santa.

"Oh, yes," said Santa. "She lives at the South Pole where, I have heard, it is colder by far than at our home in the North."

The Ice King had buried his head in the polar bear's fur to hide his tears of shame and sorrow at being rejected by the Sun Daughter. As the reindeer sped toward the South Pole it grew colder and colder and the Ice King, thinking they were nearing home, raised his head and shouted gleefully, "I must have left my ice machine going full blast!"

"It is the South Pole," replied Santa. "The Ice Queen lives here. I have brought you to ask for her hand."

"Never!" roared the king. "I told you I would never humble myself again. Evervone hates me and I hate everyone and that's the end of that." And he threw himself down beside the polar bear and refused to budge an inch.

Santa left him there and went into the Ice Queen's palace. Now the Ice Queen's palace was just like the Ice King's castle. Everything was made of ice and far above Santa could be heard the same grinding, clattering noise he had heard at the King's home. Santa went up in a winding icy staircase and found the Ice Queen energetically working her ice machines and pumping her wind bellows.

But this was as it should be for at the South Pole winter always came in June and July and August and when December, January and February came, the Ide Queen would stop her work for it would be summertime in her upside down world.

Santa had to holler to make himself heard over the noise. "I've brought you a suitor!" he bellowed.

The Ice Queen stopped pounding and pumping. She was tall and regal looking and she too had icicles in her hair and frost on her eyebrows.

"A suitor?" she exclaimed blushing. "What nonsence! Who would ever want to marry me?"

"He's in my sled," said Santa. "Come and see."

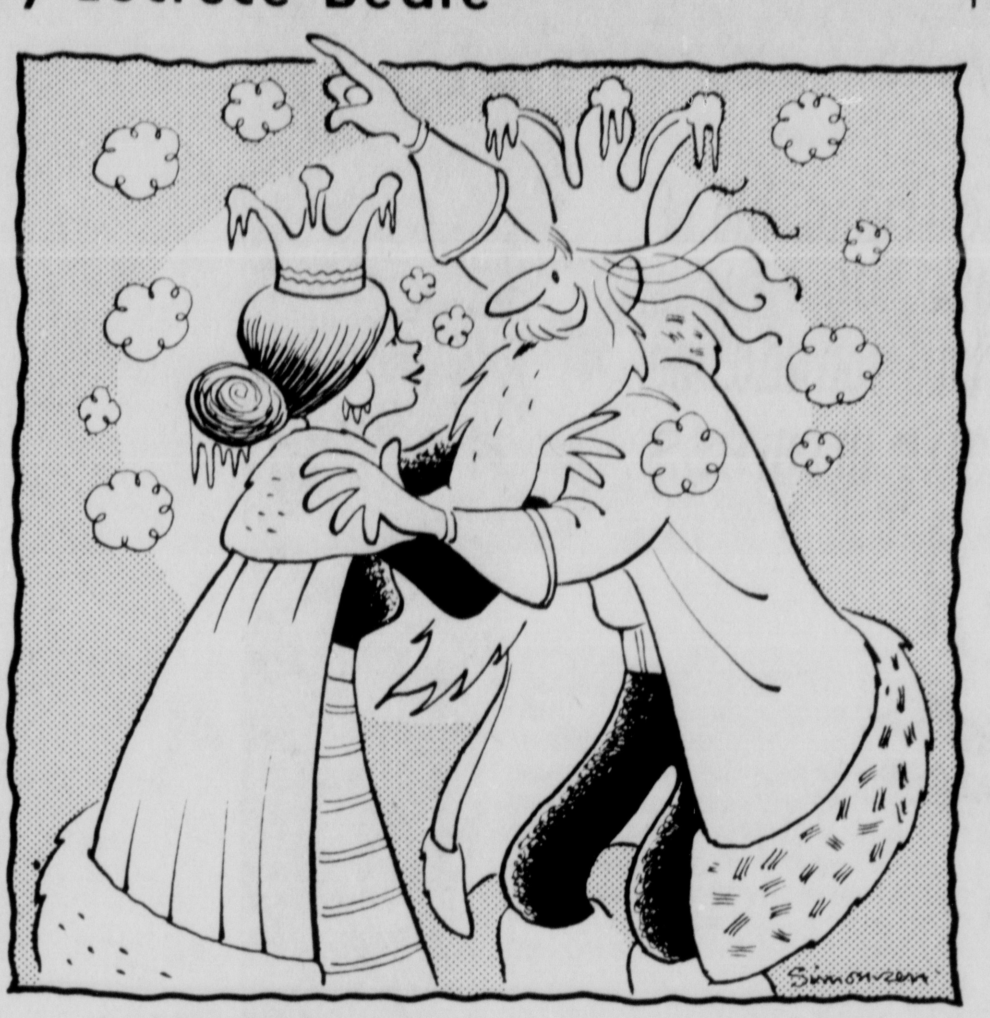
The Ice King raised his sullen eyes and when he saw her his heart turned over. He got out of the sled and took one step toward the Queen and then they both gulped and cried out, "Oh, would you marry me?"

They fell in each other's arms and Oonik jumped up and down with joy and Keotuk barked and even the polar bear looked pleased.



"Fly with me to the North," said the Ice King.

Then the Ice King said, "Fly with me now to my castle in the north."

But the Queen said, "I can't do that for it is wintertime at the South Pole and I must keep things cold."

"What is so funny?" demanded the Ice King.

"You!" cried Santa. "You've forgotten it's August! It should be summer in the North and you're not needed or wanted there at all!

Use Of Check Thumbprints Cuts San Francisco Fraud

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some stores are literally turning thumbs down when it comes to accepting checks — they're asking the customer to submit to a thumbprint.

If the patron declines, his check will be refused, or, in some cases, he will be asked to submit to a photograph.

The stores are using a fingerprinting machine which is unique in that it avoids customer contact with ink or chemicals.

With the words, "Please personalize your check by pressing your thumb here," the customer is asked to deposit his invisible thumbprint on the back of his check. The clerk then inserts the check in a telephone size machine, called an Identicator, presses a lever and, presto, out comes a black fingerprint.

"People are very aware of crime today," he said. "Once they understand this is only to deter crime, they won't mind. What's the difference between their signing a check and giving a print?"

During a four-month trial in 100 Redwood City stores, Police Chief John McDonald said bad check artists were so leary of the black box that reported fraud and forgery cases were down 32 per cent from the same period the previous year.

"All of a sudden people stopped passing bad paper in Redwood City," McDonald said. An estimated $10,000 was saved by the city's merchants, including about $4,500 by one large discount store.

The Identicator's main advantage, he said, is that it prevents forgers and those dealing in stolen checks from commiting their crime without leaving behind incriminating evidence — their fingerprint.

Pieper said he has heard few complaints from customers who feel their privacy is being invaded.

One store trying the devices, Sears Roebuck and Co. here, asks for fingerprints on all checks over $10. Steve Belavich, Sears regional head of security, said, "We don't require them to have a fingerprint."

But customers who refuse then are asked to show standard identification papers and to submit to a mug shot.

Robin Hood Must Be Good Archer

LONDON (AP) — British actor Edward Woodward, who will play Robin Hood in a Christmas show, is practicing with his bow and arrows in his back yard. And he finds the going tough.

"My fingers are getting very raw, and I'm having to use spirit to harden the skin," he said. The show is expected to run from Christmas through April. "I've got to hit that bull's eye four times a day," Woodward said.

Cathode Ray Tube Gets Thinner

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — GTE Sylvania Incorporated is demonstrating a thin profile cathode ray tube only 1½ inches thick. The device is the thinnest CRT ever developed.

Initially produced for airborne cockpit display applications, by Northrup Corp., the tube has been adapted for industrial and commercial uses.

Washington Children Attend Holiday Party

For 20 minutes a team called Henrietta Hippo, Freddie the Frog and Charlie the Owl led the 515 invited young guests in singing, clapping, stamping and jumping exercises in the East Ballroom Monday.

Sun And Beer For Aussies

SIDNEY, Australia (AP) — Alice Springs is a hot, dusty but green oasis bang in the middle of Australia.

It is surrounded by hundreds of thousands of square miles of red-tinged scrubland which around Christmas really starts to shimmer and simmer as temperatures climb toward 95 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade.

But in the local newsagent's shop, the racks of Christmas cards still include many depicting snow, sleighs, red-breasted robins and equally — cold induced — red-cheeked jolly Santas wrapped up in frost-fighting red tunic with white fur trimming.

Turkey remains as the traditional fare, though the sizzling hot Englisy-style variety for Christmas dinner is giving way to cold fowl. And the popularity of plumduff pudding is waning against the onslught of fruit salad and cream.

Between quaffing deeply chilled cans of beer, deeply tanned residents go swimming in home pools. If they — or a neighbor — don't have a pool, an occasional saunter through the lukewarm waters of the garden sprinkler suffices.

With minor variations, this is how Christmas is in Australia where the southern hemisphere summer has still not managed to take over completely from the English heritage of the vast majority of its 13 million people.

In the major cities scattered round the coastline of this three million square mile country, hundreds of thousands of people spend Christmas on the beaches, swimming and surfing in the sea, sweating and swilling on the sand under a sunshade.

As much as anything else, this formula gives Mum a Christmas break, too. With the cooking and other preparations for the outing being done on Christmas Eve, and Christmas morning involving only the packing of lunch in "eskies" — insulated carrybags which help keep the turkey and beers cold.

With two million British immigrants since World War II, the telephone lines for Christmas Day calls to the United Kingdom are booked out months in advance.

The time difference can be disconcerting for telephone well-wishers. A call made from Sydney at midday would rouse the English relatives at 2 a.m. — which even at Christmas can strain relations.

In Sydney this year, there was some strain on children's credulity, too. A department store introduced Santa Claus in July, explaining that it was just a flying visit to make sure the children were behaving themselves.

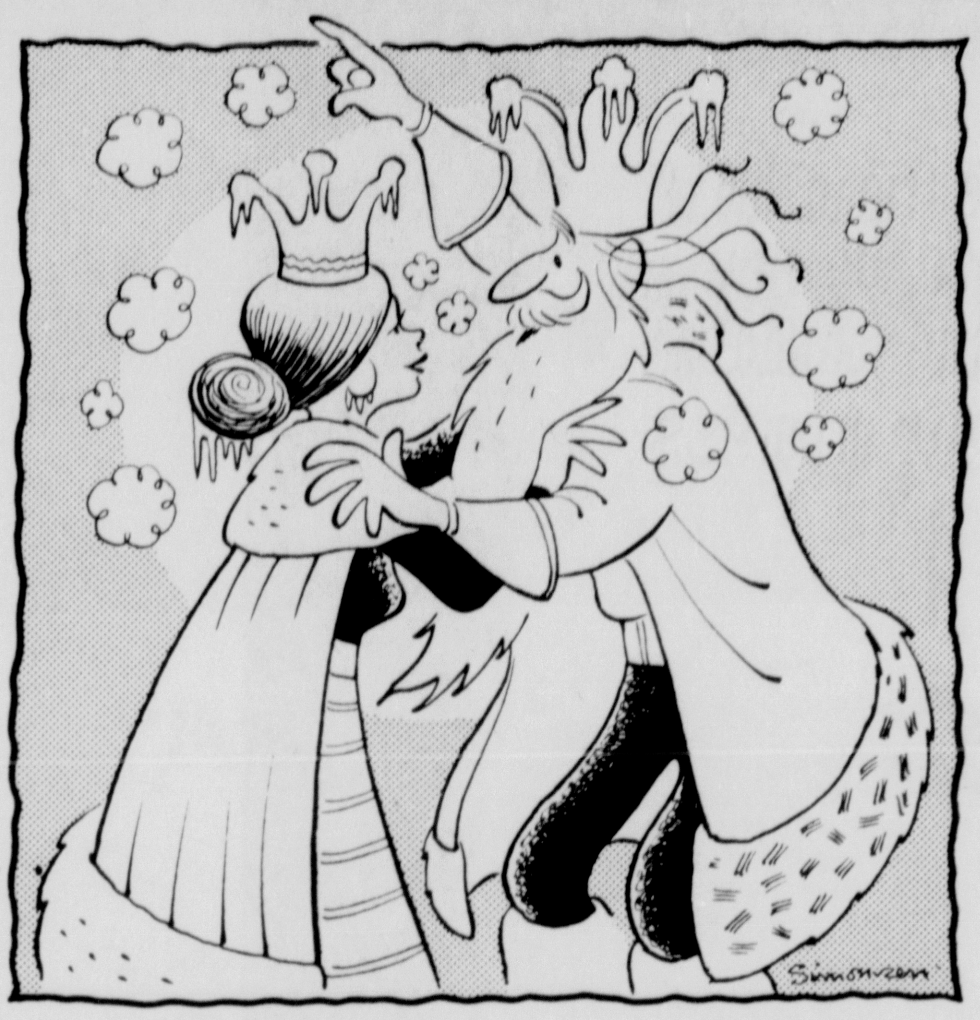
The Ice King raised his sullen eyes and when he saw her his heart turned over. He got out of the sled and took one step toward the Queen and then they both gulped and cried out, "Oh, would you marry me?"

They fell in each other's arms and Oonik jumped up and down with joy and Keotuk barked and even the polar bear looked pleased.



"Fly with me to the North," said the Ice King.

Then the Ice King said, "Fly with me now to my castle in the north."

But the Queen said, "I can't do that for it is wintertime at the South Pole and I must keep things cold."

Santa burst into laughter. He laughed until the tears rolled down his cheeks.

"What is so funny?" demanded the Ice King.

"You!" cried Santa. "You've forgotten it's August! It should be summer in the North and you're not needed or wanted there at all!

Use Of Check Thumbprints Cuts San Francisco Fraud

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some stores are literally turning thumbs down when it comes to accepting checks — they're asking the customer to submit to a thumbprint.

If the patron declines, his check will be refused, or, in some cases, he will be asked to submit to a photograph.

The stores are using a fingerprinting machine which is unique in that it avoids customer contact with ink or chemicals.

With the words, "Please personalize your check by pressing your thumb here," the customer is asked to deposit his invisible thumbprint on the back of his check. The clerk then inserts the check in a telephone size machine, called an Identicator, presses a lever and, presto, out comes a black fingerprint.

"People are very aware of crime today," he said. "Once they understand this is only to deter crime, they won't mind. What's the difference between their signing a check and giving a print?"

During a four-month trial in 100 Redwood City stores, Police Chief John McDonald said bad check artists were so leary of the black box that reported fraud and forgery cases were down 32 per cent from the same period the previous year.

"All of a sudden people stopped passing bad paper in Redwood City," McDonald said. An estimated $10,000 was saved by the city's merchants, including about $4,500 by one large discount store.

The Identicator's main advantage, he said, is that it prevents forgers and those dealing in stolen checks from commiting their crime without leaving behind incriminating evidence — their fingerprint.

What's more, McDonald said, stores reported a sharp decline in checks returned for insufficient funds.

Pieper said he has heard few complaints from customers who feel their privacy is being invaded.

One store trying the devices, Sears Roebuck and Co. here, asks for fingerprints on all checks over $10. Steve Belavich, Sears regional head of security, said, "We don't require them to have a fingerprint."

But customers who refuse then are asked to show standard identification papers and to submit to a mug shot.

Robin Hood Must Be Good Archer

LONDON (AP) — British actor Edward Woodward, who will play Robin Hood in a Christmas show, is practicing with his bow and arrows in his back yard. And he finds the going tough.

"My fingers are getting very raw, and I'm having to use spirit to harden the skin," he said. The show is expected to run from Christmas through April. "I've got to hit that bull's eye four times a day," Woodward said.

Cathode Ray Tube Gets Thinner

Initially produced for airborne cockpit display applications, by Northrup Corp., the tube has been adapted for industrial and commercial uses.

Washington Children Attend Holiday Party

For 20 minutes a team called Henrietta Hippo, Freddie the Frog and Charlie the Owl led the 515 invited young guests in singing, clapping, stamping and jumping exercises in the East Ballroom Monday.

Sun And Beer For Aussies

SIDNEY, Australia (AP) — Alice Springs is a hot, dusty but green oasis bang in the middle of Australia.

It is surrounded by hundreds of thousands of square miles of red-tinged scrubland which around Christmas really starts to shimmer and simmer as temperatures climb toward 95 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade.

But in the local newsagent's shop, the racks of Christmas cards still include many depicting snow, sleighs, red-breasted robins and equally — cold induced — red-cheeked jolly Santas wrapped up in frost-fighting red tunic with white fur trimming.

Turkey remains as the traditional fare, though the sizzling hot Englisy-style variety for Christmas dinner is giving way to cold fowl. And the popularity of plumduff pudding is waning against the onslught of fruit salad and cream.

Between quaffing deeply chilled cans of beer, deeply tanned residents go swimming in home pools. If they — or a neighbor — don't have a pool, an occasional saunter through the lukewarm waters of the garden sprinkler suffices.

With minor variations, this is how Christmas is in Australia where the southern hemisphere summer has still not managed to take over completely from the English heritage of the vast majority of its 13 million people.

In the major cities scattered round the coastline of this three million square mile country, hundreds of thousands of people spend Christmas on the beaches, swimming and surfing in the sea, sweating and swilling on the sand under a sunshade.

As much as anything else, this formula gives Mum a Christmas break, too. With the cooking and other preparations for the outing being done on Christmas Eve, and Christmas morning involving only the packing of lunch in "eskies" — insulated carrybags which help keep the turkey and beers cold.

With two million British immigrants since World War II, the telephone lines for Christmas Day calls to the United Kingdom are booked out months in advance.

The time difference can be disconcerting for telephone well-wishers. A call made from Sydney at midday would rouse the English relatives at 2 a.m. — which even at Christmas can strain relations.

In Sydney this year, there was some strain on children's credulity, too. A department store introduced Santa Claus in July, explaining that it was just a flying visit to make sure the children were behaving themselves.

Christmas renews in the hearts of mankind the joy and wonder of the shepherds as they watched by night . . . the all-pervading love of the Saviour.
